Today

Thanks, Japan.
Gold, Going Out.
Cold Feet, High Up.
Pullman Berth for Two.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

DRAW IN YOUR breath in Oriental fashion and thank Japan with a deep bow. Her statesmen do not want us meddling with her affairs, and they demand that the League of Nations cancel our invitation to help in the row between China and Japan.

Be grateful to the Japanese for doing for us what our own government does not do. But do not be sure that we shall keep out, even with Japan's none too complimentary assistance. We have men, we have money; Europe likes to use them.

TROUBLE IN CHINA and Japan begins as usual. Japan discovers that it is necessary to take "protective measures" and send in protective forces. Japan is worried about the possibility of danger to a small Japanese military outpost. Such little things are kindling wood for a great fire.

THE FEDERAL Reserve Bank reports constant withdrawals from our gold supply. For instance, yesterday France took $42,146,000 more of our gold, requesting that a large part be sent in American $20 gold pieces. The French like to collect them.

Nearly $1,000,000,000 in gold has been taken from our supply within four weeks. That should make somebody thoughtful.

YOU WILL LEARN with interest that France has balanced her budget "without resorting to loans, increasing taxes or drawing on the sinking fund.

Our budget balance is out of gear by more than $1,000,000,000. England cannot balance her budget that requires £4,000,000,000, and knocks down the value of her pound to decrease the real amount of her debt.

The French are able financiers and business people. Their head men will soon be here in the United States to prove it to us, and we ought to learn something from them.

SENATOR WALSH, of Massachusetts, says the duty of business leaders is to restore prosperity and end the slump, and if business leaders don't do it, the law makers will.

It will be interesting to see just what the lawmakers do. Unfortunately, you can't make prosperity by law any more than you can make total abstinence by law.

MR. HYDE, Secretary of Agriculture, talks plainly on the radio:

That's true. It tells how high finance is shoveling out at any price the tens and hundreds of millions of shares of stock that it printed when fools were buying them.

MR. HYDE also says "cold feet in high places" cause trouble, also a fact. The heart knoweth his own bitterness, those in high places know what fearful "junk" they unloaded on the public during the boom.

No wonder their feet are cold. They would be frozen if this were not, as Lord Northcliffe used to say, "a very docile people."

THE PULLMAN Company, compelled to cut dividends yesterday for lack of earnings, requests permission to make a small extra charge of 20 per cent when two sleep in one berth.

The demand is reasonable. Hotels charge more for two in a room. When George M. Pullman sold berths in his first car running from Chicago to Springfield, each berth was sold to two as a matter of course, and each one paid his half.

You know the story about the indignant passenger who said to Pullman:

The long-legged one was Abraham Lincoln.

THOMAS A. EDISON'S end is near.

He has lain in a stupor for two days, and for several days has been unable to drink water or other fluid, he has eaten nothing for six days.

The task of leaving this life in which he has worked so hard will soon be over. And his name will live when the so-called "great" of his day shall be forgotten.

AS FRANCE gathers in the gold of the world, by tens, hundreds, thousands of millions Le Matin, of Paris, says without a smile, gold comes to France because "holders of capital wish to transfer their holdings to a peaceful country, while converting their wealth into money of proved stability."

"Some nation must start a recovery, why not Canada?"

The recovery ought to be started by this nation, and it will be before long. It would have started some time ago, except that financial institutions had first to shed their burden of worthless stocks, while sacrificing good properties, for the sake of the magic word "liquidity."

When our "cold feet in high places" get warmer a little, you will see a change.

U. S. ENTERS PARLEY OF LEAGUE

International News Service.

Abandoning her previous policy, the United States sat down with the League Council tonight in an effort to prevent the outbreak of war between China and Japan over Manchuria.

This is the first occasion since the league was actually organized 11 years ago that the United States has accepted participation in league consultations on any issue of such major importance.

In eagerness to obtain America's aid, the League Council powers voted today to invoke the Kellog anti-war pact, which the United States sponsored, as the first step to maintain peace in the Far East.

Japan still firmly opposes the league's action in inviting the United States and in its resort to the Kellogg pact. A Tokio war office spokesman declared Japan should withdraw from the league.

U. S. in Parley, but Shuns Any Disciplinary Action

GENEVA, Oct. 16.—The United States tonight formally entered League of Nations negotiations to settle the menacing Sino-Japanese dispute when Consul General Prentiss Gilbert, on instructions from Washington, took his seat with the League Council at a meeting which convened at 6:15 p. m.

Gilbert, a few hours earlier, had informed the League Secretariat of America's acceptance of the

GRAPE PRODUCT OUTLAWED

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The sale of unfermented grape concentrate designed for the manufacture of alcoholic beverages was held by Federal District Judge Merrill E. Otis today to be in violation of the national prohibition laws.

Judge Otis convicted the Ukiah Grape Products Company, Inc., of New York, on seven counts charging violation of the prohibition laws in a test case to determine the legality of the sale of grape concentrate which may be turned into wine.

At the Ukiah Grape Products Company offices in the Grant Building it was said the Kansas City ruling would not stop local sales.

JURY INDICTS CANNON ON VOTE FUND

Woman Aide Also Held in Failure to Report Gift of Big Sum in Anti-Smith War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., was indicted today for conspiracy to violate the federal corrupt practices act in his handling of funds of the anti-Smith Democratic Committee in 1928.

Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, Va., who was treasurer of the committee headed by the Southern Methodist clergyman, was indicted with him.

The two were ordered to trial by a District of Columbia grand jury on charges of failing to report contributions of $65,300 by E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist and Republican, as required by the federal statutes.

ACCUSED ON 10 COUNTS

They were indicted on 10 counts.

Pending the fixing of a date for trial, counsel prepared to arrange bond of $1,000 set by the District Attorney for the bishop and Miss Burroughs. If convicted the two are liable to a fine of not more than $10,000 and imprisonment for not more than two years.

When the jury made its report today, District Attorney Rover in a statement said requests by the bishop to appear before the grand jury and to have certain other witnesses appear were transmitted by him to the jury, and "that body was advised it was within its province to grant the request if it so desired."

Bishop Cannon, who defied the authority of the Senate Campaign Funds Committee in its inquiry into his handling of anti-Smith funds, repeatedly stated that he would welcome a grand jury inquiry.

CITES RELIGION

Since the grand jury took up the case, the bishop in one of his public statements called attention that District Attorney Leo A. Rover was a Catholic. Rover put the case in the hands of an assistant, John J. Wilson, who has stated that he is a Republican, a Protestant and a dry.

Robert H. McNeill, attorney for Cannon, issued a statement today expressing confidence that "a full and open hearing, when all the facts can be brought out, will vindicate the conduct of Bishop Cannon and his associates."

Indictment Expected, Dry Meet Told by Cannon

ATLANTA, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., was attending an executive meeting of the College of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, here today when news of his indictment reached Atlanta.

Inquiries at the conference room brought the response that "Bishop Cannon will not be disturbed or answer any inquiries until the meeting is over."

Speaking at a prohibition mass meeting here last night, the bishop said he expected to be indicted. He said:

"I expect to be indicted because of the Roman Catholic District Attorney at Washington. He would not permit me to appear before the grand jury and called only one of four witnesses I suggested. They expect to muzzle me and hope to destroy my influence that way."

BANK ASSURES FUNDS' SAFETY

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 15.—Blaming the unjustified lack of public confidence for the closing of many banks, directors of the Union Trust Company here today were individually guaranteeing every depositor against loss for a year.

Declaring such loss of confidence increases the business depression and adds to the problem of unemployment, the directors announced:

"The hysteria in Western Pennsylvania must not be permitted to extend to Butler County. Therefore, we, the directors, hereby assure the customers that we individually guarantee, for the period of one year, that no depositor will lose one penny of his or her deposit.

"Before the expiration of the year covered by this guarantee we expect conditions in the financial world to become more stable; if, however, such is not the case and the present period of fear continues, it is our intention to renew our guarantee until confidence has been restored."

As a preventive against persons withdrawing deposits from other banks, no interest will be paid on new accounts.

Inventor in Peaceful Oblivion, Life Ebbs Slowly Away

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The peaceful oblivion of coma folded about the inspired mind of Thomas Edison today, but the sturdy, 84-year-old heart pumped steadily on.

Death, his physician said, was near—perhaps a matter of hours. It has been 10 days since the inventor has taken any liquid, and six days since he took a meager meal of stewed pears. Despite the ruggedness of his constitution, he can carry on but a little longer against the complication of disease, Dr. Hubert S. Howe declared.

The stupor in which Edison has been for several days turned late yesterday to coma. That, Dr. Howe stated, marks the approaching end.

Mr. Edison's pulse was gradually becoming weaker, Dr. Howe announced after his examination this morning.

KERR SCANS SECURITY BONDS

Search for Treasurer's Investigator Extended; Kline Suspends Official

The October grand jury will be given evidence in the probe of the office of Roy D. Schooley, suspended City Treasurer, next week, Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk announced today.

Other developments in the audit of the treasurer's office by Controller James P. Kerr were:

1—Search for Arthur G. Burgoyne, missing chief investigator for Schooley, was extended to other places after detectives were unable to find him in Allegheny County.

2. Richard W. Thompson, veteran chief clerk of the treasurer's office, was placed in charge by Mayor Kline, supplanting Schooley, suspended indefinitely.

3. Thirty-eight extra employes were lopped off by Kline and were waiting for Council to appropriate $5,485 back pay.

4. Auditors under direction of Controller Kerr began examination of all bonds provided as security for city funds.

Clunk said the grand jury would be charged by Judge Frank P. Patterson respecting election matters and the Schooley probe.

CALLS PHYSICIAN

The assistant prosecutor called Dr. A. W. Crozier, 745 North Negley avenue, Schooley's physician, to learn whether Schooley could answer a subpena for questioning. Clunk said he was told that it would be dangerous to Schooley's health to leave his bed at this time. He is suffering from anemia.

The details regarding submission of the Schooley audit to consideration of the grand jury will await return of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, from Canada, expected tomorrow.

Burgoyne, held to be the key man in the probe by the District Attorney's office, could not be found in Pittsburgh by county detectives, with the result that the search was spread to other places formerly frequented by him.

BOND EXPLANATION

Clunk wants Burgoyne to explain why $125,000 in government bonds which he is said to have

Allegheny-Perry Game Off As Fans Paint School

The Allegheny-Perry High School football game scheduled for this afternoon was called off today because of the great rivalry existing between the two student bodies which prompted some overzealous youths to decorate the front of Perry High School with signs and placards.

When Principal John Adams arrived at Perry High School this morning he discovered the fence in the front of the building had been broken and that paint had been used on the school steps to proclaim the coming contest between the two schools. His displeasure reached its height when he discovered that similar signs had been painted on the sides of nearby dwellings. He said:

"The painting of the school property shows the wrong kind of spirit. I believe if school officials called off all games where the students did not show the true school spirit it would end such destructive acts."

Principal Adams said he also understood that Perry High School students made a visit to Allegheny High School during class time this morning to retaliate for the work blamed on Allegheny boys.

V. S. Beachley, principal of Allegheny High School, also stated that the game had been called off after he and Adams had discussed the trouble over the telephone. Principal Beachley said there had been no damage done to the Allegheny property.

Linked With Death of 3, Grandmother Kills Self

SUNBURY, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Charles Zeigler, 50, today committed suicide at her home in Dalmatia, a short time before a chemist informed county authorities that the woman's 4-year-old granddaughter, Helen Marie Zeigler, had died of poisoning.

The girl died Wednesday while the grandmother was taking care of her in the absence of her parents. Two daughters of Mrs. Zeigler, Mrs. Roy Hagerman, Montoursville, and Mrs. Anna Hepner, Reading, asked for the investigation. Two children of Mrs. Hepner, she said in an affidavit, had died mysteriously last September while on a visit to their grandmother.

Coroner J. K. Fisher said Mrs. Zeigler, after her husband went to work this morning, started a fire in nearly every room in the house and then locked herself in her bedroom. She slashed her throat with a razor and then shot herself three times with a revolver.

Coroner Fisher said he would have exhumed the bodies of Mrs. Zeigler's other two grandchildren who died.

Helen Marie Zeigler was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Zeigler who lived only a few doors from the Charles Zeiglers. The father called in the grandmother to watch his child while he helped a neighbor to pick pears. The girl's mother is employed at a Dalmatia factory.

INDUSTRY'S LOW RATE UNFAIR, SAYS EXPERT

Pinchot Aide Tells Engineers Domestic Users Keep Up Utility Profits in Slump

Asserting that householders and storekeepers are overcharged for their electric power, Morris L. Cooke, member of the New York Power Commission, today advocated a readjustment of rates in an address before the Society of Industrial Engineers in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Cooke, one of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's advisers, told the House Utilities Investigating Committee of the 1931 General Assembly said:

"It still remains very obvious that the large industrial users are undercharged and the most numerous class of customers, householders and storekeepers, are overcharged."

CONSTANT DEMAND

Recent developments, the commissioner said, have shown that the domestic class in addition to proving a high peak load annual equivalent to the day peak of industrial consumption, provides a demand for service that has proved constant and is not subject to industrial depressions.

Commissioner Cooke said:

"The recent depression has given utility operators a new reason for valuing so-called 'lighting' business which includes both the domestic and commercial consumers. In 1930 when the revenue of large power customers dropped more than $22,000,000 below the 1929 figures, revenue from domestic consumers increased more than $45,000,000 above the 1929 figures with a $2,000,000 less expenditure for distribution. The happy result of this stabilizing effect of domestic service is that net earnings for 1930 remained pretty much as they were in 1929."

Cooke divided power users into six classes and said the first class or heavy users makes almost no contribution to net income. Going down the scale to the last two groups, the commercial and residential user, he said:

"We find the former commercial, making considerably more than its fair share to net income, while the domestic consumers contribute as a general average about twice what they should."

WOMAN GIVEN MEDAL

Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, business woman, consulting engineer, lecturer and author, was made the recipient of a new medal last night at the convention.

The medal, bestowed for the first time last night, will be awarded annually hereafter for distinguished service in management. Dr. Gilbreth is the mother of 11 children.

GILBERT NERVOUS

The Council at the same time had informed Secretary of State Stimson that it intended to proceed first by invoking the Kellogg anti-war pact in its efforts to preserve peace in the Far East. This was agreed upon because the United States fathered that pact, though not a member of the League.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who is presiding over the Council deliberations, opened the session and read Gilbert's letter of acceptance forwarded to the Secretariat on Washington's instructions. The council hall was packed to the bursting point and Briand was heard with difficulty.

Gilbert was then led into the council room by a uniformed League attendant, followed by United States Consuls Curtis T. Everett and James W. Riddleberger. He appeared extremely nervous as he took a seat at the extreme left of the horseshoe, near to Delegate Caray, of Panama, and opposite Dr. Alfred Sze, of China.

JAPANESE SILENT

In taking his seat on the council, Gilbert immediately made it clear that the United States does not propose to take any part in disciplinary measures the council is qualified to launch in dealing with aggression on the part of any League member.

Each member of the League council expressed his satisfaction over American participation with the exception of Dr. Braadland, of Norway, and Keknichi Yoshisawa, Japanese delegate, who sat through the proceedings in stolid silence.

Tonight's proceedings ended with no decision reached as to when the next public session of the council will be held. Members pointed out it will now be necessary for the delegates of the leading league members to meet privately for the purpose of drawing up a full report of the proceedings for presentation to the United States.

This private meeting is expected to takep lace tomorrow. The next public session with the United States represented, probably will be held Monday.

U. S. Limits Parley Aid To Kellogg Pact Link

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—American participation in the League of Nations Council's discussion of the Sino-Japanese crisis in Manchuria will be strictly limited to the bearing which that discussion has on the Kellogg anti-war pact.

Secretary of State Stimson, in his formal instruction to American Consul Prentiss Gilbert, in Geneva, today specifically told Gilbert that he might participate in the Council's discussion only so long as the relation of the Kellogg pact was under consideration.

Stimson informed Gilbert if he is present at any other discussion of the Manchurian crisis by the Council, he must be there only in the capacity as an observer.

RELIEF NEEDS ESTIMATED AT $170,090,130

Community Group Figures Given Gifford; Hoover Opens Drive on Sunday

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—At least $170,090,130 will be needed to protect the needy unemployed in 314 cities from the pinch of hunger and cold during the coming winter.

Figures giving this amount as the minimum necessary have been compiled by the Association of Community Chests and Councils and handed to Walter S. Gifford, director of the national unemployment organization.

Although recognizing the figures as mere estimates and covering but part of the nation-wide problem, Gifford described the report as "reassuring."

While most Community Chest organizations are beginning a week's drive for funds next Monday, the Gifford committee will move to stimulate contributions for general relief work. President Hoover will open the campaign Sunday afternoon with a radio appeal to the nation.

HOOVER CREDIT PLAN READY

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Full details of the organization and functions of the National Credit Corporation have been worked out, Mortimer N. Buckner, head of the organization committee, announced today.

These have been supplied to clearing house associations throughout the country.

The National Credit Corporation, created at request of President Hoover to extend up to $1,000,000,000 credit to banks on sound but at present frozen assets, was expected to begin active operations early next week.

Buckner announced banks throughout the country, which have been asked to subscribe 2 per cent of their time and demand deposits, continued to send assurances of support.

VOTE UPHOLDS BRUENING

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening's cabinet was sustained this evening on a vote of confidence in the Reichstag. The vote was 294 to 270.

Thus, by a margin of 24 votes the Chancellor turned back once again the threat of Adolf Hitler's National Socialists who had combined this time with the Nationalist party headed by Alfred Hugenberg.

These two, who have been the government's most bitter enemies since it took office, combined forces after the recent overturn in the Bruening cabinet and recently at a joint meeting in Harzburg served notice of their intention to turn the Chancellor out of office if they could.

M'GOVERN RAPS MANSFIELD IN SPEECH

Refusal to Indorse Barr Brings Scathing Attack At Independents' Meeting

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern today was on record with a scathing criticism of State Senator W. D. Mansfield, his Republican running mate for the majority commissionerships in the November election.

It was delivered last night before about 400 members of the Square Deal-Independent faction of the Republican party, meeting in Osceola School, Cypress street.

PRAISES BARR

McGovern praised the capabilities of former State Senator C. M. Barr, whom he advocates for the third post on the county board. McGovern and Barr are listed as the nominees of the Independent party. McGovern said:

"When I told Mansfield I wanted his help in behalf of Barr, he said he was not interested in any fight beyond his own.

"We did not treat him that way before the primary. I indorsed him. Senator Barr indorsed him. He had a foot in every camp and his whole body in ours."

McGovern also was bitter in his denunciation of the manner in which the meeting of Republican candidates, held yesterday to select a campaign chairman, was "steam-rollered."

McGovern's candidate for the chairmanship, Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, was swamped in the voting by Mansfield supporters who elected James McClure, Glassport legislator, almost unanimously.

During his speech last night, McGovern said:

"I want Senator Barr as a member of the Board of Commissioners. He looms up to me as an absolute necessity in order that the people should get 100 per cent service.

"If elected, Barr and I will not agree on everything but in the major things, the things that really count, we will agree.

ABILITY LAUDED

"He is not only a man of the highest integrity but a business man of consummate ability."

The speaker promised drastic reforms in county expenditures, particularly in those of the Department of Public Works.

The Republicans' November city and county campaigns will be almost entirely in the hands of the Mansfield faction as a result of yesterday's election.

With McClure, who managed Mansfield's primary campaign, named chairman, Attorney Joseph A. Bialas was elected secretary and Dr. H. S. McArthur, of McKeesport, treasurer by unanimous votes.

McClure was nominated by Senator Mansfield and the motion seconded by Judge Samuel H. Gardner.

McGovern offered Eaton's name and after a short silence Maj. J. Clyde Miller, candidate for Poor Director, seconded the suggestion.

County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong called for a rising vote between the two nominees, but only McGovern and Miller cut of the score of candidates present voted for Eaton. Both Mansfield and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell said they numbered Eaton among their closest friends, but that in the circumstances they were for McClure. Mansfield intimated that had Eaton wanted the place he would have known of it, and that Eaton had not spoken to him on the subject.

That brought the first hint of the friction known to exist between Mansfield and McGovern, the latter insisting that Eaton was willing to take the post, but that "the old steam roller seems to be working." McGovern continued to maintain the same attitude after the meeting broke up.

SUPPORT PLEDGED

The majority of the candidates appeared to feel that so long as McGovern intends to be active in the independent campaign of former Senator Barr the Commissioner should have little say in the selection of a Republican chairman.

County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong said he was turning the campaign to other hands because of the hot fight of the recent primary, when he was defeated for renomination as Commissioner.

At the conclusion of the choice of officers Armstrong suggested that it was customary for each candidate to pledge support of the whole ticket, and this was done informally. Armstrong himself said he "had never done anything else," when asked if he would support the ticket.

Morrow's Estate Valued At $20,000,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The American, quoting "an informed source," says the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey, left an estate of "close to $20,000,000."

Only half of the total, according to the American, is subject to inheritance taxes, the rest of the fortune being in the form of accounts carried in the names of members of his family and others. These accounts, estimated at $10,000,000, are technically not part of the estate.

The newspaper understands Mrs. Morrow is named sole executor, and to her will go a life interest in the estate after bequests to friends, servants and charities are taken out.

Accounts totaling $1,500,000, the newspaper was told, were carried in the names of Morrow's four children. Other accounts are believed to be in the names of Amherst College, the late Senator's alma mater, and Smith College, where Mrs. Morrow studied. Each institution received large gifts from Mr. Morrow during his lifetime.

Chauffeur Wins Heiress Bride by Cab Driving

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The marriage of Miss Florence A. McAllister, 18-year-old heiress to Oklahoma oil land riches, to her chauffeur, a former taxicab driver, has been disclosed.

The girl has been married for several weeks to Edward Challette, former chauffeur for Warner Baxter, movie actor, and later driver of a taxicab here. Friends indicated his expert manipulation of a cab won the girl's admiration one night, and she hired him as her private chauffeur.

The wedding became public after the bride's cash purchase of a $55,000 home and $37,500 worth of furnishings here. Mrs. Challette is the daughter of the late Mrs. Florence McAllister, who died in 1930, leaving an estate of $3,000,000 to three children.

The mother inherited valuable Oklahoma oil land holdings from her father. Mrs. Challette's annual income from her share of the estate was reported to be $240,000.

At her new home Mrs. Challette would not receive interviewers, but relayed answers to questions through a housemaid. Challette could not be induced to discuss the romance.

MAN REVEALS HIDDEN CASH AS STORE THUGS PERIL LIFE

GUNMEN ESCAPE IN AUTO WITH $100 LOOT

Brookline Holdup Staged With Policeman Nearby; Pair Blamed in Two Jobs

Waiting until Patrolman Alex Hogel, of the Mt. Washington Police Station, passed, two armed bandits early today stepped from a machine, entered an A. & P. store at 754 Brookline boulevard. They escaped with $100 after binding the manager, W. S. Confer, of 1319 Beverly place. A short half block away is the home of Police Inspector Charles T. Cahill.

Confer told police the two men drew guns as they entered the store, one of them walking behind the counter where Confer stood. Covering him, they forced him into a rear room, where they bound his arms and legs with rope. Then they went to the cash register, where they obtained $21. Returning to Confer, and menacing him with a revolver, they demanded:

"Where's the rest of the money."

Confer told them it was hidden in the shelves. After a brief search the bandits found $79 in three envelopes.

Police said they believe them to be the same bandits who robbed the Acme Beef Company at 1621 Termon avenue, North Side, yesterday.

The bandits are believed to have lurked in the vicinity of the store until Patrolman Hogel went by. As he entered an adjoining butcher shop, the bandits entered the A. & P. store.

3 Armed Youths Peril Girl, Then Loot Store

Three shabbily dressed youths, all armed, held up Miss Elizabeth Watson, 19, of 554 North Aiken avenue, clerk in a P. H. Butler store at 701 North Euclid avenue, this afternoon and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

Forcing Miss Watson into the rear of the store, the bandit trio suggested she got into the cellar. She remonstrated, saying:

"I am afraid down there."

"Aw, let her stay here."

Turning to the girl, he said:

"But don't you move or make an outery or we'll kill you."

HARVARD GROUP FETES AIMEE

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A group of Harvard students who had invited Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, California evangelist, to visit Dunster House, at the college, said today that her visit had been barred by Harvard authorities.

The group of a dozen rtudents entertained Mrs. Hutton yesterday at luncheon in a Boston hotel. They said they had been taken to task for extending their invitation and explained they had been given to understand that any student whose name was used in connection with the activities of the evangelist would be dropped from the rolls of the college.

The students said they had invited the evangelist, who is conducting revival services in Boston, to luncheon because they wanted to hear her theory of saving souls and to ask her about her "Four Square Gospel" and find out "what it's all about."

At the luncheon the students made it plain they were acting as individuals in entertaining the evangelist and not as representatives of the college.

BOBBED HAIRED BANDIT FREED

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Celia Cooney, the "bobbed haired bandit" of nearly a decade ago, will be paroled November 11. The State Parole Board has decided to release Mrs. Cooney, who has been a model prisoner and who promised to lead a different life when she gets out.

Her husband, Edward Cooney, with whom she staged a dozen daring store robberies in New York City, comes up for parole at Clinton Prison October 28. His release is also anticipated because other indictments against the couple are to be quashed. Cooney lost his left arm in a prison accident and he has a suit pending against the state.

The couple intend to go West after their release so Cooney may recover from tuberculosis.

Mrs. Cooney no longer has bobbed hair. She has let her tresses grow in prison.

J. L. Flynn, one of Texas' many representatives, filed the information, charging embezzlement and larceny. IN THE SHADOW

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

Drifts into gloaming, and the sable hand
Reluctantly, to blot the sun's last ray.
Gently he drifts along the shadowed way
To leave behind a beacon and a name
To light the path where human footsteps stray.

In humble homes, in castles rising fair,
In lonely lanes, in busy marts of trade,
He has accomplished, ere the fall of night,

THRONGS FETE YORKTOWN VICTORY

Village Again Resembles Armed Camp of Time of Cornwallis' Surrender

YORKTOWN, Va., Oct. 16. (AP.) — On the battlefield where Cornwallis surrendered to Washington and Lafayette 150 years ago thousands of Americans gathered today to celebrate the sesquicentennial anniversary of the battle which made their national existence possible. It is a four-day celebration.

Yorktown, the tiny village of history, once more resembles an armed camp. Far beyond the celebration area stretch the tents of the army encampment while upon the bosom of the majestic York 41 modern naval vessels ride at anchor. As a reminder of the fleet of Comte de Grasse which poured shot and shell into the British redoubts during the battle, the old frigate Constitution was to join the fleet later in the day and remain at anchor throughout the days of the celebration.

Lord Cornwallis, descendant of the English earl who surrendered att he battle of Yorktown, today responded to Virginia's dedication of a memorial to his ancestor, with the statement that "war is behind, peace is in front, we hope, for evermore."

Dedication of the bust of Lord Cornwallis at York Hall, home of Thomas Nelson, War Governor of Virginia, and Cornwallis' headquarters at Yorktown, officially opened the four-day celebration.

As the British flag was drawn aside to reveal the bronze bust, Maj. Rochambeau, great-great-grandson by adoption of the French officer, who fought with Washintgon at Yorktown, whirled and came to a full salute.

Pinchot Stresses Liberty at Yorktown

YORKTOWN, Va., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—America was described as engaged in a conflict with unemployment in a radio speech delivered here today for Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania by Adjt. Gen. David J. Davis as part of the observance of the sesquicentennial of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis.

The conflict was described as "for the rights of common man, to the great and holy end that the liberty won at Yorktown may never be lost." The Governor said:

"Our fight today is not against principalities and powers but it is against the mammon of unrighteousness in high places. It is against hunger and cold and homelessness for those who ask nothing more than the chance to earn for themselves food and shelter and a home. It is against those defects in our social order which makes such things possible."

LAVAL STARTS TRIP TO U. S.

By ROBERT WELLS RITCHIE
International News Service.

LE HAVRE, France, Oct. 16.—Given a rousing send-off by hundreds of cheering French people, Premier Pierre Laval sailed for the United States aboard the liner Ile de France today for his conference with President Hoover.

Concealing his excitement over his first ocean voyage beneath a mask of typical French provincial stolidity, M. Laval remained on the deck of the liner as the vessel started on its journey. His pretty 22-year-old daughter, Jose, was less composed, however, and gaily waved a bouquet of flowers at the cheering crowds on the quay below.

While the Premier declared before his departure he had no fixed program for his conversations with Mr. Hoover, it was understood that he was prepared for full discussion of war debts and reparations as a part of the general world economic problem, and that disarmament and the French desire to strengthen the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact would also play a prominent part in the Washington conferences.

DIVA, BARITONE WED 2D TIME

WEST NEW YORK, N. J., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Half of Desire Defrere's troubles were disposed of here when he and Hilda Burke were married for the second time by a Baptist pastor here.

The first marriage of the Chicago Opera stars took place last Thursday, but they had left their license at the town hall and the legality of the ceremony was questioned. Yesterday they obtained the license that had caused the trouble and had it with them while the remarriage was taking place.

The other half of the singer's troubles are caused by a $100,000 suit brought in Baltimore by William S. Burke, former husband of the prima donna, who charges Defrere with alienation of affections.

The Burkes were divorced in July, and two weeks later Mrs. Burke announced her plan to marry the baritone.

4 DIE IN CHAIR, ONE REPRIEVED

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Four murderers were electrocuted in the electric chair at the County Jail shortly after midnight today. A fifth was saved from death at the last minute by issuance of a stay based on an insanity petition.

Those executed were: Frank Jordan, alias Carlson, 30, convicted of slaying Policemen Anthony Ruthy and Mounted Policeman Patrick Durkin; Charles Rocco, 24, and John Popescue, 21, sentenced for the fatal stabbing of Courtney Merrill, banker, during a robbery, and Richard Sullivan, alias Davis, 35, who shot Christ Patras, restaurant proprietor.

Frank Bell, condemned to die for the same crime for which Sullivan was electrocuted, was granted a stay of execution 30 minutes before the time set for him to march into the death chamber. Warden David Moneypenny had sought clemency in Bell's behalf because he had helped to thwart a jail break in which a prisoner had planned to shoot his way to freedom with a smuggled pistol.

CAPONE COUNTS ON APPEAL TO HIGH COURT

Arguments Draw to Close Amid Oratory Barrage; Case Ready to Go to Jury

By JAMES J. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Amid a barrage of oratory, the closing scenes in the courtroom drama in which the United States government is pitted against Al Capone, were enacted today as the celebrated case drew toward a close.

Capone's fate probably will be in the hands of the jury about noon tomorrow. The gangster chieftain is charged with attempting to defraud the government by evading payment of his income taxes. If found guilty he faces a maximum punishment of 32 years in the penitentiary and a fine of $80,000.

Capone was portrayed to the jury by his counsel, Albert Fink, as a victom of a movement to punish him so that "public clamor" could be appeased. In a dramatic closing address to the jury, Fink declared it was a matter that not only interests this generation, but will be of the greatest significance to generations to come.

Fink's address followed that of Attorney Samuel G. Clawson, representing the government, who pleaded with the jury in a calm, logical manner to find Capone guilty for defrauding the United States government out of income taxes for the years 1924 to 1929, inclusive.

"I have no illusion as to what is going to happen in any of these so-called gangster cases until the Supreme Court of the United States finally takes hold of them."

If Capone is found guilty, it is regarded as a virtual certainty that his counsel will appeal the verdict to the United States Supreme Court.

During Fink's argument to the jury, Judge James H. Wilkerson left his seat on the bench and paced back and forth at one end of the courtroom. He was quietly getting a little exercise.

Taking up the various years involved in the indictment, Fink said the government failed to show Capone had any income beyond the fact that he spent money.

GRAND JURORS WILL PROBE SCHOOLEY

exhibited to Kerr as those put up by the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company as security for inactive deposits, cannot be found.

Richard W. Thompson, for 52 years in the Treasurer's office and for a brief term, city Treasurer, was at the helm today, following Kline's announcement yesterday that he had suspended Schooley.

Thirty-eight temporary employes, including members of the "water shut-off gang" attached to the delinquent tax office and 10 office employes and stenographers were out of jobs today. Mayor Kline cut them off the payroll with announcement that he had suspended Schooley.

John McKibben, in charge of the delinquent tax office today said he would ask Council Monday to transfer $5,485 to the fund for extra employes. The fund appropriated for this year, $22,075, has been exhausted. The sum sought represents about one month's back pay for the extra employes, McKibben asserted.

Robert Torrence, cashier in the Treasurer's office, and G. H. Goodman, an auditor of Price, Waterhouse & Co. today, at Kerr's direction, began a check of all bonds held as security for city funds in city depositories. The Controller said no information would be given out as to the results of their investigation until the audit was completed.

The suspension of Schooley came abruptly yesterday afternoon. Political circles in the City-County Building had been predicting some such action on the Mayor's part, but when Kline walked into the office and assumed charge, it caused furor in the building.

Kline, himself under indictment with former Director of Supplies Bertram L. Succop for alleged irregularities in conduct of the Department of Supplies, has ignored suggestions that he ask for leave of absence pending his trial. He dismissed Succop shortly after the food probe started.

BOND MYSTERY

Biggest single factor causing Kline to decide on Schooley's dismissal is thought to be the puzzle of the missing $125,000 in "mystery bonds." The bonds appeared for a few minutes, October 3, when Special Investigator Burgoyne, Schooley aide, showed them to Kerr as the required security for the $125,000 city deposit in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, which had just failed.

Since that time search has failed to disclose them.

Schooley declared on September 28 that the deposit was fully protected, as required by law. Special Deputy Secretary of Banking George F. Taylor, Jr., in charge of the bank, has denied that the bank gave security for the funds.

They were thought, until Wednesday, to be under seal in Schooley's vault. When Kerr at last received the required Schooley permission to open the vault, the securities were lacking.

SECRET CONFERENCE

It was thought probable that they discussed financing of the audit, being done at the expense of private citizens by Price, Waterhouse & Co., who conducted the city audit of the Department of Supplies. No announcement of the subject of the conference was made.

Matter of dispute is whether or not it is necessary for the Treasurer to have delinquent tax deposits secured by the banks in which they are placed.

If they should be secured, which is not specified in the depository ordinance governing such matters, Schooley will be under fire for his failure to have the Franklin bank secure $165,000 in delinquent tax money deposited there.

Another of Schooley's dealings with the Franklin institution came to light Tuesday, when Taylor brought suit against him for an overdue note for $10,000, indorsed by Herman Friedman, securing Schooley's personal N. S. F. check drawn on the bank for $9,800. The check, payable to the Pitt Hockey Club, was indorsed by Schooley as president; the note is signed by Schooley in the same capacity. The check mysteriously disappeared from the bank several days ago and the discharge by Taylor of several bank employes followed.

SHIP, 50 ABOARD FEARED LOST

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Attempts of the liner President Jefferson, with Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh aboard, to communicate by radio at 6 o'clock, P. S. T., this morning with the stricken Japanese freighter Yonan Maru failed, giving rise to the belief that the latter had gone down.

A wireless from the stricken ship, intercepted 20 minutes previous to the futile attempt at communication, said:

"We are now sinking. Come quickly."

The 8,000-ton freighter, which carried a crew estimated at between 40 and 50 men, first called for help four hours earlier. Later messages said her decks were awash and she was sinking rapidly.

Slain for Smoking At Don Jaime Mass

BARCELONA, Oct. 16.—(INS)—A Spaniard was shot and killed in the street here today for smoking a cigaret in church during a requiem mass for the late Don Jaime, Carlist pretender to the Spanish throne.

The smoker was forcibly ejected by a Carlist supporter, who then shot him.

JOHNSON SEES U. S. SHOVED INTO LEAGUE

By HIRAM W. JOHNSON

United States Senator from California. Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—What the American people said in most emphatic terms should not be done, the administration now does. Into the League of Nations America is shoved despite our people.

We've a new kind of government. The old cumbersome mode of the Constitution has been superseded by a dictatorship and an oligarchy.

When congressional action is needed now, Congress is not called in session, but "leaders" of the Republican and Democratic parties and the progressive right wing are summoned in secret to the White House to approve a long pre-arranged policy and thus the policy is adopted.

BANKERS' VICTORY

The international bankers have learned the short cut to congressional action and they may well chortle with glee as they witness their accomplishments of the past few months in moratoriums and towards foreign debt cancellation. Europe and they may well celebrate their victory in easing the United States into the League of Nations now.

The Congress, what is it? The leaders have decreed its policy in secret, without assembling its troublesome members.

The people? Why, the people be damned, say our internationalists and their European allies, they are too poor and too distressed to protest.

May the Lord protect America for the few intervening months when Americans may speak with ballots.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The State Department was charged with meddling and bungling into foreign disputes yesterday by Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr. (Rep.), New York.

Speaking at the Americanization meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here on efforts of Communists to overthrow the government, Fish said the policy of the State Department was "weak-kneed," declaring:

"It is a useless gesture for Secretary Stimson to send notes to the League of Nations or the Japanese government, protesting the encroachment of the Japanese armed forces in Manchuria, because no foreign government will take our State Department seriously since our withdrawal to the coast ports in Nicaragua, after Sandino, backed by the Communists, butchered nine American citizens less than a year ago.

"This note-sending policy is humiliating and if continued will make the United States the laughing stock of the world."

Woman to Receive Degree For Services

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Miss Belle Sherwin, president of the National League of Women Voters, has left here for the centennial celebration of Denison University, Granville, O., where she will be honored with the degree of doctor of laws for her public service in Ohio.

Miss Sherwin was for 25 years director of the Public Health Nursing Association in Cleveland and was for 11 years at the head of the Cleveland Welfare Council.

Hit by Auto, Urges Treatment for Driver

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 16.—James Wright, 62, Library coal miner who attained fame recently when a stamp collection in his possession was found to be worth $48,000, was front page news again. He was struck by an automobile driven by Glen Williams, 27, of Monongahela. Taken to Monongahela Memorial Hospital he declined to stay. He said:

Poverty Stalks U. S., Lloyd George Says

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(INS)—Former Premier Lloyd George, in a national radio broadcast last night, denounced the Conservative campaign for trade protection and painted a grim picture of the United States. He said:

"The specter of bankruptcy is stalking in a country whose streets in 1929 seemed paved with gold. Tariffs haven't helped the United States and Germany."

Two Men Accused Of Slaying Banker

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Two Negroes were brought to the state penitentiary here after being arrested at Cross Hill and charged with the murder of W. C. Rasor, wealthy retired Cross Hill banker, on September 26.

The Negroes, Isaiah Coont and Lee Payne denied knowledge of the crime. State police said the gun with which Rasor was slain belonged to one of them. The Negroes lived on the Rasor farm. The motive for the slaying has not been established.

Doctor-Editor Scores Vet Hospital Plan

BALTIMORE, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The proposal of the American Legion that the government build a series of hospitals to provide an additional 100,000 beds for war veterans is a step toward Communism with state medicine as the direct approach, Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, said here.

At present, Dr. Fishbein said, there are over 200,000 vacant beds in civilian hospitals throughout the country.

PITT PLANNING CADET DANCE

A ball in honor of the 1,200 West Point cadets who will come to Pittsburgh for the Pitt-Army game, November 14, will be held under the auspices of the University of Pittsburgh in the ballroom of the William Penn Hotel, the evening of the game. Proceeds will be donated to the Allegheny County Emergency Association for the benefit of the unemployed.

Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the university, will be general chairman, and Dr. David A. Craig, director of the research bureau for retail training, will be in charge of preliminary arrangements. Dr. Craig will be assisted by Maj. Philip Mathews, of the emergency association; Ray Harrison, of Mellon National Bank, and Harold L. McGrath, of Columbian National Life Insurance Company, all of whom are West Point graduates.

More than 300 co-eds, it is indicated, will be asked to act as hostesses.

METALLURGISTS OPEN MEET

Research developments accomplished during the past year were being discussed today by leading metallurgists of the Pittsburgh district at the annual meeting of the metallurgical advisory board to the Carnegie Institute of Technology and United States Bureau of Mines.

Two days will be occupied with discussions and inspection tours. Today's sessions were being held at Carnegie Tech. Reports were being heard on research studies undertaken at the laboratories of Tech and the bureau.

An informal dinner features tonight's session at which Charles F. Abbott, executive director of the American Institute of Steel Construction, Inc., will speak on the market analysis of the machine age. Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Tech, will preside. Inspection of Tech and the bureau laboratories close the sessions tomorrow.

WELFARE GOAL $5,981,184

The 1932 budget for the joint campaign of the Welfare Fund and the Emergency Association was officially approved last night by the Council of the Welfare Fund at $5,981,184.

This figure was set after pruning the estimates of charitable organizations participating in the fund, it was announced. Of the total, $3,000,000 will go to the Allegheny County Emergency Association for unemployment relief.

The meeting, held at the William Penn Hotel, was attended by representatives from all the member agencies. Attorney E. W. Smith presided and George P. Rhodes presented the report of the budget committee. The acceptance of the report was unanimous. A deficit of $162,000 was reported from last year's operations, and is included in this year's budget.

CALLES WARNS ARMY FACTIONS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16—(INS.)—Mexico's strong man Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles who declared when he resigned the Mexican presidency a few years ago that only a national emergency could ever bring him back into the political arena, plunged with characteristic energy today into the task of ending "unrest" in the republic.

The character of that unrest has not been made clear in any official statement issued since President Pascual Ortiz Rubio suddenly called Calles back to the ministry of war.

A hint of its extent and gravity, however, is seen in the fact that almost the first official act of the former president was to order wholesale arrests. The excitement, stirred more than at any time since the Escobar rebellion of six years ago, has given rise to popular speculation.

Ortiz Rubio's formal statement that the army has protested its loyalty and that tranquility prevails throughout Mexico was followed by announcement that the six remaining members of his cabinet had resigned. The new cabinet will probably be named tomorrow.

In ordering a house cleaning of the war department, Calles declared he will deal sternly with politico-military coalitions.

GANDHI BACKS U. S. DRYS

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League has made public a letter it said it had received from Mahatma Gandhi approving the prohibition policy in the United States. The letter, addressed to Arthur J. Davis, state superintendent of the league, is to be read today at a meeting of temperance and prohibition leaders here.

Gandhi's letter, written in London, said:

Dear Friend:

"It was a brave step, worthy of America to have undertaken the most difficult task for her of total prohibition. It would be a shame and a rude shock to reformers throughout the world if for any cause America abandoned the policy and returned to the drink evil."

WAR CHAPLAIN HERO DIES

CAIRO, N. Y., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The Rev. Francis A. Kelley, "Fighting Chaplain" of the 27th Division during the World War, died early this morning.

Father Kelley for several years has been fighting tuberculosis, after being gassed while going over the top with the troops during the war.

The "fighting chaplain" was with the 27th Division from the day it landed in France until the end of the war. He played an important part in the smashing of the Hindenburg line and was decorated by Gen. John J. Pershing and also was honored by Allied governments.

Plan for War Denied By Mexican Prelate

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Formal denial of reports that he approved armed action to obtain religious freedom was made here today by Monsignor Leopoldo Ruiz Flores, the apostolic delegate.

Ruiz Flores said statements he had made on the religious question had been "misinterpreted by certain Catholics."

ECUADOR RULE UPSET IN RIOT

QUITO, Ecuador, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Ecuador had a new President today as the aftermath of a revolutionary attempt to establish Col. Luis Larrea Alba as a dictator.

Alfredo Baquerizo Moreno, head of the Senate, took over the presidential office last night after Col. Larrea Alba had resigned with his entire ministry. The latter denied that he wished to proclaim a dictatorship and said he favored continuation of constitutional rule.

Four persons were killed and many wounded in what appeared to be a conflict between civilians and troops supporting constitutional government and two units from the Quito garrison which were attempting to elevate Col. Larrea Alba to "supreme power."

Scion of Scott Key To Be Buried Today

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Francis Scott Key, 70, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., grandson of the composer of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Mr. Key died last night, following an appendicitis operation necessitated while here on a business trip.

BIBLE CLASSES AGAIN ELECT VICKERMAN

Gains in Sunday School Membership Pointed Out In Altoona Convention

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania boasts 5 per cent of the total Sunday school membership of the world, Dr. Robert M. Hopkins, general secretary of the World Sunday School Association, told the State Sunday School Association yesterday in convention here.

He said Sunday school attendance had increase 1 per cent annually in general since the last world convention in Los Angeles in 1928. He added that the increase was largely in foreign lands, especially Japan.

The Pennsylvania Adult Bible Classes re-elected John W. Vickerman, of Bellevue, as president for the thirteenth consecutive year. The federation has a membership in the state of over 400,000, 13,500 classes. Other officers elected were: Vice presidents, R. E. English, Grove City; Congressman Clyde Kelly, Edgewood; Mrs. W. B. Easton, Stroudsburg; Mrs. W. P. Finley, Philadelphia; Dr. H. H. Baish, Harrisburg; John S. Reading, Williamsport, and Mrs. C. L. Salyard, Altoona; treasurer, A. R. Bollock, Bakerstown, and field secretary, H. C. Cridland, Pittsburgh.

J. M. Steele, Philadelphia, state treasurer of the Sunday School Association, reported a deficit of $1,200, the first in the history of the society. John Person, Williamsport, discussed "increasing the outreach by increasing the budget." He pointed out that the state board would contribute $1.50 for every dollar contributed by the counties. The total budget is $68,438.

Dr. P. K. Emmons, Scranton, led devotions at the morning session. Prof. O. R. Myers, Juniata College, spoke on the work of the committees, and Walter E. Myers, state secretary, introduced the state staff.

TRIAL IN DEATH OF NEIGHBOR

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—From the lips of 13 witnesses a Frederick County jury heard the evidence through which the state is attempting to convict John H. Rowland, 74, of St. James, of the murder April 21, of Robert G. Irving, 24, his next door neighbor.

After the state had called 13 witnesses, it rested its case. The defense placed two of its witnesses on the stand.

The shooting was alleged to have followed an argument involving Irving's 2-year-old son, who had played around a freshly sown flower garden of Rowland's. The older man threatened to erect a wire fence about the plot of ground to protect it from the feet of the child.

Irving was shot with a shotgun Rowland declared had been purchased the same day to shoot starlings. At the time of shooting it was alleged by the state the Irving child was pouring water into a drain running into Rowland's yard and that Rowland seized the gun and fired twice at the boy's father.

HOOVER, ADAMS CLASH OVER NAVY CUT

Official Washington Sees Break on Economy Plan; Fight in Congress Looms

By GEORGE C. DURNO
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 — Official Washington was wondering today whether President Hoover and Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams were nearing an open break over next year's naval budget.

Despite a carefully worded White House statement implying otherwise it was learned that the President and Adams were in considerable disagreement over the final budget allotment to be made to the Navy.

WANTS BUDGET CUT

President Hoover has announced he wants a naval budget that is down to $340,000,000. Currently the country is spending $360,000,000, and the executive sent back a preliminary estimate for next year of $401,000,000 with instructions it be cut to the bone.

Secretary Adams returned the revised estimate yesterday afternoon. Some at the White House thought they heard loud talking emanate from the Presidential office after Adams entered.

The short-statured blue-blooded New Englander essentially is a "big navy" man. He sees eye-to-eye with the admirals comprising the navy general board. It was rumored he had difficulty in adjusting himself to the President's recent statement condemning the ranking officers of the Navy for what was termed an unauthorized attempt to influence the public through anonymous newspaper propaganda. This was the statement which called for a maximum $340,000,000 budget.

FIGHT ASSURED

Regardless of whether the President and the Secretary smooth over possible existing differences, the Administration was assured of a vigorous fight from the "big navy" element in Congress. Fred A. Britten, Rep., Illinois, chairman of the House Naval Committee, served notice his committee in December "will give serious consideration not only to the budget which was presented yesterday to the President, but to all previous budgets and estimates submitted by the department."

VOTE MACHINE 'SHOWS' SET

Voting machine demonstrations for next week, as announced today by the Bureau of Elections, are:

Sixth Ward, McKee School, Thirty-fourth street, October 19 to 21; Lawrence School, Thirty-seventh street, October 22 to 24; Springfield School, Thirty-first and Smallman streets, October 26 to 28, and Penn School, Hancock and Herron streets, October 29 to 31.

Seventh Ward, Liberty School, Ellsworth avenue and Filbert street, October 19 to 24; Shakespeare School, Shakespeare street, October 26 to 31.

Tenth Ward, McCandless School, McCandless and Butler streets, October 19 to 21; Morningside School, Jancey street, October 22 to 24; Sunnyside School, October 26 to 28, and Fort Pitt School, Breedshill and Winebiddle avenues, October 29 and 30.

TWO MORE FILM HOUSES BOMBED

CHICAGO, Oct. 16 — (AP.) — Bombs were hurled at two more theatres early today.

Neither motion picture house is involved in the dispute between independent owners and the Motion Picture Operators' Union, their owners said.

Engineers Address Propeller Club

Description of work being done on the twin locks at Rostraver, on the Monongahela River, and a promise of efficient river transportation were the highlights of an address by Maj. Wilhelm D. Styer, in charge of the Pittsburgh district, at a meeting arranged in his honor by the Propeller Club of Pittsburgh in Fort Pitt Hotel last night. He was introduced by A. J. F. Vandermyn, president of the club.

Improvements on the Ohio River at Shawneetown, Ill., was told by Col. G. R. Spalding, division engineer, of St. Louis.

Oil in Stove Kills Family of Three

FLINT, Mich., October 16 — (AP.) — A family of three, Mr. and Mrs. Morris McMillan, each 22, and their two-months-old baby, lost their lives in a fire following an explosion which resulted from pouring oil on the embers in a coal stove in their home last night.

2 Shutters Stolen In Halloween Prank

CONGRESSIONAL ANTI-DRYS TO FORCE ISSUE

Plan Drive in Next Session As Administration Stand For Prohibition Is Seen

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Virtually abandoning hope of administration backing in their fight on prohibition, congressional anti-drys today laid plans to force the issue to a head soon after Congress convenes.

The quick denial of the Treasury that it is investigating the revenue possibilities of beer was accepted as another indication of unfriendliness upon the part of the administration to the movement.

Representative Fred A. Britten (Rep.), of Illinois, who caused a flurry by his declaration that the Treasury could be added to a White House secretary and the Agriculture Department in investigations of the beer question, reiterated his statement that the Treasury had estimated beer would produce $500,000,000 revenue in its first year. He said:

"There is no conflict between my statement and the Treasury. I have positive information that one of the highest officials in the Treasury has made this estimate for the first year, and calculates that the revenue would be much larger the second year."

Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills denied an investigation was being made, but said "of course a tax on beer would bring in a lot of money."

The White House also denied it had asked the Treasury for figures.

TWO DIVORCES AWARDED

Mrs. Gladys I. Shawl, manicurist, 131 Roup street, left her husband two months after their marriage when he tore her clothes and choked and threatened her, she testified before Judge Samuel H. Gardner in Common Pleas Court. He granted her a divorce from Lloyd Wensley Shawl, 400 Collins avenue.

They eloped to Wellsburg, W. Va., January 27, 1928, and he quarreled with her from the beginning, she said. He came home drunk at breakfast time and threw coffee on her, burning her, she testified. They lived in Baxter place.

His wife left for Los Angeles without notice and he never saw or heard from her afterward, according to testimony of Samuel J. Leek, 35, of 911 Galveston street, in Common Pleas Court.

He was granted a divorce from Mary R. Leek, 35, nurse, of Los Angeles, by Judge William H. McNaugher. They were married November 25, 1920, and when he came home from work February 10, 1924, she was gone, without cause or warning, he said.

ARMY DESERTER TRAPPED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Everett Frank Lindsay, wanted for murder, army desertion and attacks on two girls, was arrested here last night through the efforts of a restaurant man who turned detective.

Police said Lindsay confessed to the various crimes attributed to him and announced he would waive extradition to Seattle, Wash., to face a charge of slaying his wife.

For more than a year and a half police throughout the Pacific Coast states had been on the trail of Lindsay, whose real name, they said, was Charles E. Murphy. He was trapped by detectives on information furnished by William Sanborn, 25, who six months ago hired Lindsay as a cook.

Borah Earns $4 As Trial Witness

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Senator William E. Borah, Idaho, was richer by $4 today. He was paid that sum as witness fee after he appeared for the government in the trial of Louis P. Pirelli, Biagio Viale and Joseph Cappa, of the Franklin Plan Corporation of New York. They were accused of mail fraud.

Senator Borah denied he ever had known the defendants or carried on any activities for them, as their pamphlets contended.

Farmers Sue County Over Road Damage

Albert and Robert E. Springer, of Coraopolis Heights, declared their 161-acre farm in Moon and Findley townships was damaged $10,000 by the regrading and improving of the Carnot and Beers school road, instead of $300 awarded them by county viewers, in their appeal to Common Pleas Court against Allegheny County. The county took a strip 60 by 357 feet and made a cut of 8 to 16 feet, taking away access to the road, they claimed.

Philadelphia Area Ranks Third in U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The Philadelphia metropolitan area, like the city proper, ranks third in population in the United States, according to a survey by the Philadelphia Business Progress Association. The survey finds the population is 2,847,148; land area, 993.89 square miles, and population density, 2,864.7 per square mile.

NORRIS REPORT URGES U. S. RUN UTILITIES

Makes Public Result of Group Study Ordered by Progressive Conference

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Competition by publicly owned and operated utilities and railroads as the only effective method of government regulation of these basic industries was recommended today to Congress by the committee on public utilities of the Progressive economic conference.

The report of the committee, written by Donald Richberg, of Chicago, nationally known labor attorney and utilities expert, was made public by Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, chairman of the conference. The report found that political regulation of utilities has completely broken down, and instead of the government controlling them they were dominating the government. The committee declared:

"We cannot regulate our regulators. It will not be possible for our people to enjoy sustained prosperity or a representative government as long as they are compelled to pay an increasing tribute to support the corruption of public opinion and the private control of public offices. The recapture of public control of all public business and the elimination of any private monopoly control of public necessities are the gravest problems that control the American people today."

SHIP SYNDICATE FORMED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Formation of the United States Lines Company, an organization to purchase the United States Lines for the Dollar-Chapman-Dawson shipping interests, was announced here last night by William F. Humphrey, attorney for Herbert Fleishhacker, San Francisco capitalist.

The company, formed in Nevada, will act as a holding corporation for the United States Lines, Humphrey said, and permit the joint purchase of the lines from the United States Shipping Board by the combined interests of the Dollar Steamship Company, Paul Chapman, president of the United States Lines; Kenneth D. Dawson, Portland shipping magnate, and Fleishhacker.

The syndicate now has a bid before the United States Shipping Board, which has indicated the offer would be accepted.

Survey Shows Wane In Dead Languages

MEDFORD, Mass.—(INS.)—Students at Tufts and Jackson Colleges appear to have lost their appeal for ancient languages. The rosters of both colleges shows that only 16 of the 157 freshmen in the school of liberal arts are candidates for bachelor of art degrees. Women students have taken a decided trend toward the dead languages with 51 of the 77 freshmen taking either Latin or Greek. The most popular profession among the students is pedagogy, more than half the students planning to become teachers upon graduation.

The office was badly damaged, but Dr. Veloz and his colleagues escaped unhurt. Investigators said the grenade was placed by an unidentified person who escaped in an automobile.

Charge Officials Gave Jack Diamond Aid

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The Rev. O. R. Miller, state superintendent of the New York Civic League, asked Gov. Roosevelt to remove Sheriff Edward J. Keegan and District Attorney John T. Delaney, of Albany County. He charged the gangster, Jack Diamond, had been "sheltered and protected" by police of the capital city of the state, and that the county authorities had failed to suppress "gambling and the social evil" within the county.

Meet the MAN you want to be

THE modern world offers its prizes to the man who stays young. It isn't your age that counts so much. It's your physical condition.

Your health, in the next ten years, depends upon how you take care of yourself today. There are thousands of men in the world who are handicapped in business by ill-health — frequently because they neglected constipation.

Constipation often brings headaches, backaches, listlessness. It takes the pep out of your working hours — dulls the keen edge of your ambition.

You need not suffer from this condition. Try eating a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. ALL-BRAN will help you keep fit — unless you have intestinal trouble not relieved in this way — and then you should see your physician.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies two things needed to overcome constipation in a natural way: "Bulk," which exercises the intestinal muscles; Vitamin B, which promotes a healthy intestinal tract. How much better this is than abusing your system with pills and drugs — so often habit-forming.

ALL-BRAN provides iron for building the blood. Try it today. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SPAIN'S LEADER FIRM ON CHURCH

MADRID, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Unconcerned by religious disturbances and threats of the Vatican to sever all relations with the Spanish Republic, President Manuel Azana today declared the nation's chief problems were political rather than religious, and that the government would not be swayed from its anti-clerical policy.

Concerning the Jesuits, whose expulsion was ordered following the adoption of a constitutional article separating church and state, President Azana charged the religious orders had come into control of "forces of wealth and property," and said this condition could not continue under a republic.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 16—(INS)—A letter from Pope Pius XI, urging all Catholics in Spain to "energetically oppose offenses against the sacred rights of the Church" was sent to Monsignor Tedetchini, papal nuncio, by the Vatican today.

HINTS POLITICS IN DISMISSAL

HARRISBURG, Oct. 16.—Dismissal of Wilson W. Pinchot. Ritter, with 20 years' service as a state employe to his credit, requests a hearing from the Governor.

In his letter to the Governor, which Ritter made public today, the dismissal was blamed on P. S. Stahlnecker, secretary to the Governor, and W. J. Stiteler, Jr., of this city, manager of the insurance fund.

Ritter's name was contained in a list of 33 from the department dropped this week because of reorganization plans.

VETS TO PRESS WIDOWS' AID

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Demands for pensions for widows and orphans of World War veterans will be forced in the forthcoming Congress despite President Hoover's appeal to veterans' organizations that they make no further demands on the Treasury at this time.

DAVIS SCORES PRICE HAGGLER

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The men who do the buying for business were told by Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, last night, that they hold a key to prosperity.

Senator Davis, former secretary of labor, in an address at the Cleveland Purchasing Agents' Association's annual dinner, said that prosperity will not return as long as purchasing agents keep beating down prices and consequently causing lower wages. He added:

"What profit it anyone to beat down prices, drag down wages and destroy the markets he must sell to?"

He said that every depression the nation has encountered has been marked by cheap prices and cheap labor.

FLIERS RESCUE SHIP VICTIMS

Dog Doctor Urged To Serve Strays At New Home

CHICAGO, Oct. 16 —(AP.)— Chicago's stray dogs have a $70,000 home but they lack a house physician.

The situation, however, is to be corrected, due to the action yesterday of a delegation of women led by Mrs. Charlotte L. Hunt, president of the Chicago Humane Education Society.

Some of the women cried when Mrs. Hunt, appearing before the Judiciary Committee of the City Council, described a visit last Sunday to the dog pound, where she saw several dogs that were ill and needed attention.

WOMAN'S VOTE FINE REVERSED

Magistrate James J. O'Connor, of Penn Avenue Police Court, who fined Miss Martha Delp $2 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct during a disturbance at the election booth at Liberty avenue and Twenty-first street on primary election day, was reversed by County Court Judge D. M. Miller today.

Testifying in Miss Delp's appeal, election board officials said she had torn down a curtain screening on one of the voting machines and created a disturbance. Miss Delp's explanation was that the curtain had refused to work after she had pressed the button and she jerked it, pulling it off its fastenings.

MALESTER, Okla., Oct. 16 —(INS.)— Three New York state troopers and an assistant attorney general arrived here today to return Stanley Chero to Troy, N. Y., where with William Schemnitzer, his companion, he will face trial for the slaying of Trooper John E. Fyfe.

Both boys are residents of Broughton, Pa., near Pittsburgh.

Chero has been confined in the state prison hospital since his arrest, having been shot in the left leg by one of the arresting officers. The wound later necessitated amputation of the leg.

DEROSA COSTS PUT ON COUNT

A short time after he had instructed Alderman W. A. Means and Michael DeRosa, who defeated Means for the aldermanic nomination in the Twelfth Ward, to share equally the costs of the contested election, Judge Frank P. Patterson changed his decision and placed the entire burden on the county. A state law provides that the county is to be charged for the costs in such cases.

The costs were estimated at $5,000 and include an award of $800 to Attorney Garnet R. Speer, as fee for examiner and witness fees for 200 witnesses, together with the cost of the stenographic record covering several thousand pages. Hearing occupied two weeks, witnesses being examined regarding the conduct of the election in five voting precincts.

Officer Suspended On Shooting Charge

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Oct. 16 —Because he allegedly fired four shots at a motorist who fled so his car could not be searched for liquor, F. W. Olson, Aliquippa, acting chief of police of South Heights, has been suspended by Burgess R. A. Shoup, South Heights. One of the bullets struck a church, another a home and the other two hit trees, Burgess Shoup said.

BACK DIVIDEND CHECK STARTS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Officers of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company today began a complicated task of distributing $1,700,000 in deferred dividends to shareholders who had opposed merger with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The amount was released yesterday by cancellation of the merger contract.

In cases where ownership of the dissenting stock has not been transferred, payments of the dividend will be a simple matter, but thousands of shares have been transferred, some of them several times, since the stockholders' war over the proposed consolidation. Officials of Sheet and Tube estimated the task would require at least six months in some cases.

ACTRESS SUES HAYAKAWA

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Ruth Noble, beautiful young American stage actress, today named Sessue Hayakawa, noted Japanese actor, as the father of her baby son, as a legal spotlight glared on their asserted blighted romance.

In a legal complaint on file today Miss Noble sought to set aside the adoption of her child, under the name of Alexander Hayes, by Hayakawa and his wife, Tsuri Aoki, stage and screen actress.

The baby, born January 31, 1929, in New York City, was adopted last August 26 by Mr. and Mrs. Hayakawa after they had agreed to pay her $4,500 and $150 a month indefinitely, Miss Noble stated.

WALKER MONEY AGENT HUNTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Find Sherwood at all costs.

That word was given today by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter Legislative Committee, to attaches seeking trace of Russel T. Sherwood, Mayor Walker's missing business agent, whose reported $1,000,000 business transactions in more than a dozen banks and brokerage houses were uncovered by the committee.

Sherwood was sought by the Seabury investigators for questioning regarding the Mayor's financial transactions. He has been out of reach of subpena servers for two months. Mayor Walker disclaimed knowledge of his whereabouts and maintained silence when asked regarding the new developments.

HURT BY BRICK IN FIGHT, DIES

Oscar Dictoill, 29, who had been a patient in the Allegheny General Hospital since October 12 when, according to police, he was struck in the stomach with a brick during a free-for-all fight on the Monongahela River front, died late yesterday.

The body was removed to the morgue where an autopsy will be performed. Deputy Coroner John Artz is making an investigation into the fatal fight.

Banners Not Barred In Strike Injunction

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 16.—Judge Harold Brennan's injunction against striking stogie makers, does not bar the display of street banners by the strikers, E. T. Huggins, financial secretary and treasurer of the union workers, said today. Huggins says 450 stogie makers are still on strike.

Discord Breaks Up Railroad Musical Whistle Parley

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Maybe officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad will have to call in a musical genius to decide a problem of railroading.

They are faced with the delicate task of selecting new whistles for their engines which will be penetrating enough to warn motorists and yet musical enough to soothe families living along the right of way.

Musical chimes were demonstrated first, but were frowned on, the contention being that some engineers might not have a sense of music. A tenor whistle was next tried. Some of the women folks liked this one, but the men seemed to prefer another which sounded something like a fog horn.

No decision was reached.

DREISER ASKS STRIKE PROBE

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—"A reign of terror imposed by thugs and jailbirds" today existed in the Harlan (Ky.) mine strike area, Theodore Dreiser informed a group of public men whom he invited to serve on a non-partisan committee to investigate conditions there.

Authorities have joined employers in the strike region in denial of "all constitutional and ordinary human rights to 18,000 American miners and their families," Dreiser asserted.

Those asked to serve on the committee included Senators La-Follette, Shipstead, Couzens and Norris; Charles P. Taft II, son of the late President Taft; William Allen White, Emporia (Kan.) editor; Bishop William H. Dubose, Tennessee, and Daniel Willard, president, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

GRIPPLED MAN BLAMES THUGS

The story of how he was attacked, beaten and robbed was told yesterday by Charles Dobroslski, 37, of 724 Kerr street, when he regained consciousness after the accident a week ago which resulted in the loss of both feet.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital a week ago after a shifting engine had severed his feet at the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near South Twenty-first street. He said he had been knocked unconscious and robbed by three youths from whom he had asked direction to his West End home. The locomotive hit him while he was lying prostrate on the tracks.

Gunmen Get $3,800 In Ohio Bank Holdup

WEST MANCHESTER, O., Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Two gunmen today made their escape with $3,800 after holding up the First State Bank of West Manchester as the bank opened its doors.

Assistant Cashier R. Peyer was held at the point of a gun and the lone customer in the bank at the time, a woman, was made to stand behind a door as one of the men scooped currency from the counter and rifled vault drawers.

1 Dead, 1 Overcome By Gas in Ohio Mine

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. Oct. 16.—Isaac Hostetler, 69, was found dead and his nephew, Grant Hostetler, 46, was found unconscious nearby in a mine on the William Ohlinger farm, near Sugar Creek, which they leased yesterday. They are believed to have been overcome by gas fumes following a blast.

Robbers Loot Home On Briar Cliff Road

'Iron Dog' Catcher Hunts Pigeons, Shoots Foot

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Gene de Servi, the former dog-catcher who a few years ago sneaked up from behind some bushes and pounced upon a dog on the grounds of a fashionable estate, only to find that the hound he sought was made of iron, now a special policeman, decided to do something about the pigeon plague yesterday.

So he set out for Northbrook. There on the main street he drew his pistol and coaxed the pigeons around him by using peanuts as bait. One of the birds ensconced right by his foot.

Gene took aim and fired.

MURDER TRIAL RADIO HALTED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Protests by the Bar Association and Superior Court officials caused Judge Harry W. Falk to halt a radio broadcast of testimony in the retrial of David H. Clark, former Deputy District Attorney, on charges of slaying Herbert Spencer, magazine editor.

It was the first time in local courtroom history that microphones were installed. Judge Falk said the broadcast of the state's rebuttal testimony was unauthorized, but he did not interfere with this overstepping of his permission until the formal protests were made. He said he had considered the broadcast harmless.

The Bar Association representatives and court officials, however, violently protested this breaking of courtroom precedent. Judge Falk said he would permit broadcast of the final arguments of attorneys.

In the previous trial Clark testified he shot Spencer and Charles Crawford, politician, in self-defense. The jury disagreed.

DROUGHT AREA RELIEF RUSHED

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Ninety-six cars of donated food and clothing, amounting to approximately 2,400 tons, have been shipped into the Montana-North Dakota drought area by the American Red Cross in the last two weeks, R. A. Shepard, relief director, said today.

Of the total, North Dakota communities contributed 68 cars, Montana donated 11, Minnesota 8 and Wisconsin 5.

Potatoes formed the bulk of the food shipments, but Shepard said many more of them are needed. He said only two cars of clothing had been loaded for shipment and urged communities with supplies ready for movement to communicate with his office here as soon as possible to take advantage of free transportation privileges of the railroads.

CATTLE STRIFE FLARES ANEW

MT. PLEASANT, Ia., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Resistance to the tuberculin testing of cattle in Henry County, dormant since Monday, has broken forth anew on two farms near Lowell.

Joe Grinstead refused to allow veterinarians to test his herd.

Iowa National Guardsmen were called to the farm. They sought to disarm and arrest Grinstead. During the struggle Glenn Grinstead, a brother, tried to seize a rifle from a guardsman while Joe Grinstead held the troopers at bay. The latter was disarmed, and the brother fled.

Meanwhile, Gloyd Thornburg, another farmer in the Lowell vicinage, at first refused to let his herd be tested, but later consented.

$100,000,000 Hotel Improvements Seen

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 16.—(AP)—American hotel owners will spend $100,000,000 during the next 12 months for remodeling and refurnishing, Thomas D. Green, New York, president of the American Hotel Association, said today.

Green, here to address the convention of the Northwestern Hotel Association, said this figure did not include operating expenses or new construction.

Louis Walz, Oil Pioneer is Dead

Phila. Appropriates $1,500,000 For Relief

GOVERNORSHIP WAR THREAT SUBSIDES

Long's Armed Police Rest as Cyr Puts Fight for Office Up to Louisiana Courts

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 16. — (AP.) — Louisiana's gubernatorial revolution apparently is going to be decided by battles purely legal.

Gov. Huey P. Long, the besieged, rested his armed guard of state highway police today following the announcement of his lieutenant governor, Paul N. Cyr, chief pretender to the executive's chair, that he would leave the matter to the courts.

Cyr, who voluntarily took the Governor's oath at Shreveport and demanded that Long abdicate because of his recent election to the United States Senate, said last night he had "no intention of going to Baton Rouge to start trouble."

He made the announcement in a campaign speech at Alexandria (he is seeking election to the governorship in the next voting) and added he was going "to abide by decision of the courts, because I am a law abiding man."

THIRD ASPIRANT SILENT

The third claimant to the Governor's office, Walter L. Aldrich, unemployed resident of Shreveport, who took the oath after Cyr and warned he, too, would file an ouster suit against Long, remained silent today. He previously said he was coming here to "take possession" of the office.

Meanwhile, there was an open season on the office of Lieutenant Governor.

Alvin O. King, of Lake Charles, president pro tempore of the State Senate, was on the payroll as Lieutenant Governor after Long had Cyr's name struck off as he laid claim to the governorship. But he was only one of those who said the job was theirs. He has taken the oath.

L. D. Smith, of Benton, claimed he had as much right to the office as King and also took the oath to become "one of the Lieutenant Governors." E. H. Reed, a Shreveport groceryman, remarked that times were "sort of hard" and that he also expected to take the oath for Lieutenant Governor because "the third Governor ought to have a Lieutenant Governor."

'COMEDY OF POLITICS'

Cyr is seriously continuing his denunciation of Long and his plans for filing his ouster suit. At the Capitol Long called the situation a "comedy of modern politics."

Long has recognized King as Lieutenant Governor and King's credentials as such have been filed by Miss Alice Lee Grosjean, secretary of state. When the credentials of Cyr and Aldrich for Governor arrived, however, the Secretary of State announced the intention not to file them away because she did not consider the Governor's office vacant.

Yesterday Long said his fear of an invasion of his administration by Cyr, should the Chief Executive leave the state, now was gone.

Cyr, elected Lieutenant Governor as Long's running mate, once was his close friend, but they had disagreements, notably over an execution, which resulted in political enmity.

RESUME FIGHT ON STORE TAX

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.) — From North Carolina came a fresh attack in the Supreme Court upon the validity of a state tax on chain stores.

The campaign, led by John W. Davis as counsel for the Great Atlantic and Pacific Company and other chain operators, was pointed on the contention the court's 5 to 4 decision last term upholding the Indiana tax was inapplicable.

Davis contended the North Carolina tax was unlawful discrimination and explained why he thought the Indiana ruling could not control this case.

The tax was imposed by Indiana on all stores, he said, increasing with the number operated, but in North Carolina, operators of one store were exempt while those operating two or more were subjected to the levy of $50 each which he sought to have declared invalid.

OAKLAND HALL SITE OPPOSED BY CANDIDATE

Alpern Seeks Commissioner Post, Favors Building on North Side or Downtown

Pledged to put the proposed Town Hall either on the North Side or downtown if the Supreme Court overrules the action of the County Commissioners in designating the Nicola site in Oakland, Louis Alpern, Liberal candidate for Commissioner, today made a bid for support of those who have opposed the Oakland location. He said:

"If the Supreme Court reverses the lower court on the appeal of the residents of Oakland and Schenley Farms and declares that the present County Commissioners abused their discretionary power in purchasing the Nicola site and if I am elected Commissioner, I will oppose any site that is not located in either the downtown section or the North Side.

"I could never understand why, after the voters had authorized the Town Hall by their approval of the bond issue, there should have been so much delay in picking the site and getting started. I could never understand the reasoning and logic of the present board of Commissioners in arriving at a decision on the Nicola site.

The present Commissioners asked the public for suggestions. Numerous sites were suggested. Public hearings were had. The only section of the city where the majority of taxpayers and residents protested against placing of the Town Hall in their midst was the Schenley Farms section.

"It seems to me very plain that the Town Hall in Schenley Farms is bound to be a 'white elephant' and a burden on the taxpayers."

Fat Turkish Men Fight New Mode Of Slenderness

ISTANBUL, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Turkish men, to whom fat has meant beauty, are endeavoring to keep up their own bulging waistlines even if the womenfolk do slenderme.

Fazli Bey, aide of the Governor of Istanbul, has been asked to resign from the Fat People's Association because he deliberately brought his weight down from 264 pounds to 217.

The women of Istanbul have been going to doctors and gymnasium instructors for some time in an effort to achieve the new slimness, but the Fat People's Association, composed of 200 bulky men, has been thriving. A minimum weight of 264 pounds is required for membership in the organization.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Former Representative Herbert W. Taylor died last night from a cerebral hemorrhage. He was a member of the Sixty-seventh and Sixty-ninth Congress.

HOP OUT OF BED AND DRINK WATER IN THE MORNING

Italian Doctors Working Wonders on Headache and Stomach Sufferers With Simple, Internal Bathing

Why is it that eight out of every ten people today are being made miserable, unhappy and inefficient by constant headaches?

Italian doctors startled the world by giving plain effervescent water before breakfast as the remedy. A homely treatment, but effective sometimes beyond belief. A form of intestinal bathing that makes anemic-looking, pasty-faced, headachy and stomach-acidity people take on new life, new appearance and new health.

The way the treatment works is on the same principle of washing out the intestines every morning before breakfast, just like you wash dirt off your face and hands. For just as it is necessary to clean ashes from a furnace before a fire burns bright and clear, so it is necessary to wash out the stomach BEFORE food goes into it.

Otherwise you most likely cause a bad condition by mixing the food you eat with ptomaine-like accumulations in the stomach that virtually poison the fresh foods you put in it.

For that reason, every man or woman—whether sick or well—is advised to drink each morning BEFORE BREAKFAST, one-half glass of water with two tablespoons of ordinary Italian brioschi effervescent in it, followed by a large glass of plain water. That's the whole Italian treatment tens of thousands of people today are crediting with near-miracles in the relief of constant headaches, sour stomach, acidity, constipation, "bilious" attacks and general lassitude and debility.

The Italian brioschi effervescent to put with water can be obtained in large cans at any store for a few cents. The way to pronounce the word is Bree-os-ky—ordinary Italian brioschi. A few days of it will suffice to make most anyone a crank on the subject of intestinal bathing.

One right remedy for

COLDS

Plenty of Things League Can Do In Manchuria

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

After getting Japan's answer the League of Nations has its choice of the following diplomatic detours:

It can take it or leave it.

It can change the subject.

It can ignore Japan's answer, confess to a humiliating weakness or write a testimonial for some good tonic.

It can fire the stenographer who took the dictation from the guy who shouldn't have written the note.

It can allow Japan to kick China around Korea and Manchuria. No matter which side wins, the banquet will be a bowl of rice.

CHARGE BLAST DUE TO METER TAMPERING

Attempt to Prevent Gas Registering Alleged By Deeputies; Victim Dies

Meter tampering was held yesterday as the cause of the blast which last Monday caused the death of one man and injury of four others in an explosion in an apartment at 131 North Negley avenue, by coroner's deputies and experts of of the Duquesne Light Company.

A leak, they said, was caused by an attempt to prevent the gas from registering in the meter. George Lemmon, 63, owner of the dwelling, died yesterday in the West Penn Hospital, from injuries in the explosion.

The injured, recovering in the hospital, were Mrs. James Reedy, of Greensburg, who was being shown through the apartment, and her children, Janet May, 5, and Joseph, 2, and Mrs. Emma Burris, Negro, of 138 Randolph street.

Dravosburg Man Beat Him When He Failed to Provide Job, Attorney Charges

Charged with assault and battery and attempted extortion, David McBride, of 409 Euclid avenue, Dravosburg, was committed to jail yesterday in default of $2,000 bail after hearing on an information filed by Attorney James A. Nugent, of 1116 Braddock avenue.

Nugent testified McBride had written him threatening letters, saying he needed a job and if he did not get it would "beat up" the attorney.

On September 25, Nugent said, no job having been obtained, McBride made good his threat, warning him it would be repeated if the job was not forthcoming at once.

Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan fixed the bail at $1,000 on each of the two charges.

American Wins Art Prize With 'Suicide' Canvas

By PENELOPE REDD

The coveted first prize of the Carnegie Institute's annual exhibition of paintings by artists in Europe and the United States was awarded to "Suicide in Costume," by Franklin C. Watkins, 37-year-old artist of Philadelphia. With the Carnegie award of $1,500 also was conferred the Lehman Prize of $2,000 and in addition the purchase of the painting at the list price, by A. C. Lehman, the Pittsburgh donor.

Penelope Redd

The painting is discussed, together with an article about Mr. Watkins, in another story today.

The second prize award of $1,000 was given to Mario Sironi, of Milan, for his painting, "Fisherman." Sironi, about the same age as Watkins, is of the group known as "Six Painters of the Century 900, united to clarify their vision, each in his own way upon the old masters' ideals of the plastic art."

Closely identified with Fascismo, he is popular as an illustrator for Mussolini's paper, Il Popolo d'Italia. Although, like Watkins, he strives to express his philosophy in paint, Sironi is unlike

AWARD BRINGS SUCCOR TO WATKINS

Philadelphian Now National Figure Through Winning Honors at Exhibit Here

The story of Franklin C. Watkins, winner of the first prize award, the A. C. Lehman prize, and the Lehman purchase, at the Carnegie annual exhibition just opened, is a story that happens only once in a life time.

Watkins was caught 10 days ago in a Philadelphia bank crash. With creditors pounding on the door, his prize money literally arrived in good, old melodramatic fashion, just in time to save the young painter dire financial embarrassment.

A year ago Watkins was hard at work on a picture through which he hoped to bring to the world his own reaction to the chaos of 1930.

To the artist it seemed a tragic clowning, human beings in cap and bells rushing madly to destruction. The medieval idea of the "Dance of Death," but expressed in the modern manner, without even symbolic Death to companion the desolate individual.

PORTRAYED AS CLOWN

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

See where Mrs. Morrow has been offered her husband's seat in the Senate if she wants it. Now, in most cases those positions are offered the wives just out of courtesy, but Mrs. Morrow is just about as unusual a woman as her husband was a man. She was a tremendous item in Mr. Morrow's Mexico success. She learned Spanish and became a great favorite with the Mexican people. If she goes in there she will know what the Senate is all about. Well, of course, not exactly, but as near as it can be found out.

Prize Winner's Wife Shuns 'Severest Critic' Role

Mrs. Franklin C. Watkins, of Philadelphia, wife of the winner of the first prize at Carnegie Institute's Thirtieth International Art Exhibit, is first and last a wife.

Proud of her huhband, who leaped to fame overnight, Mrs. Watkins passed the lie to the time-honored adage that one's wife is one's severest critic, saying:

"I am just a wife."

Then turning to her beaming husband, she smiled and said.

"We are too surprised for words."

As to how it feels to be the wife of the man sitting atop the art world, Mrs. Watkins hasn't decided. She said:

"We haven't got over the shock as yet—you know they say that good news can be just as shocking as bad news."

Mrs. Rauh Seeking Motive Of Charity Scheme

An alleged bogus charity affair being conducted under the auspices of a woman's organization by an out-of-town promoter whose telephone solicitations dwell on the benefit purpose that the tickets fail to mention, was being investigated today by Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare. No city permit has been obtained for the affair.

While tickets advertise a cabaret ball to be held November 25, one member of the organization revealed she had understood the affair to be a blanket bazaar. Yet, when the telephone solicitors call ministers the polite title of "a tea" is attached to the affair.

Salespersons call to deliver the tickets and collect the admission. Tickets show the price had been set at $3 per couple, but the "ante" had been raised to $2 a person, with the change in admission being typewritten on the ticket.

Mrs. Rauh declared an ordinance prohibits solicitation for charity affairs without a city permit. The department will prosecute all promoters evading the law, she declared. The promoters are using the name of an unknown charity bureau, though similar to one legitimately conducted.

JURY RESUMES BALLOT PROBE NEXT WEEK

Further Check of Phantom Assessments Made; Quiz To Take Up Ward Charges

The grand jury probe of alleged irregularities and fraud in the recent primary election will be resumed by the October jurors Monday or Tuesday, it was indicated today as the jury's routine work neared an end.

A mass of evidence has been prepared for presentation to the jury after its approval by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who is returning to the city tomorrow from a week's vacation trip to Canada.

SPECIAL CHARGE

Before the jury starts its work which already has resulted in the indictment of a number of assessment board and election officials, however, it was expected that the jury would be taken before Presiding Judge Frank P. Patterson for a special charge dealing specifically with the extended angle of the sweeping investigation.

Further check of phantom assessments and phantom voting, uncovered during examination of approximately 40,000 tax affidavits under the direction of Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, will probably be given the jury for first consideration as well as evidence of fraud uncovered during examination of ballot boxes returned to the District Attorney's office by the return board.

SECOND WARD PROBE

In addition the grand jury will investigate numerous minor complaints of irregularities in various voting districts, the whole work probably keeping the jury in session for the remainder of the month.

First to be considered will be investigation of irregularities in the Second Ward. Other wards will be taken up in their order.

PHILADELPHIA ARTIST WINS 1ST PRIZE

Watkins in that he is widely known in his native land.

COMIC RELIEF

This prize is in the nature of comic relief to the melancholy of the two first prizes and the grave honorable mentions. Dufy, like Sironi, shows at the Carnegie International for the first time.

Dufy has extended his talents beyond painting into almost every manifestation of the decorative arts. In the Carnegie prize picture, he rivals the pace of the comic page in his incisive calligraphic drawing veiled in washes of delightful color.

An award such as the Dufy is likely to make one speculate.

It is almost inevitable that an artist's jury with a knowledge of the complete talents of a painter will be influenced by the man's achievements as a whole, and not by the single painting exhibited.

HONORABLE MENTION

The first honorable mention with a prize of $300 was awarded to "A Deserted Mill," by Judson Smith. Like Watkins, Smith again arrived at the Carnegie show by grace of jury admission.

Smith's painting is the antithesis of Dufy's fugitive Parisian pastiche. Smith has somber color and organizes his form with the utmost seriousness.

Yasuo Kuniyoshi, who received the only other honorable mention, is about the same age as Watkins and Sironi. A Japanese by birth, he came to the United States at the age of 13. He received his art education in New York. Like Judson Smith, he is also a member of the Woodstock group.

"STILL LIFE" LAUDED

Kuniyoshi has technical qualities that rouse painters to enthusiasm. He renders every one of the conglomerate objects of his "Still Life," with vitality. There is not a dull passage of painting in the canvas, but it is doubtful whether or not the general public will be sufficiently attracted to the picture to discover its subtler points.

The prize of $300, contributed by the Allegheny County Garden Club, was given to "Bouquet," by Andrew Dasburg. One of the first painters to settle at Woodstock, he has now been a member of the New Mexican group for almost a decade.

The unsuspecting public may enjoy the splendid color in the Dasburg canvas without being in the least perturbed by its absolute excellence.

Prize Winning Art Unheeded for Months

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The painting, "Suicide in Costume," which won the first prize at the Carnegie International in Pittsburgh, hung almost unnoticed for three months last spring in the Little Gallery of Contemporary Art here. Contemporaries praised it, but other visitors gave little attention.

Mr. Watkins sent the picture to compete against 1,000 others for admission by jury to the Carnegie International as he had done on one other occasion, when he had two canvases accepted.

This time, however, he not only won admission, but captured the prize of prizes.

MADE NATIONAL FIGURE

Watkins' previous honors were conferred by the Philadelphia Sketch Club—an honorable mention two years ago, and the gold medal last winter. He exhibited in New York when he was invited to show at the Museum of Modern Art as one of a group of Americans under 35 years of age.

Watkins' father, Benjamin Franklin Watkins, of North Carolina, was an inventor and held many patents. His mother was Shirley Chenault, of Louisville, Ky. As for schools, Mr. Watkins said:

"I went to no less than three colleges. For four days at the age of 15 to the University of North Carolina; for one year to the University of Virginia, and for six months to the University of Pennsylvania. Then at about the age of 18, I did what I always intended to do, and matriculated at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts."

STUDY INTERRUPTED

After he commenced to study at the Pennsylvania Academy, his early art study was interrupted for three years through the necessity of earning money to continue. He entered business in New York.

The World War lengthened the interlude by two years. He worked during that time in the camouflage department.

During his three years in the schools of the Pennsylvania Academy, he won two scholarships, which he used in one year in Europe.

He cared not at all for Paris, and went directly to Spain and then to Italy. He did not concern himself with modern art, but contemplated the work of the old masters. In Italy, he remembers seeing a Cezanne.

MEETS MODERN ART

Watkins was completely bowled over by so much newness, although he declared he was not impressed when he saw modern masters. The discovery of modern masterpieces hanging beside old art reversed all his accepted art theories and he was thrown temporarily into confusion.

Watkins is endowed with the gifts of the gods, in his undoubted talent, his sensitivity, and a very handsome person.

He works slowly and consequently has few canvases to show. He is represented in Philadelphia in the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts through a purchase from the Lambert Fund. He also painted the mural decorations in the Rodin Museum on the Parkway.

Watkins, with his wife, who was Fridolyn, the daughter of Ellis Gimbel, of Philadelphia, was the guest of the Carnegie Institute for the Founder's Day exercises.

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

The Invisible Hand

IT SEEMED to Tim Smith that, instead of getting better, things were getting worse. The evening meal hadn't helped him any. He sat low in his chair and gazed gloomily out of the window. What was going to happen if he didn't land a chauffeur's job pretty soon? What was the end to be?

Tim was 23 years of age and had always been considered a nice kid by the neighborhood. There hadn't been any school for him after his seventeenth year because the folks needed any money that Tim might be able to bring in. So Tim had found himself a driving job and had been earning fairly good money ever since.

But now things were very different. He had lost his last job almost three months before. Not because he had done anything wrong, but because the boss had found it necessary to cut down. Since then, as Joe Eisinger points out, Tim's days had been nothing more than a continuous round of non-success. He had written his name and address until his arm grew weary—but no firm had ever called him for a job.

He stirred in his chair and looked over at his father. A great guy, the old man. But just a little lazy. He had been over there during the war; had left his wife and kid to do it, too. But now that the war was long a thing of the past, he seemed content to rest on his achievements in the big scrap. As a matter of fact, he had done very little work since the day that Tim first began to earn money.

His father was talking now. Tim listened.

"I think I'll have a job sooner than you expect me," he was saying. "The alderman was telling me yesterday that something was bound to turn up almost any day. A great fellow, that alderman."

Tim arose and took his hat. He had heard this stuff about the alderman for so long that he was growing desperately tired of it. The alderman had promised the old man this; the alderman had promised the old man that. But all the while there had been no job. And here they were, living on the money that Tim's mother had been saving through the years. When that was gone—what then?

"I'm goin' out," muttered Tim. "I'm gettin' sick and tired of hearin' pop talk about the alderman."

He closed the door and walked around the corner to Gordoni's poolroom . . .

In a corner of the room, Pete and Jerry were banging the balls around in a frantic game of Chicago pool. Tim stopped at their table and watched the game.

Secretly, he had always admired Pete and Jerry. It was an open secret that they were crooks, but the police had never pinned anything definite on them just yet. Meanwhile, they were the great lovers of the neighborhood. Their pockets always seemed to be stuffed with ready cash.

Pete looked at Tim and whispered something to Jerry. The latter man nodded. They motioned Tim to one side.

"You're a good feller, Tim," said Pete. "Jerry and me has always liked you. Suppose we hop over to my apartment and have a little drink?"

So over to Pete's house went the three men. The host opened a bottle of rye. It took him almost an hour to get to the point of the meeting. And when he did, Tim was startled.

Pete and Jerry proposed that he join them in a holdup to be staged the following afternoon. It was all very simple. The Sterling Bank sent $30,000 to the Utopia Trust Company once every week. Sometimes an armed guard was sent along. Sometimes not.

The layout was beautiful to a criminal mind. The messengers went by the elevated railway, and always descended the stairs close to where the Utopia Trust was located. Within a fast car waiting and a nervy man at the wheel, how could the holdup fail?

"We want you for our driver on this job, Tim," muttered Pete, "and it's the chance of a lifetime. How in blazes can we lose? Them messenger buns ain't takin' no chances on their lives. And the chances is that, if they have an armed guard, he'll faint dead away when he knows he's in a real holdup.

"Our regular driver ain't in town right now, and that's where you fit in. It'll be 15 minutes' work—and we'll slip you $5,000 for your end. Remember—we're only lettin' you work with us because we know you're a right guy. Are you in?"

Five thousand dollars! A fantastic sum of money. Money for his mother. Money for pop. No more worrying about the alderman. Money for himself and the girls. Five thousand dollars! Tempting, lovely money.

But he said no. Give him credit for that. He said no—and had another drink. He said no a second time—and had a second drink. After the fourth drink, he said yes. He phoned his mother and told her he wouldn't be home that night. It looked as though he might make a connection for a good job, he said. Then he turned back and went over the plans with Pete and Jerry . . .

The following day, at 2:30 they staged the hold-up. Tim sat at the wheel of the stolen car and twisted his fingers nervously. Pete had given him full instructions. He and Jerry were on the stairs now, and waiting for the messengers. Tim had only to control his nerves and drive off as soon as the robbery was completed.

The minutes passed. Each one was like a hammer on Tim's nervous system. He choked a sudden desire to drive off. A train roared into the station. This must be it. The doors were closing now. A jerk. The train was off again.

Suddenly a shot. Two shots. A third. Down the stairs came Pete and Jerry. They tumbled into the machine.

"Drive like the devil, kid. Drive like the devil."

Mechanically, Tim did as he was told. He had no sense of fear now. It was as if his nerve had gone dead.

Some miles away, the car was abandoned. Pete and Jerry cursed their luck. The holdup had failed.

"It was that lousy armed guard," muttered Pete. "Instead of holdin' his hands up, he drew his gun. But I fixed him. Plugged him right through the heart."

Tim left the two men at a subway station. They were going to lay low for a while. Tim was going home. Pete said he was sorry they hadn't made any dough.

Tim's reply was a grin. I don't think he knew he grinned . . .

* * *

"Any luck?" she asked as she kissed him.

"Well," she cried happily, "we won't have to do so much worryin' any more. Would you believe it, son, the alderman finally came through? He got dad a job—and father went to work this mornin' as the armed guard for the Sterling Bank messengers" . . .

FOUR CONVICTED IN KIDNAPING

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Four men were convicted last night, by a jury, of kidnaping Charles M. Rosenthal, wealthy young broker, who was held for $50,000 ransom. A woman, whom the state accused of acting as a decoy for the quartet, was acquitted.

Those convicted were Nicholas Rutigliano, 39, hotel proprietor reputed to have received the largest share of the ransom; Marcus Blumenthal, 28, salesman; Albert Sileo and Theodore Adinolfi.

Betty Stewart Green, a Negro, was acquitted. The presiding Judge instructed the jury there was evidence she had been promised $5,000 as her part of the ransom, but her counsel contended she had no "guilty knowledge" of the kidnaping in accompanying Rosenthal to an apartment where he was seized.

Since all four men have previous criminal records, they will face possible sentences of 50 years imprisonment under the Baumes law.

MERRICK DENIES SALE OF KDKA :-:

Peggy Wood Sings With Reisman

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor

F. A. MERRICK president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, does today that the company contemplates disposing of its interest in KDKA, WBZ, WBZA, KYW and KFKX to the National Broadcasting Company, as frequently intimated in news stories published here and in Washington, D. C. Mr. Merrick made very plain that the Westinghouse company has no intention of divesting itself of ownership or operation of any of its broadcasting stations as a group or as one individual.

Darrell V. Martin

His statement was posted on all bulletin boards at KDKA this morning and there was relief indeed among hundreds of employes who had rested uneasily since the story was published seven weeks ago. . . . It has been known for a long time that the NBC anticipated gaining control of KDKA and the other stations either by outright purchase or leased management, but Mr. Merrick's statement sets at rest all these rumors.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The Metropolitan Opera House spies report is becoming more favorably disposed on radio so favorably disposed that the broadcasting generalissimos may haul up their flags there any day.

The generalissimos have tried hard to conquer the Met, have brought up their battering rams of persuasion repeatedly only to meet a loud and convincing rebuff. The opera house remained the last musical stronghold which still resisted the broadcasting attack.

One after one the Metropolitan stars have enrolled under the radio banners have found in the microphones a vast and certain reward. Their presence in the parade assured them tremendous publicity which must have been echoed in the executive offices of the Met. But still the house itself resisted capture.

* * *

A breakdown in the resistance was achieved last spring when Stokowski presented his own production of "Oedipus Rex" there. Stokowski, as you know, has long carried a torch for radio. But no regular, honest-to-Gatti presentation has been broadcast. Let Chicago opera have its fling at the microphones, they seemed to say at the Met, but radio is not for us and never will be, so help-us-Jeritza.

* * *

The day is coming, however, The Met has seen the light as its stars have seen the light, as all the leading symphony bands have seen the light. Fifty million ears cannot longer be neglected.

* * *

Novels about radio and its figures are beginning to flood the newsstands. Strange, the fictioneers waited so long before capitalizing upon the romance of broadcasting and the rise of the microphone to the amusement peaks of the land!

And here is Ray Long, hardly started upon his book publishing business represented in the fall lists with a volume called "Ames 'n' Andy," a book prefaced by Irvin Cobb and detailing some of the more fetching dialogues of those bewildered oafs who not so long ago were the most colossal household gods that ever stood astride the republic.

Troubles in Spain
Woes of the new Spanish Government, the attempt to force Ramsay MacDonald's resignation and a complete resume of Sino-Japanese relations will be topics for news re-enactments.
Ever since the abdication of Alfonso XIII Spanish Republicans have been attempting to draft a constitution. Factional quarrels as well as riots in the provinces have marred progress. Rebels objecting to an attempt of peasants at Villanueva to force landowners from their estates and an attempt of socialists to force provisional president Alcala Zamora out of office will be dramatized.
Relations between China and Japan will be briefly traced from 1592, when the first war between the two oriental states took place to the present struggle for the control of Manchuria.

KQV—Good Night.

Telling It First

Preceding by 22 hours Bill Hay's official announcement of Amos' illness last night on the NBC network, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph was the first newspaper in the United States to disclose that Freeman F. Gosden (Amos) was suffering from laryngitis and that the Amos 'n' Andy broadcasts were being made direct from Amos' bedside in his apartment on Lake Shore Drive, Chicago. The complete story of Amos' illness was published in Wednesday's Sun-Telegraph. Thousands of fans, believing that someone was substituting for Gosden, relied upon the Sun-Telegraph for the correct information.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation
When bad breath, a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.
The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.
So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.

The bride is Miriam Allen, daughter of William Ray Allen of La Grange, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. The ceremony took place this morning in the Allen home with the Rev. Dr. Irving Goddard performing the ceremony, the Episcopal ring service.

Margaret Yent of Lexington, Ky., Caroline Balmer of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, and Mrs. William M. Willard, of Aurora, Ill., were the bride's attendants, and Lieut. CHARMING BLOUSES FEATURE THE NEWEST EVENING MODE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—There is something new under the sartorial sun — or moon rather, since we are dealing with evening clothes. Everywhere women are seeking evening clothes that are festive without being too formal, since that is to be the keynote of the majority of entertainments this season. And we think that the search is over with the discovery of the rich evening blouse, elaborately embroidered with sequins and worn with a skirt of the same material with sun-pleating.

* * *

AS A VARIATION of this fashion, suitable for afternoon parties, there will most likely be lame blouses worn with velvet skirts. It is a grand costume and has a gracious note, dignity and youth all combined. And so what more can any woman ask. To Madame Lanvin goes the credit for having introduced this evening costume that will most likely be seen everywhere, except at the absolutely full-dress affairs when gala costume is essential.

* * *

NOW FOR THE first sketch of the new evening blouse and skirt that caused such a furore when first shown at Lanvin's new collection. The model here depicted is in white georgette for both blouse and skirt. The blouse is richly embroidered in silver sequins, while the skirt is pleated in radiating sunpleats. This gives the youthful note. For extra good measure, the belt is of silver mesh. Two loose panels are attached to the back of the blouse at each shoulder.

THE PENALTY OF GRAY HAIR

Gray hair—age—slipping. All these unpleasant ideas seem to go together. Yet, it is not at all necessary. Gray Hair often comes to a young head and people who have it are neither old nor incapable. But how often you hear people say, "Why, she has gray hair!" and she is on the shelf.

This penalty need no longer handicap the woman who uses Canute Water. This is a clear, spring-like water, of wonderful properties which actually restore hair to its original girlhood color. No complicated "color plan"; no danger of getting brunette shade when your hair is blonde. Not only the one kind but the only bottle is enough. It really is surprising what successful, youthifying results it gives.

Apply Canute Water yourself, in the privacy of your own home. Many women in town are doing the same thing; they simply do not mention it. You need not mention it either. Just buy a bottle from any good druggist—and get rid of the "age penalty" in gray hair. Canute Water is so safe, so scientific and sure that your dealer knows it will satisfy you; if not, he will refund your money. Sold and recommended by Kaufmann's and all Mayflower Drug Stores or your own druggists. The Canute Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Federation Elects, Votes For Aliens' Registration

Officers nominated on Tuesday were elected. Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, Ardmore, is the new president.

The organization's stand in favor of prohibition was reaffirmed, and support pledged to constructive measures for efficient enforcement. Teaching positions for married women are also advocated in the resolutions.

The delegation today were to select the place for the 1932 convention, then leave for a visit to the Gettysburg Battlefield.

The resolutions provide for the establishing of a county board of visitation, to study children in penal institutions, and propose that club women investigate the need and act accordingly in providing milk and penny lunches in the elementary schools; that each club arrange a special meeting at which a view of its community shall set forth what is being done to alleviate unemployment; and that the commissions appointed in January by Gov. Pinchot, be called upon to give an accounting of their actual accomplishments. Other resolutions recommended to all working for prison reform, that the women inmates of county jails be given work to occupy their time to aid in their rehabilitation and that, due to the harmful influence of older criminals on first offenders, the two classes be segregated. The federation opposed discrimination by state statute against the employment of married teachers in the public schools, who are otherwise qualified. In the teaching of physiology and hygiene the federation urged that special reference be made to the effect of alcoholic drinks, stimulants and narcotics on the human system.

The federation urged its members to work for a safe and patriotic celebration of the Fourth of July and proposed a celebration of the bi-centennial of the birth of George Washington, with appropriate programs and planting of memorial trees.

The federation re-stated its belief that the United States should be a member of the League Court.

Pen Women's League Told Of National Congress

At the October meeting of the Pittsburgh Branch League of Pen Women in the Wowens City Club yesterday Ruth Stevens Porter gave a most interesting account of the National Congress of Pen Women held last June in San Francosco.

Mrs. Porter exhibited photographs of the social affairs, at which well known writers and artists of the country were guests, and she closed her talk with a clever original poem in acrostic form.

After the luncheon the women adjourned to KDKA studio to hear the broadcast of Miss Marienne Genet, a member, whose compositions were given during the Radio hour of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women.

Mrs. Chester B. Story will entertain the Penn Women at tea Tuesday, November 4, in her new home in the Dithridge Apartments.

State B. P. W. President Speaks at Club Dinner

Miss Helen A. Blair, of Wellsboro, state president of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, discussed the significance of the club emblem when she spoke before the Pittsburgh B. P. W. Club at dinner in the Congress of Clubs last night. Mrs. Florence Fisher Parry also spoke and Ethel Vance Conrad sang.

RECIPES BY PRUDENCE PENNY

APPLE PIE—One and one-half cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 3 to 4 tablespoons cold water, 5 to 6 tart apples, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ¼ grated lemon rind, 1-3 teaspoon mace, 1-3 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ tablespoon butter.

Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add cold water to make a stiff dough. Chill. Roll out and line a 9-inch pie pan; sprinkle bottom with 1-3 of the sugar. Pare apples and cut rather fine. If apples are quite juicy mix flour with the sugar. Arrange apples in rows. Mix remaining sugar, lemon rind, mace cinnamon and salt; sprinkle over apples. Dot with bits of butter. Moisten edge of crust, cover with pricked top crust and flute edges. Bake 15 minutes in a hot oven (450 deg.), decrease to a moderate temperature (350 deg.) and continue baking 30 to 40 minutes.

* * *

SWEDISH SOUFFLE—Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup evaporated milk, 1 cup peas, 1 cup carrots, 4 eggs, 2 teaspoons sugar, salt and pepper.

Melt the butter, add flour and blend thoroughly, stirring constantly, add water and cook until sauce thickens. Then add milk and continue cooking, about two minutes.

Butter a baking dish and place left-over vegetables in the bottom. Beat eggs, add sugar, salt and pepper, then the white sauce. Pour over the vegetables. Bake one hour in moderate oven. Yields six servings.

* * *

SWEET POTATO CROQUETTES—5 medium sweet potatoes, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon butter, 1 egg beaten, 2-3 tablespoon evaporated milk, 1-3 cup chopped nut meat, bread crumbs, parsley.

Wash and bake potatoes in moderate oven until soft. Break into halves, scrape out the pulp and pass through a potato ricer. There should be a pint of mashed potato.

Add salt, butter, egg and milk. Add milk slowly. The mixture should not be too soft to handle. Add nuts and mold into pear-shaped croquettes. Roll in crumbs, undiluted evaporated milk and again in crumbs.

Pat into shape and fry in deep fat about five minutes or until a delicate brown. Or place in an oiled tin, sprinkle with 1 tablespoon oil and brown in a very hot oven about five minutes. Use stalks of parsley as stems. Makes six croquettes.

* * *

PEACH COFFEE CAKE—2 cups flour, 4 tablespoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon mace, ⅛ teaspoon cinnamon, 1-3 to ½ cups sugar, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 egg, 2-3 cup milk, ½ cup light brown sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 to 3 peaches, sugar.

Sift flour, measure and sift twice with baking powder, salt, mace, cinnamon and sugar. Cut in shortening and add egg beaten with milk. Mix well greased 9-inch square pan. Mix together the sugar and cinnamon; rub in the butter. Sprinkle evenly over the top of the dough. Dip the sliced peaches in sugar and arrange over the top. Bake in a hot oven (400 degree) 30 minutes.

* * *

HAWAIIAN JAM AND SWEET POTATOES—Place a dice of ham one inch thick in a greased baking dish. Sprinkle lightly with ground cloves, ground mustard and brown sugar. Brush parboiled sweet potatoes with melted butter and arrange around ham. Place slices of pineapple on the potatoes and pour pineapple juice over all. The juice should be about half an inch deep in the pan. Place in electric oven set at 375 degrees and bake 1¼ to 1½ hours.

* * *

ESCALLOPED CORN AND TOMATOES—Drain juice from one can corn and a can of tomatoes and mix the vegetables. Add 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 3 tablespoons butter, and form in a loaf. Place in loaf pan and sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake in electric oven set at 375 degrees from 1¼ to 1½ hours.

* * *

FROSTED SWEET POTATOES—Peel sweet potatoes and boil until tender in as little water as possible. Remove from liquid and to the liquid add 1 cup light brown sugar, 1 tablespoon melted butter and a dash of nutmeg. Cook this until it is thick. Place the potatoes in layers in a baking dish. Cover with the syrup. Bake one hour in oven at 350 degrees. When ready to serve, roll each piece of potato in granulated sugar. Use syrup as sauce.

* * *

MEAT LOAF—One pound round steak, ground; ½ pound lean pork, ground; 1 cup cracker crumbs; 3 whole eggs, beaten; 2 teaspoons salt; pepper to taste; 1 teaspoon onion, chopped fine; 1 cup sweet milk. Combine ingredients in order given, and pack in loaf pan. Bake 1¼ hours at 350 degrees.

* * *

NUT CAKE—Sift flour, measure and sift twice with baking powder and salt. Lightly mix in nuts and the raisins which have been washed and dried. Cream, butter and sugar thoroughly. Add dry ingredients and milk alternately; flavor. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a greased 8-inch loaf pan. Bake in a slow over (325 degrees) 65 to 70 minutes.

* * *

BAKED STUFFED POTATOES—Six large baked potatoes, 1 egg yolk, 2 tablespoon milk, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoonful pepper, 4 tablespoons cheese, cut fine, 1 egg white beaten. Cut potatoes in halves lengthwise and remove and mash pulp. Add rest of ingredients, mixing lightly. Roughly refill potato cases and bake 15 minutes in moderate oven.

* * *

MEAT PIE CRUST—One cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons shortening, 2 teaspoons water.

Sift flour, measure and resift with the salt. Cut in the shortening, add water and roll out. This is sufficient for one meat pie having just an upper crust. If two crusts are desired, increase the recipe just once.

* * *

TARTAR SAUCE—Make a foundation mayonnaise first as follows: Put 2 egg yolks in a chilled bowl, add ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon mustard and beat with rotary egg beater. Add 1¾ cup oil and 3 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar, alternately, adding the oil drop by drop at first. When it begins to blend with the egg yolks smoothly, add it in larger quantities, beating vigor-

You need BULK for Good Health

Concentrated foods slow you down. They cause sluggish elimination. That starts a whole string of troubles.

Pills, powders and potions give you relief. But it is only temporary. The best plan is to eat plenty of the bulky foods.

SUNSWEET California Prunes are one of the best. They are rich in fruit cellulose, bulk or "roughage" in its natural and most effective form.

SUNSWEETS balance the heavier foods, and have a gently laxative effect you need for good health. Nature's way is the best way. Besides, they are rich in vitamins and valuable mineral salts.

Serve them for breakfast at least three times a week. Medium, Large and Extra Large size fruit. To be sure of genuine SUNSWEETS buy them in the clean, handy, triple-sealed carton.

Today's prices are very low, too. Few fruits or foods compare with SUNSWEETS for value.

Don't Be Blackmailed Into Unhappy Marriage

She was going to be a "free soul!"—

Unfettered by conventions . . . undaunted by fear of consequences.

Suppose the man grew indifferent, after she had given him her all? Suppose he refused to marry her? Well—it had happened. She'd have to take that chance. But love was worth it.

And so—she kicked convention aside, and went ahead. And—as she had half expected—in time love changed. Romance lost its glamor. Quarrel followed quarrel.

No lady, he didn't.

He was all for marrying—

It was the girl who did the sneering.

THREATENS TO TELL

Abandon her. If only he would. But instead he insists on hanging 'round. And now he's trying to blackmail her into marriage! Which is a new and most disconcerting way of sowing Wild Oats—thinks Alice.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I know I don't deserve any consideration from you—or anyone else. I got into the mess I'm in myself. And I guess I'm getting just what I deserve. But oh, I hope you will help me. I am desperate.

"Of course it's a man. I do not love him now, and I want to be free of him. No one knows how I want to be free. But he is holding me against my will by threats. You see I thought I loved him . . . and now he threatens that if I break with him he will tell everyone of our relations.

"I would break with him if he threatened me with only bodily harm, because that would hurt no one but me. But I can't bear to think of my mother's feelings if she were to be told what he threatens to tell. She is not well, and I know it would kill her.

DESPISES HIM

"I have refused time after time, to marry him, but he won't let me go, and I know that if I stop seeing him he has just insanity enough about him to do what he threatens. He follows me around, and if I meet even a girl friend, he makes terrible scenes. I've reasoned with him, and even made threats myself, but he keeps right on.

I am not excusing myself. I was just as much to blame as he. But I have suffered plenty. This has been going on for four years now, and the last three have been a lifetime of hell. I can't marry him. Indeed since he showed himself in his true colors I loathe and despise him. I am only 26, but it seems as if I have no future at all.

What can I do? Please help me. I am so bewildered.

ALICE."

Yes. Well, maybe a little bewilderment will be good for what ails you, sister, after being so sure you knew it all. So sure you could play fast and loose with life . . . juggle with love and loyalty . . . laugh at consequences.

It can be done, Alice. Thousands of smarter humans than you have tried it and failed. And now how can you get out of the trap you made for yourself?

There's only one way—courage.

FIGHT WAY FREE

You boasted about your bravery once when you snapped your fingers at the law. Let's see you make good now. Call this man's bluff. Tell him that if he threatens you again with blackmail you'll find means to control him.

He'll laugh at you, of course. He'll threaten you again. Then make good your threat. Go to the police. Tell them the whole story. It won't be a new story to them, unfortunately. It will be one of the oldest—one of the commonest. Ask their protection—without publicity. They'll give it even without the asking. They're accustomed to dealing with blackmailers. They've had plenty of practice! They'll simply "tag" your friend—and give him a certain number of hours in which to leave town. And if thereafter he tries to get even—they'll do something more than "tag" him.

Then stay free—really free. Free from your own foolishness and fear, greediness and conceit. Free so that when a decent love comes your way you'll be fit to take it.

Age Is Not Always Wise and Youth Is Not Always Foolish, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Youth, on the other hand, is often so eager that it would be well worth listening to.

But the trouble is that age often takes itself too seriously and does not take youth seriously enough.

Youth on the other hand is often so eager that it fails to show the proper respect to age.

If age will not be too stubborn, and youth will not be too flippant, and they could get together and with the proper sympathy of ideas, each learn much from the other.

It is a wise boss who will listen now and then to the young men of his firm and cheerfully concede to a young idea that is good.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

Madge Decides to Seek Lillian's Advice

There is never any use of my trying to mask my feelings before Lillian. She knows every line of my face, every intonation of my voice, as I know hers, through our long and close association with each other. So I was not surprised to see her glance at me with apparent carelessness but in reality with keen scrutiny as she answered my question.

"Yes, we posted a number of letters among them one which Mary brought down. She said your door was open, and that the letter was in the little rack in which you always keep your letters for the post. It was all addressed, stamped and sealed. I hesitated for a second or two, wondering if I ought to awaken you and ask you about it. But you were sleeping so soundly, and Katherine had told me the awful punishments she meant to inflict upon anyone who dared to disturb you. Playing safe I believe was the most merciful."

"Ugh!" Her husband gave an ostentatious shiver, and rose from the chair where he had been luxuriously stretching his big body. "This is getting a bit too gruesome for me. I'll just step out and see how the bodyguard is getting on."

His wife looked after him affectionately.

"He's about as obvious as a hippopotamus feeding," she said with a smile. "But he's a darling to get out of the way so quickly. Now what's wrong? Didn't you want that letter mailed?"

I hesitated, then took a swift decision. I needed Lillian's counsel badly.

"I did when I wrote it," I said, "but I changed my mind decidedly later."

"Your generally hang-dog appearance hints strongly at your being in somewhat of a mess. Anything I can do?"

"You can listen while I tell you about it," I said.

"Don't forget you have those two small boys waiting for you," she said, and with a little start I remembered that I had sent Junior and Roderick to their room to wait until I should come to them.

"Thank you so much for reminding me," I said. "I must deal with them before Dicky and the boys get back from Southampton. But it won't take long to—"

"Put the fear of Mrs. Allah, alias Mrs. Madge, into their young souls," she finished as I hesitated. "No, I'll admit your celerity."

"Thank you," I said, "where can I see you as soon as I get through with them? Oh! I forgot something else. I must placate Mother Graham before I do anything else. She's 'mad by me,' as Junior says."

"Then you'll probably see me tomorrow morning," she said caustically. "Better settle the boys before you tackle her."

"I intend to," I said with decision.

"You're a wise lady." She patted my shoulder affectionately. "Here's hoping you win all your battles. In any event, I'll be waiting with the first-aid bandages and the healing ointment in your room. Mine's apt to have an irruption of girls and dresses into it at intervals until dinner time. I'll get ready for dinner. Then if you have any time you can tell me all about this mysterious letter which you didn't want mailed."

Her voice was raised a bit higher than usual, and it is a "carrying" voice. She can address an audience, and make everyone in the rear seats hear her perfectly. I cast an inadvertant glance upwards, wondering if Katherine could possibly hear her.

"Sorry," Lillian said in lowered tones, "but I don't believe she heard me. Besides, she's too absorbed in the baby to pay attention to anything outside."

I stared at her with the creepy little feeling which I often accord to her insight.

"How did you know?" I asked.

"Give me credit for a little brain matter," she retorted, but keeping her voice almost to a whisper. "I couldn't help but see the address on that letter to Martha Halkett, care of Jack's firm. And it was obviously a letter with an inclosure. But tell me the rest of it later. Hurry upstairs to those boys now, or their sighs will start your hot air heating plant."

I obeyed her but my feet lagged as they approached the suite in which are the nursery for our little new princess, Katherine's room and the boys'

Household Hints

While starch is still very hot drop into it a piece of alum the size of a walnut. This will give a glaze, and the articles starched will keep clean longer.

Powdered magnesia is excellent for slighter stains on white flannels and serge costumes. Put it on dry and brush off after laying it aside for a day.

In preparing corn soup either canned corn or corn boiled on the cob can be used. Press one cup of the corn through a sieve and add it to six cupfuls of boiling beef stock.

When a Napkin Drops

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. What shall be done and by whom when a lady and gentleman rise from the table to find that the lady has inadvertently left her napkin on her lap, consequently dropping it when arising?

2. Is it not correct to eat one's fruit cocktail with the most applicable (depending upon your good judgment) implement, whether it be a fork or a teaspoon? JOHN.

1. If the waiter is near, or within signaling distance, he will pick it up. Or if the napkin drops under the table or somewhere it is not in danger of tripping other diners, it may be left there, for the waiter will see it when he comes to clear the table. If there is no waiter about, and if it is apparent that it would be better to have it picked up, the gentleman will do this.

2. Yes, depending on what your hostess supplies you with. The teaspoon, either the regular teaspoon or the 5 o'clock teaspoon, is usually the more convenient silverpiece to use when we eat fruit cocktail since with it we can enjoy the delicious juice.

Restaurant Form

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct to put your chair back in place when leaving the table, especially in restaurants or cafes? H.

This readjustment of the chair is not necessary.

Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should I introduce a girl friend to my mother? BEE.

"Mother, this is Miss Alice Rule," or "Mother, this is Miss Rule." "Mother, this is Miss Rule."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Skin Ailment Menace to Fishermen

Erysipeloid is a skin condition which was first described in 1884. This disease is due to an infection caused by a bacillus or germ found in swine.

Dr. Copeland

For many years it was believed the condition was caused alone from contact with these animals. Certainly it is conveyed by some animal and swine are more frequently infected than others.

It is known now that many healthy swine may carry the disease without themselves being infected. The germ has been found in other animals particularly in diseased cattle, sheep, birds and fish.

The infection in man is rarely severe. It is the mild form of the infection that was originally described by Rosenbach in 1884.

It is not as rare a disease as it was formerly believed to be. It occurs among commercial fishermen, particularly during hot weather. Their infection comes from contact with fish. When erysipeloid involves the skin it is likely to have followed an injury to the hand.

The infection has been reported as a result of contact with rabbits. It has been observed after handling recently thawed fish in the zoological gardens. It may come from the sting of the jellyfish. It has been known to occur from the handling of dogfish.

The disease is an important one because it is a hazard of a great industry. Although it is not a vital disease, it often incapacitates the infected person for many weeks. It is an ailment that requires great care and treatment.

This condition is, of course, preventable. All individuals who are exposed to any one of the possible methods of infection should be particularly careful of every infection or injury of the hands.

ACCIDENTS KILL MANY IN HOMES

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The home economics teacher and the social welfare worker were called upon yesterday to extend safety education into the American home—where fatalities are only slightly fewer than those from automobiles.

Reuben L. Forney, Statistician of the National Safety Congress, cited figures at the twentieth annual convention to show that in 1930 the 30,000 home fatalities were only 3,000 less than those caused in the United States by automobiles.

Slipping in the bathtub, falling downstairs, upsetting scalding liquids, touching exposed wires, and the use of explosives to clean stoves and clothing were cited as the most common causes of such domestic accidents.

Falls, Forney said, lead the list of death causes. Burns, scalds and explosions are second, asphyxiation and suffocation are third, poisoning is fourth, and cuts and scratches are fifth.

Sugar Plays an Important Part in the Diet

If not taken in excessive quantities this food is easily digested and is most stimulating; it gives carbohydrates in concentrated form.

Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator From New York

Within the past few years, the sugar consumption in the United States has greatly increased. In 1926, more than 5,500,000 tons of sugar were consumed.

With this figure in mind, and assuming that a daily food requirement of 2,700 calories per person is demanded, it is estimated that nearly one-fifth of the requirement of food fuel in this country is supplied by refined sugar. One-sixth of this was obtained from beet sugar and the remainder was derived from sugar cane.

The present capacity of the United States refineries is estimated at 7,707,600 tons. This is approximately 70 per cent more than these refineries produced for domestic consumption in 1930 and slightly over 50 per cent more than was produced in 1926.

Sugar plays an important part in the diet. It offers in a concentrated form the most available carbohydrate. When properly taken, sugar throws little burden on the digestive system. It is quickly utilized.

Sugar has often been called a stimulant. It really is a stimulant. It gives the body the material for the immediate renewal of energy.

Athletes who require great endurance rely upon sugar. Mountain climbers always carry with them a good supply of milk chocolate. In a recent test it was shown, that marathon runners showed less exhaustion at the end of a race when sugar was eaten during the race.

Sugar is most commonly consumed in the form of candy. During the World War, American soldiers in France were abundantly supplied with sugar in this form.

The value of sugar cannot be over-estimated. In addition to its importance as a part of the regular diet, it is of great value in feeding the sick. It is particularly important when an easily digested carbohydrate is desired.

There is another thing about sugar that must not be overlooked. Anything that is sweet, given at the end of a meal, gives a sense of satisfaction. It helps to promote normal digestion.

However, everything can be abused. If taken intemperately sugar has definite objections. Too much sugar causes irritation of the kidneys. The excessive eating of sugar causes a lack of desire for important vegetables, fruits and other necessary foods. In proper quantities it is extremely useful and desirable.

HOME PLANNED BY LUTHERANS

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A new Lutheran home for orphan boys will be opened November 1 at St. Croix, Virgin Islands, it was announced at the annual meeting of the Board of American Missions of the United Lutheran Church in America, in session at Gettysburg College.

The Rev. J. C. Pedersen, of Pasadena, Cal., a former Lutheran missionary to the Virgin Islands and Africa, will be in charge of the home.

It was also announced that the new Lutheran training school at Monte Flores, San Juan, Porto Rico, will be officially opened next month.

Dr. J. B. Markward, of Springfield, O., was re-elected president of the board.

FLIER-PRIEST'S BURIAL PLANNED

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The body of the Rev. George Woodley, killed in a fall down a 20-foot bank in the Chickaloon district, northeast of here while he was returning to his hunting camp with the carcass of a mountain sheep, was brought here yesterday.

The priest's head was crushed when he struck the bottom of the ravine. The body was partially submerged when found by searchers. He had been missing since Tuesday.

Father Woodley, a regular priest, recently returned to Alaska in his own plane to engage in mission work along the lower Yukon River. He was to have started the work within a few days. At one time he was pastor of the Anchorage church.

The body probably will be taken to Boston, to be buried beside that of his mother.

Shifting Partner's Bid

Introduction of a normal opening bid of two for displaying holdings better than ordinary, and somewhat below demand bid strength, has removed all need of keeping bidding open on nondescript hands with a couple of kings and no very long suit.

Pass your partner's opening bid of one unless able to improve it. There are two important ways of improving partner's bid: naming another suit at which your joint cards can win more tricks; shifting to a declaration requiring fewer tricks for scoring game. Avoid weak "rescue bids;" the very game is enough to make one shudder.

Probably your partner's opening bid of one indicates ability to win five tricks in his own hand, provided you hold three small trumps. Do not become excited over the notion that partner holds only four trumps; there are fewer than 3 in 10 chances for that to happen. Unless able to make a good shift your only excuse for taking partner into another suit is a holding of fewer than three of his suit.

Pass partner's one-heart on the first hand below, but shift to one no trump upon the second hand. It is worth only three tricks, but it affords partner an opportunity to show you another suit that you can better support.

On the next hand you will bid 2 hearts over partner's 1 spade.

After that you may support a rebid of spades; in case partner bids 3 clubs, instead of either supporting your hearts or rebidding his spades, you should assist his spades.

It is customary to consider a shift to 1 no trump as showing less strength than would shifting your partner's suit declaration into another suit. This notion came from those using every opening two bid as a demand, and bidding one on hands of all sorts of strength that fell a bit short of obliging partner to respond. For the present, at least, it will be wise to consider the no-trump as probably showing less strength than a suit shift.

Shift partner's 1 heart to 1 no trump on the next hand. If he rebids his hearts you may bid 3 hearts, allowing him to decide whether 4 hearts, 3 no trump, or allowing the bidding to die will be best.

♠ Q-J-8
♥ 7-6-3
♣ K-9-8-4
♦ A-J-9

If weak in two suits take partner out of no-trumps upon any single long suit capable of being rebid in case he returns to no-trumps; also take partner out upon any two biddable suits, first showing one and then the other. No hand can be too strong to take partner out of no-trumps into a powerful suit.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Mascara is a convenient darkening agent for the eyebrows; it can be applied to the lashes as well. Comes in solid form, and there's a little brush there as a companion. Dip the brush in water, pass lightly over the mascara, touch the eyebrows so that the hair picks up the coloring substance without staining the skin surface underneath. When treating eyelashes, let the winkers rest upon the first finger.

When getting shoes fitted, try out various lasts. Different manufacurers offer different lasts; what suits one woman's foot won't do for the next. The inner line of the shoe should be straight. Toes should not come plump against the end of the shoe. The strap over the instep should be snug, so as to afford support. Heels must not be loose, else they'll raise blisters. Spiked heels distort posture. Not so good.

Stockings need to be amply large. Tight ones restrict toes, cause discomforts of the foot. When soles smart and toes twinge, rinse hosiery in water to which borax has been added. New stockings should be laundered before they are worn. Soak for five minutes in a bland suds, squeeze between the hands, rinse in several waters and spread out for the drying. For extremely tender feet lisle is recommended.

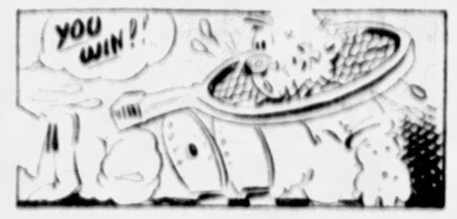
FORTY — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1931 — BEST IN PITTSBURGH



Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

MacMurdo-Collins Star. Take on Extra Duties. Grimes as Manager. Robbie's Stock Rising. Big Tackle Aids Dukes. More Credit Due Smith.

NEAT COMEBACK BY PITT GRIDDERS

TWO FOOTBALL PLAYERS who were dropped from the Pitt varsity squad near the close of the 1930 season on account of scholastic deficiencies have staged a great double comeback this year and right now are favorites of Panther fans. They are Jim MacMurdo and Paul Collins, who were regular ends in 1930 prior to their suspension, and who are playing side by side this season at tackle and end.

Jim MacMurdo

Both are not only attending to the regular duties of their positions in highly approved style, but they have taken on additional burdens and are handling their new tasks in a most acceptable manner. The job of making the extra point after touchdown has been entrusted to MacMurdo in the last two games, and so far he has made good in five out of seven attempts. During the same period the punting assignment has been turned over to Collins, and his booting has been more consistent than that of any regular Pitt kicker since Jimmy Hagan hung up his shoes to go into the administrative side of athletics.

AS SOPHOMORE IN 1929, MacMurdo and Collins, along with Center Ralph Daugherty, accomplished the unusual by making the varsity in their first year of eligibility. That's something rarely done on Sutherland teams, as Jock has always favored the experienced man over the green youngster.

It is quite a tribute to the ability of the three that they caught on so quickly. Then, last year, injuries and scholastic difficulties held MacMurdo and Collins back, and for a while it looked as if they were lost for good. Their abrupt about-face in the right direction has won for them many friends and admirers and has been a tremendous factor in making the Panther machine one of the strongest of recent years.

BROOKLYN NEWSPAPERS ARE now mentioning Burleigh Grimes as the latest possibility to succeed Wilbert Robinson as manager of the Dodgers. They figure Grimes could be obtained from the Cards for managerial purposes without difficulty, and say he is so well liked in Brooklyn that his appointment would strike a popular chord.

But they're beginning to qualify the speculation as to who will be the new manager of Brooklyn next year. The stories now read "provided Robinson is not retained." The impression continues to grow that unless he resigns or the Ebbets faction weakens in its support of him, the 68-year-old pilot will get another contract for 1932.

BUT EVEN IF Grimes doesn't go to Brooklyn, it is generally believed in baseball circles that it will be only a question of time until the veteran spitballer becomes a manager in some big league town or other. Nearing the end of his pitching days, Burleigh is known to have managerial aspirations. In the opinion of some, his aggressiveness and hard, driving temper would be assets in the handling of a club that has not responded to the easy-going type of direction, Brooklyn for example. So it will not be surprising if Grimes sooner or later sells the idea to some National League club owner.

Steve Sinko

Now Steve is a regular starter for Head Coach Layden and Bach, his fellow townsman. Sinko reported for practice this year weighing 218 pounds, but he has worked off four pounds, which puts him down to the trifling weight of 214. And he stands six feet three inches in his football socks.

IT LOOKS AS though the Dukes are going to have a lot of Minnesota talent if things keep going the way Sinko has started them. Coming back to Duquesne this fall, Steve felt that he would miss the company of his fellow citizen of Chisholm, so he brought a buddy with him in the person of Joe Malkovich.

Joe had just received his diploma from Chisholm High School. He is now playing center on the Duke frosh. Standing six feet three and one-half inches, he is a half inch taller than Sinko and almost as heavy.

ANOTHER FEATURE THAT has rarely been duplicated is reported in connection with the sport world's recent activities in the cause of charity. It was nothing less than a real 100 per cent charity boxing show. It was held in Denver recently, arranged and directed by Reddy Gallagher. Including Gallagher himself, everybody working in the show paid to get in except the boxers, and they worked for nothing. The receipts totaled $2,700.

WHEN GUNBOAT SMITH, as referee, refused to disqualify Primo Carnera or to allow Jack Sharkey a claim of a technical knockout after the Italian giant got up and went down again without being hit in the exciting fourth round of Monday night's fight in Brooklyn, he was accused of having muffed the rules.

Now when it develops that Smith was right, the men who criticised him, and who were themselves in error, give him no more credit than to say that he probably ruled as he did because he failed to see Carnera rise and fall again. Evidently it hasn't occurred to them that Smith handled the situation correctly because he knew his business and was more familiar with the rules than they were. Wrong themselves, they can conceive only that it was just by accident that the referee was right. Why not give Smith credit for knowing what he was doing?

UNDER ONE OF the oldest rules of the ring, a fighter disqualified himself when he went down intentionally without being hit, but the New York code governs happenings like that of Monday night in this way:

"Should a contestant who is down arise before a count of 10 is reached and again go down intentionally, without being struck, the referee and timekeeper shall resume the count where they left off."

Jack Sharkey

SO WITTINGLY OR unwittingly, Smith did the correct thing. As a matter of fact he saved the show from ending in a fiasco that would have been a hard blow to the game. Not only was there no ground for Sharkey's protest, under the New York rules, but the ex-gob himself was twice open to penalties if Smith had cared to impose them. In the first place Sharkey broke the regulations when he went to his own corner instead of the farthest corner, while Carnera was on the floor, and in the second place when Manager Johnny Buckley kept Jack from leaving the ring, he broke the rule which prohibits a fighter's handlers from touching him during a round. Had Sharkey been disqualified it would have been assumed that he had agreed to lose and boxing fans would have felt convinced that the whole thing had been a job. Smith acted in just the right way to protect the best interests of the game.

DUKES, GEORGETOWN CLASH

SERVICES TO AID NEEDY OFFERED BY COLLEGES

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(INS)—Additional colleges today rallied to the aid of the idle and announced benefit football games. Long Island University and St. John's College will meet in Brooklyn November 28, and Rutgers and Lafayette announced they were willing to play contests for the unemployed.

Meanwhile eastern fans awaited definite announcement of the prices which will prevail in Yale Bowl and in a New York ball park when tournaments are held in December to aid the jobless. It was reported the top price at the tourney would not exceed $2.

Columbia, Cornell, Princeton and Pennsylvania are the teams to play here, while Yale, Dartmouth, Brown and Holy Cross will contest in the Yale Bowl.

ASSISTED BY HALL

Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of relief resources of the president's organization on unemployment relief, announced that E. K. Hall of Dartmouth, chairman of the rules committee of the National Intercollegiate Football Association, had taken over direction of the project for the playing of the games for benefit of local emergency relief funds throughout the United States. Young issued the call to all colleges and schools for the benefit games.

"I have been most gratified," Young said, "by the response to my call. I have not been surprised, however, for I was confident that our colleges and schools would not be content to have no part in meeting the present emergency. The response of the college presidents has been inspiring, and the student bodies have been wholehearted in following their example.

SUCCESS ASSURED

"It is a promise of great success that already so many and such important games are being arranged. With the Army and Navy meeting, with the Big Ten of the Middle West preparing so impressive a post-season schedule, and with the eight leaders of the Northwestern colleges getting ready for such unique contests as those planned for the Yale Bowl and New York City, we may look forward to the writing of a historic record in sports and in patriotism."

WINNERS NOT TO MEET

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 16.—(AP)—The winners of the unemployment fund football tournaments will not meet in an extra contest, E. K. Hall, chairman of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee and spokesman for the eight eastern colleges entered in Kickoff—3:15 p. m.

By JESS CARVER

Football relations between Duquesne and Georgetown Universities are to be inaugurated here tonight under the lights at Forbes Field as the Dukes and Hoyas go to the mat in the district's leading grid clash of the week-end. The rival Catholic institutions have met on the diamond and on the basketball court previously, but tonight will be the first time they've matched strength in football. It should be a more or less exciting match.

Dick Danner

Things haven't been clicking so well with the Dukes this year, and the Hoyas in town smarting under the sting of a 34-0 lacing received at the hands of New York U. last week, the worst trimming a Georgetown eleven has taken for years and years. Duquesne, last week, was drubbed by West Virginia Wesleyan and Cliff Battles. (I'll bet the Dukes are tired hearing about Battles.) Both teams, therefore, are out to accomplish a bit of redeeming tonight, which makes it okie-okie for the customers.

HOYAS FAVORITES

Despite the setback at the hands of N. Y. U., the Hoyas are favorites. The boys will be minus the services of two star backs, but the line, led by the fighting Dick Danner, a pip of a guard, and two crackerjack wings, Hudson and Carolan, will be the equal of any rush line Duquesne can toss into the action. The Georgetown line tonight hopes to be a Scotch line—one that won't give. Fast, eh??

STAGG GIVES EDGE TO YALE

By A. A. STAGG

University of Chicago Coach.

For the first time in football history, Yale is playing beyond the Allegheny Mountains tomorrow. Because of this epoch-making fact and because of Yale's tremendous prestige in athletics, the Yale-Chicago game dramatically becomes the most important intersectional game of the season. People familiar with the history of American football will concede that Yale has been the most consistently outstanding institution in the history of the game. For several decades, Yale, through Walter Camp, had more to do with the evolution of football than any other college or university. From 1872, when Yale played her first intercollegiate game against Columbia, until the present time Yale can truthfully be said to have been the foremost leader in football standing.

Many people have said to me:

"Mr. Stagg, I suppose you would rather win the Yale game than any other on your schedule?"

I have invariably said to them:

"You are in error. As I look at it, as coach it is my duty to do my best to win every game and it is my duty to try to win the Yale game."

UNAFRAID OF RESULT

I have made no special preparations to win the Yale game that I would not make for any other game. Naturally, I realize that the winning of the Yale game will give a special prestige which does not pertain to other games, and, of course, the Chicago coaches have given the team the best preparation possible to bring victory, the same as they tried to do for the Michigan game.

I am not at all sanguine that our preparation will be sufficiently good to bring this about, but, having done the best we can, I can view the event with calmness and without misgivings of any sort. That is the philosophy I hold throughout the football season for all of our games, and holding that philosophy permits me to be content with the result whether it is victory or defeat. The doing of one's best is what counts most in football as in all other things in life. This is the greatest satisfaction one can get out of life.

NON-SCOUTING PACT

Neither Yale nor Chicago has been tested in strong competition. Coach Stevens and I have a non-scouting agreement, and I confess that, with the exception of Capt. Albie Booth, at this time I do not know the name of another Yale player, and I presume Coach Stevens is equally ignorant about the Chicago players. Each of us has his hands full in getting ready for important contests, Yale for the Georgia game and Chicago for the Michigan game, and doubtless in each case we have been concerned in trying to stave off what seemed to each of us sure defeat. Realizing Chicago's poverty in material, I naturally am predisposed to give Yale the edge over Chicago, but, while doing so, I cannot feel that Yale is going to run wild with the game.

The results of Chicago's contests with Princeton in 1921 and in 1922 and again in 1929 and in 1930 lend strength to my belief and give hope to Chicago men that the team will rise in a superior way for the contest with Yale, regardless of handicaps. I look for a soul-stirring contest.

Fairmount 'Double' Pays $1,606.78 For $2 Ticket

ARMY FAVORED OVER HARVARD

By TAD JONES

Member, All-America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

Of Eastern elevens, Army, Dartmouth, N. Y. U., Brown and Pittsburgh have been able to survive their first real tests. It now remains to be seen just how far these teams, along with Fordham, Syracuse, Colgate, Cornell, Columbia and Harvard, can proceed on their way to Eastern honors.

This week's contest will eliminate some of those mentioned above. There will be no question of superiority in the game between N. Y. U. and Rutgers. Dartmouth and Brown should be able to subdue Columbia and Tufts and thereby remain in the running. Pitt, too, is not in danger from Western Reserve. With Army, Harvard, Fordham, Syracuse, Colgate and Cornell, however, things are different.

OUTSTANDING GAME

The Army-Harvard game is perhaps the outstanding struggle in the East. Harvard is as yet untried, while Army has an impressive victory over Michigan State to her credit. The improvement in Harvard's play during the past week has been very noticeable, even though the opposition has not been sufficiently difficult to give a real line on the Crimson's possibilities. Even though the Harvard line is a rugged affair and the backfield possesses plenty of speed with Mays and Crickard operating, I doubt very much if the team from Cambridge will be able to make much headway against the Cadets. Defensively, the Harvard team will have to prove itself and the game with Army will be its first test. Under the conditions, Army should win, for up to this point the West Point eleven has shown no real weaknesses.

As in Harvard's case, Cornell has breezed through her early games without being really pressed. Princeton, although beaten by Brown, is by no means a misfit organization, and in this enlightened age an early-season defeat is not so significant as once was the case. That Cornell is facing a real struggle goes without saying. The Cornell eleven is more experienced than in many years, and with Ferraro and Viviano in top form, has given every indication of the attacking strength which has been lacking since the days of Kaw and Pfann. The Ithacans will be favored to win, but the game will be a close one and anything may happen.

HOLY CROSS VS. FORDHAM

Holy Cross is a real menace to Fordham. Holy Cross was exceedingly impressive even in the defeat by Dartmouth, and it is very likely that the Worcester eleven will improve considerably this week and is a slight favorite to win.

One of the interesting games of the week will be that between Yale and Chicago. It marks Yale's first long trip away from New Haven since the Georgia game of 1929. The game will, I believe, develop into a forward-passing and defensive struggle. Yale, while a bit unimpressive in its running attack, has shown aptitude in forward-passing, and the running attack should improve during the week. Stagg is a master of defense, as well as an offensive genius. It should be a close and colorful game, with Yale a slight favorite.

COCHRANE HELD UNSUNG HERO

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, often referred to as baseball's greatest catcher, is severely criticized for his world series performances. In all councils and discussions that bow to sportsmanship, Mickey should be a hero.

Mickey Cochrane

In the latter phases of the American League flag fight, Mickey was struck in the head with a ball thrown by one of the Cleveland pitchers. Accidental or otherwise, this pitch made a temporary wreck of Mack's fighting star.

To me Cochrane was not the same athlete who performed against the Cubs of 1929 and the Cards of 1930. The only resemblance that defined the Cochrane of the past two weeks as the same Mickey of two years ago was the fighting spirit.

I had a talk with Gordon while the two clubs were exercising for the seventh and final fight in St. Louis. I could see he was decidedly off in his physical condition.

"Won't I be glad to get on that boat!" said the peppery catcher. He referred to the baseball jaunt to Japan.

"I have not slept right for weeks, but I feel the sea trip will help to bring me back again." He referred to the after-effects of the blow in the head; his face and general makeup showed him to be in some distress.

Cochrane's spirit is not reflected in any figures you may read con-

PANTHERS SET FOR RESERVE

Dr. John Bain Sutherland, Pitt's head football coach, will put the finishing touches this afternoon in the lineup he plans to start tomorrow against Western Reserve, the fourth opponent on the Panther schedule and the last before the big game of the year, with Notre Dame at South Bend next week.

Dr. Jock has been fooling and fussing around with his lineup this week and likely will show a flock of his peppery second-string players against the none too tough Reserve squad. Mike Sebastian, the hard-running halfback who needs very little grooming to make him a starting back; Cheesio Onder, a husky sophomore guard; Johnny Love, giant tackle; Muggsy Skladany, excellent end prospect; maybe Jimmy Simms, halfback speedboy, and Francis Seigal, a guard holdover from last year, likely will start against the Red Cats unless, of course, Dr. Jock changes his mind and decides to use the regulars right off the bat.

Reserve, under capable Tom Keady, former Lehigh and Quantico Marine coach, is building for the future and will have six or seven sophomores in the lineup. Besides a good kicking around, the sophomores ought to pick up a lot of pointers tomorrow. They don't figure, nor expect, to win the game, but they hope to hold the score down. The boys held Purdue to a 28-0 count in the first game of a doubleheader, which may or may not be something.

The Reserve squad will leave Cleveland tomorrow morning in special cars attached to train #12 and return tomorrow evening.

Tomorrow morning there will be a right smart lot of action in the Tartan Bowl as the Pitt and Tech freshmen eleven clash. The two squads are considered to be exceptionally powerful. Pitt ran over Wash-Jeff's yearlings 18-0, and Tech trimmed the same team, 13-0. Pitt also has taken Wyoming Seminary into camp, 13-0. The Wash-Jeff game was Tech's only start.

BUSY AFTERNOON FACES SCHOOL ELEVENS

PEABODY-SOUTH GAME HEADS FULL CARD

By JULIUS LEVIN

With three games scheduled in Section I, one in Section II and a non-league contest on the program, City League schools face a busy afternoon today. The Section I frays are headed by the Peabody-South battle at Langley High School field. Peabody, with three straight victories, two of them Section I contests, will be out to strengthen its hold on first place.

Fifth Avenue travels to Westinghouse and Schenley goes to Allderdice in the other Section I contests.

Only one game will be played in Section II although the original schedule called for two. The Allegheny-Perry game was called off early today by the principals of the two schools because overzealous students plastered the high school property with signs and placards. Coach Bodie's Langley eleven will meet Ray Peters' Oliver team at Oliver in the only Section II game.

Carrick High, under the coaching of Ted Lyons, will oppose Shady Side Academy on the Fox Chapel grounds. This is a non-league affair and brings Carrick into action against an undefeated eleven. Jimmy Robertson's team has won two straight victories.

School Notes

Charleroi fans will see one of the best high school fullbacks in the district tomorrow afternoon when Clairton meets the Magic City aggregation. Those who have seen Miller in action pronounce him one of the best in the business.

Washington High School will celebrate homecoming day tomorrow when Duquesne is met at College Field, Washington, Washington, in the running for the W. P. I. A. L. title with three straight victories, is expecting a tough battle from Duquesne. This team boasts the only victory scored over Clairton in the last six years, the Dukes winning, 7-0, last season.

A special train has been chartered for East Stechenville High students who will accompany their team to Dayton tomorrow for the grid battle with the Dayton eleven.

One of the best tackles in scholastic football in the Beaver Valley this year is Grimm, of New Brighton. This boy, an all-W. P. I. A. L. selection last year, appears to be in for his best season.

George Woodman, coach of the powerful Clairton eleven for the last six years, is a former Colgate star. He came to Clairton from Old City, where he enjoyed unusual success as coach.

New Castle High School, its team almost wrecked by the loss of its two backfield aces, Lasky and Cram, will play in intersectional game tonight at Waggner Field, opposing Toledo Woodward. Lasky and Cram are out with broken collarbones.

Coach Jock Rosenberg's Rankin High eleven will meet Arnold Prep School today. The game will be played on the Braddock avenue grounds and is the second contest of the season for Paul Hester's Preppers.

Setting the pace for the teams in the Turtle Creek valley, Johnny Coleman's East Pittsburgh eleven will be out to record its fourth consecutive victory tomorrow afternoon when Jim Hudson and his Braddock grid machine are the attraction. Traditional rivals, the two teams promise to stage a brilliant duel.

Coach Pyfer's Edgewood eleven seeks its third straight win in a battle with Verona at Verona this afternoon.

McDonald will be out to keep its record intact when it opposes Beaver at Beaver.

Bill Campbell's Homestead eleven will be the attraction at Elwood City at Elwood City this afternoon. This contest was added to the card last week, the date being an open one.

Ed Faulic's Swissvale High eleven is in fine shape for its battle at Swissvale tomorrow with Avalon. The game promises to draw a fine turnout, as both teams have been showing great form of late.

Port City High, which boasts five straight victories, including one over Turtle Creek Union, has October 21 open for a game at home or abroad. Call Port City High School.

Coach Schumacher has groomed his eleven for the first big game of the season when he takes his Carnegie squad to the new Stowe Township High Field tomorrow to meet the Stowe team. Stowe is undefeated and unscored upon.

RELIEF PLAN GIVEN IMPETUS

the elimination competition, said last night.

"The tournament in the Yale bowl of December 5, in which Dartmouth, Yale, Brown and Holy Cross will take part, will conclude the efforts of these teams for the season," he said, "and the only benefit exhibition to be played by Pennsylvania, Princeton, Cornell and Columbia will be held in New York on December 9."

FISH PROPOSES GAME

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 16.—(INS.)—A post-season football game for the benefit of the unemployed to be played between Harvard and Princeton was the proposal today of Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York. The Congressman, who captained the Harvard team in 1908 and 1909, sent a telegram to Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of the Cambridge institution, urging such a game. He suggested it be played in New York. Harvard and Princeton have been athletically estranged for several years.

MY LIFE STORY

By PEPPER MARTIN

Hero of 1931 World Series

Pepper Martin

CHAPTER V.

Joe Mathis, who managed Houston when I played there in 1927, is a wonderful fellow. He encouraged me all of the time. He showed me how the outfield should be played. He noticed that I still had the bad habit of running into the other fellow's territory to try for a ball and he didn't scold me about it, but what he said was that I shouldn't try to field balls hit to their territories, but should be there to help out if the ball got away from those fellows. That is what I started doing, and after that the outfielders didn't cuss me as they had on other clubs when I was trying to play all positions and hold down the batboy's job, too.

Joe, in talking about me to other people, always would say that I had lots of pep, meaning I was trying all the time, and that is how I got to be nicknamed Pepper. Everybody calls me that now except my wife, Ruby, who still calls me Johnny. Lots of people in big league towns in 1931 didn't know I had any other front name but Pepper, thinking it was a name they gave Oklahoma boys when christening them back in my home state.

GOES TO CARDINALS

I played in 147 games for Houston in 1927 and worked in all of the outfields. I made only nine errors all year, which is about what I used to make in one week in the infield. I never had any trouble at any time even as a kid with fly balls, and that is what I had to handle mostly as an outfielder. And there wasn't much chance of me making wild throws from the outfield.

I hit .306 for Houston that year, scored 118 runs and stole 36 bases. All in all, my work at Houston wasn't great and it wasn't bad. When the team disbanded for the season, and all during the early part of the winter, I kept wondering where I'd be in 1928—back with Houston, advanced to Syracuse again or pushed back to Fort Smith.

A letter came one day, and when I read it, I almost became one of those skyrockets. It was from the Cardinals and I was told to report to their Avon Park (Fla.) camp when spring training season arrived. My salary was to be $600 a month.

Some of the boys have written pieces saying that I "stole" my way there, not having money for a ticket. The Cardinals sent me money for a ticket and my expenses, and, of course, it was up to me to use that money any way I wanted so long as I got to Florida in time. Well, I got there in time and I rode trains, but I will not say which trains or what part of the trains I rode on. That is a secret.

BACK TO MINORS

The Cardinals had a great outfield that year and I knew I couldn't crash through. So did my bosses. But they were nice to me, and, instead of sending me back to the minors, they let me stay with them all season so I could watch and learn how the big leaguers operated. I got into 39 games, either as a pinch hitter or a pinch runner, mostly as a runner, and I surely did the best I could to show that I could steam around those sacks.

But there wasn't any room for me with the Cardinals in 1929, not even as a pinch man, and so they sent me back to Houston for that year, which was okay with me because I wanted action which you don't get on the bench.

The salary of $600 a month which the Cards paid me was not cut down when I was dropped to Houston.

I had learned a lot watching those National Leaguers doing their stuff and I used my new schooling at Houston. I made 175 hits and 114 runs in 157 games, stole 43 bases, fielded for .974 and was told to report to Rochester in the International League in 1930, which I did, and the salary was boosted to $750 a month.

WARNED BY SOUTHWORTH

Now I tell you I like to hunt and fish and play the mouth organ, and on some of the other clubs the boys didn't think I was so hot on the mouth organ, and some of my managers thought I was thinking more about bass and perch and trout than I was about baseball.

Soon after I got into the Rochester Camp and Billy Southworth, the manager, learned that I was fishing in my spare time and talking lots about fishing and hunting, he said he thought I'd be a better ball player if I didn't do so much fishing and so much talking about it. And Bill wasn't so sure that my sitting on the bench and playing tunes wasn't doing me harm, too.

But I said to Bill I loved to do all of those things and I'd like to keep on doing them and having a little fun, and I told him I was sure it wouldn't hurt my playing any. Bill finally said all right, but that if I didn't play good baseball he'd take the mouth organ away, bar me from going fishing and shoot me if I talked fishing or hunting.

IN LITTLE WORLD SERIES

I'm not dead and I still have the mouth organ, and it's okay for me to talk about fish and go fishing because that year I fielded .954 for Rochester and in 135 games, made 121 runs and 175 hits, had an average of .363 and stole 26 bases, which even good old Bill agreed wasn't bad.

Our Rochester team won the International League pennant and then we tackle Louisville, of the American Association, in the little world series and beat them five games out of eight. I made eight runs and 10 hits, averaged .286 at bat and stole four sacks.

During the winter, I was told to report to the Cardinal camp for spring practice in 1931, and when I learned that Taylor Douthit, the Cards' regular centerfielder, had been traded and that there was a vacancy to be filled, I made up my mind that this was the job I was going to get—and I got it.

GETS BIG CHANCE

During 123 games with the Cards last season I scored 68 runs, hit safely 124 times, had an average of .300 and stole 17 bases. We won the pennant and that got us into the world series, where I ran into a great streak of luck.

BATTLERS BUSY OUT OF TOWN TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Willie Davies and Frankie Bojarski box away from home tonight, the former against Ross Fields, Weirton southpaw, again at Cleveland and the latter against Joe Marciente in the 10-round semi-final to Tommy Paul's bout with Andy Martin in Buffalo.

Locally, the indoor amateur boxing season gets under way at the Keystone A. C., with a team from the Boys' Club meeting one from Jack Metz' Willow A. C.

Frankie Wallace, of Cleveland, who boxes Jackie Rodgers in the main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, is a former amateur bantamweight champion and winner of the diamond-studded Paddy Harmon belt in a tournament in Chicago. A little more than a week ago, he boxed Johnny Datto in a six-round bout in Cleveland and got up off the floor in the first round to go on and win the decision. He has been boxing professionally only about a year, but has had more than 40 bouts in that time. Among his opponents is numbered Jimmy Slavin, of New York.

Charley Baxter and Johnny Dunn will box the eight-round semi-final Monday. Paul Monar, Homestead amateur, has pulled out of his opening bout with Tony Marino, as a result of having changed his mind about turning pro, and the second bout remains to be arranged.

Angry Gridders Force Scout to Give Up Plays

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 16.—Caught, according to students, while writing down formations practiced by the Greensburg High School football squad, a youth whom school followers say was a former Hurst High football player, was forced to turn over the diagrams by the angry gridders who surrounded him.

The youth was observed on a nearby porch and was captured after he had attempted to flee. Local school officials say the "scout" is not connected in any way with the Hurst School at the present time.

The two teams are to meet here Saturday in the annual game.

Between Rounds

Tommy Crawley is plenty sore because his bout with Kid Chocolate for lightweight champion, at Mulvihill Manor Tuesday night, has been cancelled following a training siege of 12 days on his part. A news story went all over the country to the effect that the Massachusetts commission turned down the match because the Pennsylvania commission advised against it. Tommy's kick is that this yarn will keep him from getting matches in many spots and he doesn't see why the Massachusetts commission didn't have a little of its own say before it had thought it in Holyoke twice within the last six or seven months against Maurice Holtzer and Armando Shackles. He also has licked other tough opponents during the past year.

Ray Miller and Sully Ritz box at Jamaica, L. I., Monday night.

PARK TENNIS TOURNAMENT CONTINUED

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Quarter-final men's singles play comprises today's card of hostilities in the belated South Park tennis title tourney, with possibility that one or both of the semi-final sessions will be reeled off late in the afternoon. The tourney is scheduled for wind-up tomorrow.

Yesterday beheld feature action in the women's singles contesting Elizabeth McColligan Castle Shannon ace, defeating her sister, Marie, 7-5, 6-3, in a spirited penultimate battle. The vanquished performer flashed speedy service, but the superior steadiness of her determined relative at length swayed the decision. Still a third member of the clan McColligan — Margaret — will encounter Mrs. Jean Artzberger, winner of the 1930 and 1931 Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh Public Parks crowns, in the other feminine semi-final fray at 1:00 p. m. tomorrow, the survivor of this affair meeting Elizabeth McColligan in the final a couple of hours later.

In the lone men's fracas of Thursday, Paul De John, Mt. Lebanon contender, eliminated his fellow townsman, Bill Fay, 7-5, 6-4, in a hard-fought, though cautiously conducted, debate. In the semi-finals, De John takes on the winner of the Russ Unger-Tom Barrett affair, while in the opposite half, Thaddeus Zielinski and Kilkeary tangle for the right to engage Henry Ackerman, 1930 Harvard Cub interscholastic premier.

The men's singles trophy round according to Chairman C. E. Forrest, will get under way at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Immediately thereafter, there will be an exhibition doubles title involving probably the P. A. A. mainstays, Dave, John and Billy O'Loughlin and Jack Lauler. The women's final will conclude the program.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—James Joy Johnston, independent boxing promoter, who is slated to take over the job of boxing impresario at Madison Square Garden, must wait a few days before he moves into the executive offices of the house that Rickard built on Eighth avenue.

The board of directors, which was to have met to name Johnston a vice president in charge of boxing postponed its meeting until Tuesday. No reason was assigned for the postponement.

Johnston was to have taken control yesterday.

Oregon Halfback Ruled Ineligible

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Faculty representatives of the Pacific Intercollegiate Conference announced today that Joe Lillard, University of Oregon Negro halfback, was ineligible to play college football and said eligibility rules would be tightened.

The decision was based upon evidence presented by Jonathan Butler, athletic commissioner.

Prof. W. B. Owens, of Stanford, president of the conference, issued a formal statement after a meeting of representatives of the 10 schools here setting forth that Lillard had played under an assumed name.

EAST LIVERPOOL TO TEST ROONEYS SUNDAY

TUBERS AGAIN TO TAKE ON AKRON

By TOM BIRKS

Sandlot football fans will have two games Sunday over which to become enthused. The West Penn conference leader and defending champion, the Rooney Club will entertain Andy Cutler and his East Liverpool aggregation at the Bridgeville Speedway and the McKeesport Olympics will bring back the Akron Awings, Ohio's prominent professional club.

The conference battle is expected to be worth while since Andy Cutler struts his interpretation of the Pitt system against those of Jimmy Rooney, who also has gleaned a few ideas from Joe Sutherland, their former coach.

Cutler has been making a fine showing in the conference for a first year club. His team has held the McKeesport Olympics and West View to tie scores.

Coach Socks Reed of McKeesport, has held to long practice sessions this week and a majority of the players are in great shape to repel the Buckeye invasion.

The Coach's Viewpoint

By Howard Harpster

General College coach and former All-American star at Carnegie Tech.

With Carnegie Tech idle and Pitt playing Western Reserve in a "rest-up" game at the Stadium tomorrow will be a rather dull day so far as local football is concerned. The Cleveland team has been on rather Techs or Pitt's schedule for the past five years and has not as yet held its stronger opponents to a close score. However their has been a big change in the personnel of the Reserve athletic department and athletes at the Cleveland school now are definitely on a higher standard.

Howard Harpster

Karl E. Davis, former graduate manager at Pitt, now serves in that capacity at Reserve . . . The new coaches are Tom Keady, former Lehigh and Marines coach, and John Dreshar, star guard at Carnegie Tech for the past three years . . . Having played against the Pitt system for six years (two years at Bellefonte Academy, one as a Tech freshman and three on the varsity), Dreshar certainly should know the Sutherland style of play, and the Pitt team is likely to run up against a well-conceived defense . . . However, the game should not be a very hard one, and the Panther coaches probably will use a great many substitutes throughout, saving the regulars for the real test of the season, the game with Notre Dame a week from tomorrow.

I saw the Irish in action against Northwestern last Saturday and I believe it is going to take a mighty good football team to give Hunk Anderson's boys the short end of the score this season. Apparently Anderson is concerned only about the quarterback position . . . He took eight men with the squad to Chicago who play in that position, and four of them saw action against Northwestern . . . Schwartz, who was a sensational ball carrier last year, is on hand again doing his job better than ever . . . In addition to being the best runner on the squad, Schwartz does all of the kicking and most of the passing . . . Notre Dame again has a very strong line and is a great defensive team.

The offense hasn't started to click in true Notre Dame fashion so far, but several times last week the Irish backs broke away for runs and were all but gone for touchdowns . . . It's same old story that the Notre Dame teams have been telling for years; the linemen and backs are fine blockers and clear the way for the ball carrier . . . The side of the line where the play is to be run opens a hole and gets the runner through, while the opposite side and the interfering backs go through and knock down the secondary.

If you have followed Notre Dame teams you perhaps will have noticed that in almost every game they go along for five or maybe 10 plays at a time and make only the customary two or three yards and then all at once, bang! Schwartz, or Elder, or Flannigan breaks away for a 60-yard run and a touchdown.

The long runs which are made by these backs aren't on special plays, but on the standard plays which "click" just right.

In 1926, against the Army, Notre Dame used its off-tackle play somewhat unsuccessfully for three-quarters of the game. . . . Then, late in the third quarter, the play which had been attempted many times before "clicked," and Flannigan ran 60 yards for the only score. . . . Because of this breaking away for runs habit, Notre Dame never is beaten, as it is just as apt to make a long run on the last play of the game as at any other time.

SCHOOLS CUT RELATIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Saturday's game between Fordham and Holy Cross will bring football relations between the colleges to an end at least temporarily, Jack Coffey, Fordham's graduate manager of athletics has revealed. The two have not been able to agree upon a suitable date for a meeting in 1932 and Michigan State has been given the place formerly held by Holy Cross on the Fordham schedule.

REMMEL WINS FIELD CLUB GOLF TITLE

W. M. Remmel is the new senior champion of the Pittsburgh Field Club. Remmel, who is barely within the eligibility mark, which included all members of the club from 50 to "100," scored a tally of 93-26—67 to cop low net in the annual event yesterday. Non-senior members also competed, but did not figure in the championship. C. K. Robinson scored low gross, an 81.

The Pittsburgh Field Club held a special meeting, aside from a stag get-together, in the evening, to elect five directors. John S. McGraw, W. J. McAlister and Dr. J. H. McCready were the new directors elected, while John W. Carr, prominent secretary-treasurer of the club, and J. N. Succop, were re-elected.

The regular election of officers will not take place until the January meeting, at which time C. W. Close is expected to be re-elected president for another term.

Fred Baroni, of Oakland Beach, Conneaut Lake, and R. Webb Irwin, Shannopin amateur; Jimmy O'Donnell, Edgewood Country Club pro, and W. H. Atwood, tied for high honors in the four-ball, best ball professional-amateur tourney sponsored by the Shannopin Country Club. Both pairs recorded 67s. About 75 competed.

Pete O'Hara, of Westmoreland West Penn open champion, and Thomas Thomas were third with their 70, while Nelson Zimmerman, of Wildwood, and H. Domka, and Ted Luther, of Corry, Pa., and C. H. Muse, tied at 72.

The player-caddie tournament held at North Park came to a close yesterday with results as follows, as announced by John Jay Burke, city office manager of the county parks:

Third prize was won by George E. Steinmark and Caddie No. 108, Joe Skander, with 101.

Great interest was manifested in the tournament and Professional Jimmy McFarland and Caddiemaster Jim Ladley announced it would be an annual event.

cerning the series. There was that exciting eighth round of the seventh game, for instance. Grimes was giving his best as Cochrane came up with runners on first and second with two out.

The records will tell you that Grimes threw out Mickey. You will have to search elsewhere to learn that Cochrane almost knocked Burleigh cold on the mound before Grimes threw out the catcher.

Fighting desperately, Mickey stepped into one of Burleigh's spitballs, his bat meeting the ball accompanied by a pistol-like report. Like a flash a liner struck Grimes somewhere on the body and it seemed that the Scrappy pitcher would go down.

GRIMES CAN "TAKE IT"

But Burleigh managed to stay on his feet and he was clear enough to follow the ball which recoiled from his frame and rolled toward first. Like an injured panther Grimes lurched for it and then threw out Mickey on a close play.

It is true that Pepper Martin, Frank Frisch and George Watkins made Mickey look like the conventional major league catcher as they swiped bases almost at random. Even if Cochrane had been in full flush of his form, the same trio might have purloined a few sacks. The Mackian star, it develops, is just fair in throwing out runners, but he has so many great traits, including his persevering spirit, that he deserves to be ranked with the best catchers the sport has produced.

I also would reserve a spot near the top for Jimmy Wilson, one of the most resourceful receivers in the history of the game.

"I never went in a ball game in my life that I didn't think we had a good chance to win," said Wilson.

DUKES BATTLE GEORGETOWN

(It beats all, the names this Georgetown club goes under) have a wow of a fullback in LeRoy Boardeau, the Maine Woodchopper, who cracks 'em and smacks 'em to beat the very band. He'll furnish the Dukes plenty of grief tonight. King, ordinarily a quarterback, may wind up being shifted to eft half tonight, what with Dick Bradley and Russ Danieu on the injured list, with Lione subbing at quarter and either Joe Alenty or Bernie Donaghue at right half. If King is retained at quarter, then Alenty and Donaghue will be found at the halves.

Boy, how the Dukers have been working this week. Layden and Joe Bach have drilled their charges overtime in preparation for tonight's tussle. The line has been taken apart and put together, and so has the backfield. One or two more lickings and the Dukes will wind up playing to the student body and Barney Dreyfuss' groundkeepers, which will not do at all.

DE COSTER TO START

Coach Layden has decided to give Frankie De Coster another crack at the starting quarterback job, with Sepsi and Trambley at the halves and Pawlina in at full. Sepsi was the gent who put his team squarely on the spot last week in the first period against Wesleyan when he fumbled on the 32-line on the first play from scrimmage.

The line will be the same as started against Wesleyan last week, with one exception. Murphy and Abele will go at the ends, Sinko and O'Donnell at the tackles, Maroon Antoon and Weinberg at the guards, and Ben Barrett is to be over the ball in the place of Eddie Riley.

Kiddies under 16 years of age will be admitted for 25 cents—two bits, to be more precise. This does not go for midgets.

ST. VINCENT WORKS

LATROBE, Pa., Oct. 16.—The St. Vincent practice sessions for their game with Canisius to be held Sunday at Buffalo, N. Y., will be brought to a close with a stiff offensive drill this afternoon.

GIZZY STOPS JACKIE DUGAN

Battling Gizzy, Donora windmill, made an auspicious comeback last night at the Palisades, McKeesport, when he knocked out Jackie Dugan, Louisville veteran, in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round go. Gizzy, who has been out of the ring for several months due to illness and injuries, looked good in winning from Dugan, a protege of Charley Jones, former McKeesporter.

The largest crowd to attend a boxing show in McKeesport in three years was on hand.

Gizzy took all except one of the five rounds from Dugan, the other, the fourth, being even. In the fourth he stung the Donora fighter with a hard right and earned a draw in this session.

Gizzy came out for the fifth with both hands swinging and soon put Dugan on the defensive. He kept pummeling Jackie with hard rights and lefts and when he backed Dugan into the latter's own corner, let go with a hard right that caught the Louisville entrant on the point of the jaw. Dugan dropped to the canvas and remained there until Referee Jack Henderson completed the count. The beaten fighter was out for several minutes after the knockout blow. Gizzy weighed 135¼ against 134¼ for Dugan.

Young Rudy, of Charleroi, and Marty McHale, of McKeesport, went eight fast rounds in the semi-final to a draw decision. He had Marty bleeding from the nose and mouth at the finish. McHale weighed 145¼, Rudy 147½.

Charley Blozevich, of St. Michaels, Pa., former amateur star, defeated Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, in the second bout, after nearly knocking out Hennigan in the fifth. Blozevich weighed 136½, Hennigan 133.

D.-E., BOBCATS MAY PLAY

GRAFTON, W. Va., Oct. 16.—Davis-Elkins and West Virginia Wesleyan College have been asked to renew gridiron athletic relations long enough to permit a charity game to be played here in December for the Salvation Army's winter relief fund, Capt. W. H. Arnold has announced.

Cecil B. Ross, Wesleyan athletic director, told Arnold the matter would be taken under advisement with the Athletic Board meeting next week.

Davis-Elkins officials have not yet answered Arnold's invitation, but it is thought they will be willing to play.

Canada Needs Funds For Olympic Games

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Canada will make every effort to participate in the 1932 Olympic games at Lake Placid and Los Angeles, it has been definitely decided, but so far the necessary funds have not been raised.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The French Olympic committee has decided to withdraw from the 1932 Olympic competition at Los Angeles unless the November meeting of Parliament appropriates funds to cover expenses.

MRS. VARE SETS MARK

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, former National women's golf champion, yesterday set a new record for the Dorothy Campbell Hurd Trophy tournament on the Merion Cricket Club course. She finished with 162 total for 36 holes, having scores of 84 and 78.

First Dead Heat Of Season Run At Jamaica

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A dead heat—one of the turf's unusuals—occurred at Jamaica yesterday when Victor Emanuel's Sir Jonathan and W. H. Travers' Oil Queen finished a five and one-half furlong sprint head and head. It was the first dead heat of the year on the metropolitan tracks.

Fourteen juvenile platers paraded to the post with Sir Jonathan, the 3-to-1 favorite, and Oil Queen, a 10-to-1 choice, after being backed down from 30 to 1. All wagers made on the pair were split.

YALE FOOTBALL CUTS DEFICIT

The athletic association ended its fiscal year June 30, 1931, without a surplus.

A financial statement issued by H. F. Woodcock, general manager of the athletic association, showed that football had contributed gross receipts of $1,140,568.63 to the gross revenue of $1,225,121.62 realized during the year from university athletic activities. From the football receipts were deducted disbursements of $540,011.71, which included payments to visiting teams.

The gross receipts from all sports, including football, showed a decrease over those of 1929-1930 when the association reported gross revenue of $1,270,204.11, of which $1,164,964.38 came from football.

Stadium Football Seats for a Dime

Thousands of boys and girls will attend the Pitt-Western Reserve football game at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon for a dime and they'll all sit in the section that costs others 75 cents. The 10-cent price is made possible by an arrangement the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has made with the Stadium management by which thousands of exchange tickets distributed by this newspaper will be good for the 75-cent seats when presented at the ticket windows for gate No. 18 with 10 cents. These Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph exchange tickets may be used only by boys and girls under 16 years of age.

MOVIES TO SCIENCE :-: Former Star More Than Dilettante :-: AMUSEMENTS :-: News About Stage And Screen

La Rocque, in Retirement, Spends Time Building Telescopes

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.

Motion pictures and the stock market have made Rod La Rocque a rich man. Today, in semi-retirement, he devotes his time to scientific work.

Rod is no dilettante, either. The famous Dr. Robert Millikan is his good friend. Many distinguished men of science are guests at his home.

Right now Rod is building a telescope for Conrad Nagel's little daughter, Ruth. Within the last six days he has spent 84 hours and 20 minutes grinding the speculum which will magnify 192 times before the instrument is finished. An ordinary automobile will be put to use in some mysterious fashion.

Rod La Rocque

This is the fourth telescope Rod has made. One similar to his present model is set up at his mountain cabin.

The mechanics of photography is another hobby of Rod's. He builds cameras as handily as the average man changes a film.

It is rather remarkable that Rod has educated himself in science. In his boyhood lack of money prevented him even from finishing high school.

Would he like to go back into pictures? Perhaps. But in the meanwhile he has his hobby to rescue him from boredom.

PROFESSIONAL PRIDE

They are telling about a panhandler who asked a Hollywood actor to give him a dime for coffee.

Just as he reached into his pocket the actor looked across the street and saw a sign: "Coffee 5 cents." He handed the man a nickel and pointed to the sign. "See that over there," he said, "you won't need a dime."

"Okay," sneered the panhandler, "give me the nickel. But don't tell me how to run my business."

LATEST GOSSIP

George E. Stone, the actor, recently talked a hold-up man out of taking a watch which was the gift of his mother. "If you'll come to Warner Brothers tomorrow," I'll give you $25," Naturally, the man didn't come. But two nights later, as Georgie stepped out of a Hollywood restaurant, the same bandit popped out of a doorway. "Well," he inquired, "How about that dough?" Georgie paid. . . . Since she is going to New York, Ina Claire has given George Zukor her patio furniture to use in his new house. Hear that Robert Ames also is going to New York to do a play. Quite a coincidence. . . . Several casualties have resulted from Doug Fairbanks' back-lot football. George Marshall, director of the Bobby Jones shorts, is going around on crutches, and Dick Ryland, of all people, cracked two ribs. Since Doug Jr. went back to work, the season is over. He owned the ball. . . . It's a positive fact that a girl was bathing in the nude at the exclusive Santa Monica film colony beach. But don't get excited. It was only Marlene Dietrich's 6 year-old daughter, Maria. It seems the child escaped the watchful eye of a nurse and reverted to an old German custom. . . . Claudette Colbert is back here today for a vacation. . . . By means of stethoscopes and other hocus pocus, Paramount has recorded Frederic March's heart-beats for a thrill in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Mr. Quillan Must Face Family Jury

A "grand jury" of nine persons whose judgment is impartial, but whose verdicts are severe, is what Eddie Quillan has to face at the completion of every motion picture he makes. If things don't suit the jury, Eddie has to answer and in many cases the things condemned have to be changed or revised. The jury consists of members of the Quillan family of which there are 11 in number. Rosebud, the baby, is excused from duty because of her age. She is five. And Eddie has no voice in the family discussions on the merits or demerits of his starring productions. That leaves seven brothers and sisters, a mother and a father to complete the "panel."

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Meet My Sister," which isn't a social remark, but the title of a musical comedy, will be the attraction in the Alvin for a week, beginning Monday. And don't be surprised if there are matinees Wednesday and Saturday. In fact, be surprised if there aren't. This tuney one was born in Europe, and it is said to have a score that hits. You love hits, don't you? Nancy McCord, who has prima donnaed in opera, and Walter Slezak, son of a noted Metropolitan Opera tenor of another day, have the leading roles.

* * *

Small Timer says he once wrote a play and that the first—and only—audience, instead of yelling "author," screamed for the authorities.

* * *

Walter Hampden, at the close of last season, announced his retirement from the stage for a year, but, like many who have taken the total abstinence pledge, he has backslid. The temptation to play Crichton in "The Admirable Crichton," coming Monday to the Nixon, was too much. With Walt in this Barrie comedy will be Fay Bainter, who, in "East is West," proved she could play a Chinese girl better than Anna May Wong. The Barrie comedy will be in our midst for all of the nights next week and Wed. and Sat. afts.

* * *

Small Timer says he has heard the automobile industry has fallen off, but he notes that it is the pedestrian who picks himself up.

* * *

"Personal Maid" will open at the Warner Saturday instead of Monday, the regular opening day in this theater. The Saturday opening is just for one week. The Sunday midnight attraction in the Warner will be "The Spirit of Notre Dame."

* * *

Gary Cooper Is Making Scenes at Sea

Scenes for "Blind Cargo," Paramount's starring vehicle for Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper, are being made aboard the specially chartered freighter SS. Commercial Guide, which has been rechristened with the name Christine for the purposes of the story. The freighter daily sails out of New York harbor until beyond Ambrose lighthouse, and camera work starts as soon as the vessel is out of sight of land. Both Miss Colbert and Cooper are at home on the water, but some of the members of the technical unit experienced difficulty in rough water. The picture is being directed by Edward Sloman.

Past Haunts Heroine in Fulton

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

That wicked trio of letters, S-I-N, has inspired more movies and movie titles than any other word in Mr. Webster's big book. And now it's with us again, in the Fulton, in the form of "My Sin."

This picture is another of those dramas about the lady who has a notorious past to live down. Action begins in the usual tropical setting and ends up in Rich Man's Land in and around New York.

Tallulah Bankhead, she of the stage, and Frederic March are co-featured. Miss Bankhead is seen as a cabaret entertainer in Panama, who is acquitted of murder, and Mr. March is seen as an alcohol-soaked lawyer, who reforms and saves her from the gallows—or whatever means of farewell the law of that tropical spot supplies for murderers.

After the trial is over it is just a matter of about four additional reels until their redemption and love are brought to a satisfactory conclusion. And, symbolic of this, is the traditional cottage in the country, which gets into the close-up at the finale.

Miss Bankhead is an attractive actress, but she doesn't make much of an impression on the screen. Whether this is due to unfamiliarity with the ways and angles of the camera (this is but her second film), or to a time-ragged plot is the question. Maybe, though, it is due to both. As for Mr. March, he is a proven movie actor, but the present story doesn't do anything for him.

Notion

Since we are past all hope of compromise,
I must go back along the paths we strayed;
Calling to mind a promise in your eyes—
Calling to mind the vows I disobeyed.
There are so many ghosts creep back this Fall—
A book we loved—a walk we used to take,
That, surely, I cannot forget them all—
Though minding them may cause my heart to break.

Somehow, I doubt if those who once have cared
Can ever shake the grip of memory;
There have been far too many raptures shared—
Golden and gay—and they will always be;

Put me aside and take the way you please—
You will have work enough to cope with these!

—Don Wahn.

The Retort Proper

It happened aboard the Lipton yacht several years ago, when it was here with Lord Dewar as its distinguished guest. Ring Lardner was cornered by Dewar, who unfolded a series of stale jokes.

Finally, Ring said:

"You went a long way back for that one, me Lord."

"Sir!" growled Dewar, "a gentleman has never heard a story before!"

Who's Yeller?

It was Heywood Broun who once wrote in his column that a paragrapher who never repeats a story is a coward.

Quiteso, Quiteso

Heheheh

Then there's the one about the elderly woman who entered a book store and wondered if she could exchange a novel she didn't like.

She produced Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks," and the clerk, realizing that someone had made a mistake in giving "such a book" to the motherly soul, agreed to take it back.

"The trouble with that author," grumbled the old woman, "is that she goes so far—and no further!"

As If We Didn't Know

Cosmo Hamilton says that the most artificial thing about a woman is her natural modesty.

For You

One time I took my lovers lightly;
Had different men amuse me nightly;
But now my heart is true to one
I'm missing a heluva lot of fun.
—Evelyne L. Cooper.

The Humor of It

A few years ago one of the well known blackface stars was awakened in the middle of the night by a newspaperman. The scribe told the star that his new bride's kid brother had been arrested in a Jersey town for stealing.

"His first name is Cyril," said the reporter.

"Good heavens!" groaned the actor, "I don't object to his being a burglar so much as I do to having a brother-in-law named Cyril!"

Add Similes

Anything for a Laugh

It happened at the first social affair of the season the other night. One of the Woolworth heiresses gave the ball. Sonny Whitney, a bit of a practical joker when the mood grips him, was dancing near Vincent Lopez, the orchestra conductor.

"Listen," whispered Whitney, "I'll give you $100 if you'll play 'I Found a Million Dollar Baby in a 5 and 10 Cent Store'."

"That's the one number," mournfully replied Lopez, "they asked me not to play."

Pardon Her Fangs

The lovely Gladys Glad's favorite joke actually happened in a Ziegfeld undressing room. A show girl was groaning to a roommate about her love life.

"He's crazy for me and I'm goofy about him," said the gal, "but he has a wife and two children!"

"So what?" yipped a listener, "do you want him to kill his wife and kids?"

CLUB TO GIVE FOOD TICKETS

In an effort to aid hungry men, The Mercator Club will issue tickets, good for food at the Improvement for the Poor Restaurant, for its members to give away instead of the usual dime "hand-outs." The plan was indorsed at a meeting in the William Penn Hotel yesterday.

Members will be provided with a number of tickets, each one numbered, and will be billed ten cents for each ticket used at the end of the month. The plan has been indorsed by the Inter-Club Council, and although it has been in use for some time, no defined plan was used to check the number turned in at the restaurant.

RIOT FOR DOLE, SEVERAL HURT

CARDIFF, Wales, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Several persons were injured and a number arrested when police broke up a demonstration by 2,000 unemployed here today.

The rioters staged the protest against cuts in the unemployment dole. Under the leadership of organized Communists, the demonstration paraded through the streets and were dispersed only when police charged in with drawn truncheons.

'Keep Clean Club' Yields Loot, 13 Prisoners

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A well organized crime school masquerading under the name, "Keep the Neighborhood Clean Club," was raided by police, who seized 13 youths, all armed, and recovered thousands of dollars worth of stolen goods.

Many of the younger prisoners, who ranged in age from 15 to 24, had been tutored by older members in burglary and other types of crime, police believe.

In a storeroom adjoining the club police found jewelry, automobile accessories and other loot as well as hundreds of pawn tickets believed to have been obtained in return for loans on stolen goods.

HONOR OLDEST FIREMAN

Harry T. Phillips, 90, said to be Pennsylvania's oldest fireman, was honored last night at ceremonies in the Verona High School. Arrayed in a uniform of the type he wore in active service as a fireman for 40 years, Phillips was presented a silver loving cup.

The Rev. R. M. Stumpf was master of ceremonies. Among the speakers were Judge Harry Rowand and State Senator W. D. Mansfield. Representatives of the Pennsylvania State Firemen's Association and the Allegheny County Volunteer Firemen's Association attended. He is the father of Assistant District Attorney Harry R. Phillips.

GEAR MAKERS HEAR TALKS

The American Gear Manufacturers' Association, which is holding its fifteenth semi-annual meeting at William Penn Hotel, has set aside today's program for discussion of commercial subjects. The morning session was addressed by J. B. Sehl, of the American Drop Forging Institute, who talked on "Uniformity in Cost Practice."

The afternoon will be devoted to inspection trips to various points of interest in the Pittsburgh district.

Tonight, the meeting will be addressed on commercial topics by John P. Wright, of Foote Brothers Gear and Machine Company; H. O. James, of the D. O. James Manufacturing Company; J. C. Hope, of the Covert Gear and Manufacturing Corporation, and J. Harper Jackson, of the Pittsburgh Gear and Machine Company.

The three-day session was opened yesterday morning with an address of welcome by the association's president, B. F. Waterman, of Hartford, Conn. Technical papers on "Tip Relief" were presented at the afternoon meeting by R. E. Peterson and T. R. Rideout, engineers of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. F. W. Sinram, of Cleveland, honorary president of the association, spoke last night on "How the A. G. M. A. has benefited the gear manufacturers.

Bulging of Walls Closes Phila. School

Optimism Marked at Convention of Gas Industry.

By B. C. FORBES

"It's drooping now, but perhaps tomorrow it will be flying straight and strong. It doesn't take much to stir it into life."

B. C. Forbes

IS BUSINESS which has been so languid about to enjoy a reviving breeze? It wouldn't take much to displace stagnation with action. Most people are about tired of inaction, inhibition, apprehension.

And it will.

THE ATMOSPHERE here is very different from the funereal atmosphere last week at the American Bankers Association convention. That convention's attendance was 25 per cent of normal.

The American Gas Association convention now in progress has the largest attendance with only one exception in its whole history.

Those facts reflect the mental state of the two groups. Our bankers were terribly jumpy before President Hoover injected into them a little leadership. The gas industry is going about its business with vigor and with confidence in its future.

THE NATURAL GAS division alone is spending half-a-billion dollars a year in expansion.

What used to be wasted is now marketed for more than half-a-billion dollars a year—in the form of gas and gasoline.

Already in the space of a few years fully 16,000,000 persons in 20 states are being served with natural gas.

Although the increase used in industries since the war has been 2,000 per cent, a veritable network — a cobweb — of new pipe lines is crossing and recrossing the continent.

Enough gas pipe line has been constructed to go round the world four times. By and by the mileage promises to approach that of our main railroads.

THE COURAGEOUS expansion conducted by the gas industry has meant much to this country in the way of employment for common labor, demand for technical employes, orders for pipe and other materials. John J. Bergen explained:

"After a line is constructed an organization as complex as that for a railroad is necessary to maintain it. As for a railroad, there must be sections and section crews, headquarters and way stations, line walkers and watchmen, materials and stores departments, even a parallel telephone line for the constant communication of reports.

"For the union stations and divisional roundhouses of the railroads, there must be compressor stations every two or three hundred miles to take the gas from the pipe at a low pressure and pump it on at a higher one. The men for this work must be trained in watchfulness and caution.

"Research and invention have combined to produce lines with only a 5 per cent loss under pressure in 500 miles compared with a 12 per cent loss over the same distance of high tension electrical lines."

SUCH ACHIEVEMENTS yield invaluable fruits. They enable various industries to cut cost through being able to produce heat at lower rates, thus equipping this country to compete more efficiently and capably in world markets—a supremely important consideration.

The gas men are now out to make our homes more comfortable both in summer and winter. They will condition the air in our rooms, heating it in cold weather, cooling it in hot weather and making it healthful. After all, why should we alter office, living room and bedroom if a remedy can be supplied within the reach of our purse?

IN A TALK at the convention I congratulated the gas industry on its progressive, constructive, courageous record, emphasizing that fortunes usually have their foundations laid at times when the ninety-and-nine lose their nerve, expressed confidence that before long the nation will recover confidence, and that this will lead to sounder and greater prosperity than ever before known.

I WARNED the leaders, however, not to make the mistake the railroad, the coal industry and many old-time utility corporations made by failing to deserve the good will of the public. I suggested:

(Copyright, 1931, by B. C. Forbes.)

COTTON STEADY AT ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Cotton opened steady today to a decline of 2 to 3 points on overnight selling orders from the South, combined with Liverpool selling. Prices eased off to 6.08 for December, or about 4 to 5 points net lower during the first few minutes of trading.

December was selling up from 6.08 to 6.17, and March from 6.38 to 6.45 by the end of the first half hour, or about net unchanged to 4 points higher.

The steadier tone of the stock market encouraged buying on the early decline and the advance late in the morning extended to 6.20 cents for December and 6.49 cents for March, or about 4 to 8 points net higher. After selling early, houses with Liverpool connections were buyers up to the close of that market, while southern offerings were light after the rail and there may possibly have been some local buying on reports of further rains west of the Mississippi. The market at midday was quiet at net advances of about 4 to 8 points.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Cotton-spot, good business done. Prices four points lower. American strict good middling 5.42, good middling 5.07, strict middling 4.87, middling 4.77, strict low middling 4.62, low middling 4.42. American, 6,200. Futures closed quiet and steady. October 4.46, December 4.32, January 4.35, March 4.42, May 4.49, July 4.55, October 4.62.

PRICE OF COAL ADVANCES

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Warm weather kept the bituminous coal markets of the country under its thumb in September and delayed the expected upturn in domestic business until the last week in the month, Coal Age reports. In spite of the prevailing temperatures, however, a slight but definite improvement in the domestic situation was noticeable.

Dealers showed some disposition to replenish stocks and price advances gave promise of a more satisfactory realization in the coming months. The steam trade continued in its long-standing slump. Slack and screenings quotations were surprisingly firm, however, easing off in only a limited number of cases.

CUBA MEETING OBLIGATIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—There will be no attempt at this time to convert the approximately $100,000,000 of Cuban short-term loans into long-term obligations.

Ambassador Ferrara explained that while "our interest is to exchange short-term loans for a long-term arrangement, we do not believe this is the appropriate time."

The decision was reached after conferences between the Ambassador and Viriato Gutierrez, Cuban Senator, who came to Washington last week to confer on plans for converting the Cuban obligations.

Pullman Company Hearing Date Set

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The proposal of the Pullman Company to impose a 20 per cent charge for double occupancy of berths has been assigned for hearing here before Examiner Disque on November 17.

Pending outcome of the investigation, the commission has suspended operation of the tariffs providing for this charge until May 15, 1932.

America Is Losing South Africa Trade

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Business between the United States and South Africa is reported to be practically at a standstill, many firms here finding it more advantageous to buy through London.

The shoe trade particularly has been affected and a concern here has given an order for 100,000 pairs of shoes to a firm at Northampton, England.

Anthracite Coal Shipments Fall

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Shipments of anthracite for the month of September, as reported to the Anthracite Bureau of Information, amounted to 3,372,926 gross tons. This is a decrease as compared with shipments during the month of August of 29,055 tons and, when compared with September, 1930, shows a decrease of 526,479 tons.

California Bond Sale Is Postponed

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Charles G. Johnson, state treasurer, said that the $6,000,000 California bond issue for veterans' welfare will be reprinted as 4½s and that bids will be received on the loan probably about November 15.

The state originally planned to sell the bonds as 4s on October 1, but owing to market conditions reception of bids was postponed.

Federal Reserve Buying Is Influence on Money

This is the fifth article of a series describing the workings of the Federal Reserve System and discussing the changes in its operations which probably will be suggested at the next session of Congress.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS have other means for influencing the volume of currency in circulation beside their rediscount operations described yesterday. They may also buy or sell bills, short term obligations of states and cities or United States government securities in the open market.

While the Reserve Banks operate directly in these markets, their influence on commercial paper transactions is indirect. They cannot buy commercial paper. It comes into Federal Reserve hands only when member banks present it for rediscount.

It may also be noted that Federal Reserve Banks cannot lend money on the New York call money market. They cannot lend money to banks with stocks, corporate bonds or mortgages as collateral. It is in these prohibited fields that the proposed expansion of Federal Reserve powers may take place.

Activity in Bill Market

THE BILL MARKET is a recent development in this country which came into existence with the establishment of the Federal Reserve System. The term "bill" is the common expression for a banker's acceptance or a banker's bill. It is most frequently used in financing foreign trade but is also employed to some extent in domestic business.

A firm buys goods which will be in transit several weeks or which will be stored for a considerable period. The seller wants his money immediately. The buyer does not want to pay until delivery is completed or until a specified date. The seller makes a draft on the buyer's bank bearing a date in the future. The buyer's bank stamps this draft accepted, which means that it will be paid when due. The bank holds bills of lading or warehouse receipts as security. The seller of the goods then takes this paper and sells it to a bank or dealer in bills at a discount.

Open Market Maintained

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS make this use of bills possible since they constantly maintain an open market. The discount rate on bills is usually low but they form a valuable medium for short term investment since they can always be sold immediately. The Reserve Banks will buy bills from dealers or banks at any time. They exert a controlling influence over the market, however, by adjusting the rate of discount at which they will purchase them.

This activity of the Reserve System has proved to be of great importance since it provides a new medium for currency fluctuations to meet business requirements and also because it greatly facilitates the financing of foreign trade.

Security Purchases

IN DISCOUNT OPERATIONS and purchases of bills the Federal Reserve System is not ordinarily operating under its own volition. The initiative is being taken by outside bankers and the rates are the only means of influencing conditions. In the buying or selling of United States government securities, however, the Reserve System is acting entirely under its own volition to increase or decrease the supply of money in circulation. Obviously when the Reserve Banks purchase government bonds they put more money into circulation and increase the available supply of credit. On the other hand, when they sell securities they are pulling money out of circulation and are reducing available credit.

STOCK TRADING QUIET, PRICES CREEP UP

Rails Assume Leadership In Slow Advance; Gains Made by Steel and Can

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Securities markets generally viewed the increased reserve rate as constructive, and in the main prices crept higher in quiet trading today.

Stocks pushed slowly upward, under the leadership of the rails, after some hesitancy in the first half hour, and while the high grade low-yield bonds were naturally depressed by firming money rates, the higher-yield issues moved upward along with stocks.

Gains of 3 to 5 points were registered in such rail shares as New York Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, New Haven, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson and Santa Fe. In the industrials gains of 2 to 4 appeared in United States Steel, American Can, Eastman, Allied Chemical, DuPont, United States Industrial Alcohol, American Tobacco B, Coca Cola and others.

News that the Bruening government had been sustained by a vote of 294 to 270 in the German Reichstag was generally regarded in Wall street as reassuring.

The increase in the Federal Reserve banks' rediscount rate to 3½ per cent, after it had been jacked up to 2½ from 1½ only a week ago, was followed by firmer money rates generally. Call money rose to 2½ per cent for the first time in nearly a year, and commercial paper rose to 3¾ per cent, against 2½ to 2¾ yesterday.

Bankers say that since the easy money policy had failed to stimulate business, and had been only partly successful in checking the flow of unwanted gold into this country, a return to a more normal basis could scarcely be regarded as adverse.

The weekly mercantile reviews were somewhat more cheerful, reporting better retail trade in many cities, and signs of restoration of confidence. Furthermore, the foreign trade figures for September showed a fair seasonal gain over August.

Proposes Change in Legal Bond Law

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Chairman Cheney, of the New York state joint legislative committee on banking and investcent trusts, following a two-day session of the committee, says the committee will recommend to the state Legislature in January an amendment to the existing law providing that obligations of railroads, which were legal investments on January 1, 1931, shall continue to be such as long as payments of interest and principal due are made.

N. Y. Curb Suspends Canadian Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Acting at the request of the Montreal Stock Exchange, the New York Curb today suspended trading here in the common stocks on Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company and Shawinigan Water and Power Company.

It was said that both issues had been selling at higher prices in Montreal than in New York and that because of restrictions on arbitrage the former exchange had asked that dealings here be stopped.

Chicago Reserve Bank Rate Same

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Following the meeting of directors of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank, no announcement was made regarding the rediscount rate, which is 2½ per cent.

COUNTRY STILL NEEDS HOMES FOR WORKERS

Modern, Habitable Houses For Two-Thirds of Our Population Are Lacking

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Financial Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—The defeatist assumption that the country has reached an economic saturation point falls down upon analysis.

The country is over-equipped in some directions but under-supplied in others.

Vast new markets lie immediately under our eyes. Millions of our people are poorly housed. Their needs could bring a higher standard of living to millions and at the same time to the lower strata of our economic system.

Mr. Rukeyser

For example, although in some cities there may be an excess supply of expensive apartments and hotels and office buildings throughout the country is shamefully undersupplied with decent modern habitable homes for the poorer two-thirds of our population. The boom was in buildings for the richer third of the population. Cheap building offers little opportunity for profiteering but is suited to limited dividend corporations.

Committees of experts are meeting all over the country to canvass the situation in preparation for the housing conference which President Hoover has called for December.

A comparison of slum conditions in New York and other leading American cities makes a poor showing against the progress which has been made in Vienna, Berlin and elsewhere. In Vienna, for example, public funds were used and the rents absurdly low constitute an indirect dole. Such a system is not suitable in the United States, where workers want to keep their self respect and pay for what they receive.

HOUSING NEEDED

Since business generally enormously needs the stimulus of a revival in the construction industry and since, at least from a qualitative standpoint, the greatest need is for modern, low-priced apartments for workingmen's families of moderate means, attention should be concentrated on this problem. The great life insurance companies and mutual savings banks, which are non-profit making institutions, have an especial responsibility to take the leadership in encouraging such projects, if soundly conceived.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has set a fine example in its array of low rental apartments in Long Island City. The Bowery Savings Bank was actuated by social considerations when it took the first mortgage on the huge model development on Grand street, New York. The Bronx Amalgamated Apartments, the development at Sunnyside Gardens, Long Island City, the Buhl Foundation project at Pittsburgh, and the model houses at Bridgeport, Conn., are pioneering examples of what can be accomplished by co-operative effort.

THE ROAD BACK -:- By Erich Maria Remarque

CHAPTER XXXII.

Willy goes every evening to Waldman's—that is a resort not far from the town where there is dancing in the afternoons and evenings—I am going tonight, too, for Karl Broger has told me that Adele is there sometimes. I should like to see her again.

All the windows of the garden ballroom at Waldman's are lit up. The shadows of the dancers move lightly across the drawn curtains. I take up a position at the bar and look around for Willy. Every table is occupied, there is not a chair free. There has been a perfect frenzy for amusement these last few months since the war.

My eye suddenly lights on a dazzling white waist coat and the majestical claw hammer of a swallow-tailed coat. Willy in his new cutaway! I stand there and blink. The coat is black, the vest white, and the hair red—a living flagpole.

Willy receives my astonishment affably as admiration. "You might well stare!" says he, turning himself around like a peacock. "My Kaiser-William-Memorial Cutaway! How do you like it? You would never have thought that could come out of an army greatcoat, now, would you?"

He pats me on the shoulder. "But it's grand that you've come. There's a dance tournament tonight; we're all in for it, fine prizes! It starts in half an hour."

ENTER CONTEST

Until then one may still try out one's paces. Willy has a sort of female pugilist for a partner, a great heftly creature. At the moment he is practicing a one-step with her, in which speed is the most noticeable feature. Karl, on the other hand, is dancing with a girl from the Food Office, all tricked out with rings and chains like a sleigh horse. In this way he combines business and pleasure most agreeably. But Albert—Albert is not at our table. A trifle shyly he salutes us from a corner, where he is sitting with a fair-haired girl.

I take a stroll around in the hope of picking up a good dancer. That is no simple matter. Many who at table appear light-footed as a doe turn out afterwards to dance no better than an elephant. And good dancers are much coveted, of course. However, I do at last succeed in bespeaking a little seamstress.

The orchestra sounds a flourish. A chap with a chrysanthemum in his buttonhole comes to the front and explains that a couple will now give a demonstration of the latest thing from Berlin—a fox-trot! That is unknown here as yet; we have only heard tell of it.

We gather around curiously. The orchestra strikes up a syncopated measure and the pair begin to skip around each other like a couple of spring lambs. Sometimes they will retreat from each other; then they will link arms again and twirl limping in a circle. Willy is craning his neck, his eyes as big as saucers. Here at last is a dance after his own heart.

The table with the prizes is brought in. We barge across. There are three prizes each for the one-step, the Boston and the fox-trot. The fox-trot rules us out, we cannot do that, but like old Blucher we mean to carry off the other two.

The first prize in each case is 10 gulls' eggs or a bottle of schnapps. Willy inquires suspiciously whether gulls' eggs are edible. Reassured, he comes back. The second prize is six gulls' eggs, or an all-wool Balaclava cap; the third, four eggs, or two packets of "Germany's Heroic Fame" cigarets. "We're not having them, anyhow," says Karl, who knows about such things.

The competition begins. We have entered Karl and Albert for the Boston; Willy and me for the one-step. But we have not very high hopes of Willy. He can win only if the judges have a sense of humor.

WILLY FOX-TROTS

In the Boston, Karl and Albert, with three other couples, reach the final round. Karl has the advantage—the high collar of his swagger uniform, his new patent-leather shoes, the chains and rings of his sleigh-horse make a picture of dazzling elegance that none could hope to rival. In style and deportment he is matchless, but in rhythm and sympathy Albert is at least as good. The judges are making notes solemnly, as though the elimination rounds for the Last Judgment were in progress at Waldman's. Karl wins and takes the 10 gulls' eggs—he knows the brand of schnapps too well, having sold it to the house himself. He very nobly presents us with the booty—he has better at home. Albert takes second prize. With an embarrassed glance in our direction, he carries off his six gulls' eggs to the fair-headed girl. Willy whistles.

With my little seamstress I sail away on the one-step—and also come to the final round. To my surprise, I see that Willy has just remained seated; he will not even try. I distinguish myself with a peculiar variant of the knee bend and backward chasse that I have not shown off before, and the little girl dances like thistledown. We carry off the second prize and share it between us.

Full of pride, I go back to our table with the silver medal of the National Union for Dancing pinned on my chest.

"Willy, you old putty-head!" I say, "why didn't you have a cut at it, anyway? You might even have got the bronze medal!"

The chap with the chrysanthemum then calls for competitors in the fox-trot. Only a few couples enter. Willy strides out onto the floor.

Fascinated, we hang over the backs of our chairs to see what he will do. The female lion-tamer is coming out to meet him. With a sweeping gesture, he offers his arm. The orchestra begins.

On the instant Willy is transfigured. He has turned into a runaway camel with an attack of St. Vitus' dance. He leaps in the air and he limps; he skips and he circles; he lashes out with his legs and tosses his lady to and fro; then, with a sort of pig's gallop, he goes careening down the room, the lion-tamer not before, but beside him, so that she is giving an exhibition of the bent-arm hang from his outstretched right arm, while he has full liberty on his other side to do his worst, without having to worry lest he tread on her feet. Then he is an impersonation of a roundabout, till his coat tails stand off at right angles; next moment he sets off with fancy skippings slantwise across the dance floor, bucking like a billy goat; he thunders and spins and rages, and finally winds up with a weird pirouette in which he whirls his lady high through the air.

WINS PRIZE

Not a soul in the hall doubts but that he is watching a hitherto unknown, professional exponent of some super fox-trot. Willy had seen his chance and made the most of it. His victory is so convincing that after him there is a long pause, and then the second prize. He holds up the bottle of schnapps to us in triumph. But he has sweated to such an extent that the dye in his cutaway has run badly; his shirt and waistcoat are quite black, while his swallowtail seems decidedly paler.

The competition is over, but the dancing continues. We sit around the table and drink up Willy's win. Only Albert is missing—wild horses would not drag him from his fair-headed girl.

"Where?" I ask quickly.

"Has she been here long?" I ask. I should like to think she had witnessed our triumph.

"With the stork?"

Synopsis

Ernst, who enlisted when a school-boy, tells the post-war story of a group of friends from the same city who return home when peace is made, to find a strange new world in which they seem to have no place. The problems of earning a living and of ajustment to conditions obsess them. Something seems lacking in life—what, none of the friends at first seem to know. Is it congenial work, or a woman's sympathy and understanding? Ernst, walking through his home town, glimpses Adele, a girl he knew in the old days. He speaks to her, bashfully. She greets him cordially. Joy suddenly fills the boy. Later he meets Tjaden, who has become engaged to a butcher's daughter. Then Valentin Laher rehearses for a dancing act with a woman partner. Ernst feels that perhaps he is on the threshold of a solution of his personal problems.

Now Go On

DAILY SHORT STORY

Pretty Girl Is Injured in Automobile Mishap

Yeah?

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Pete Tulliver was new to the gas route that lay between Bellport and Highland.

About noon he felt the need of food, and asked Stockey, the young chap from headquarters, who was showing him the route and the location of the customers, how about a place to eat.

In Daleville Peter parked the mammoth tank truck and crossed to the eating place Stockey indicated. It seemed to be a lively little restaurant. Pete devoted himself entirely to his ham and eggs and coffee, left a dime beside his plate and took his check over to the cashier's desk, where he deposited it with with right change.

"Sorry," said the cashier, "but that dime's phoney."

"Yeah?" asked Pete.

"Yeah."

Pete looked at the girl and then he gave her a second look and wondered where his eyes had been during his meal that he hadn't noticed her. The girl was pretty. Her hair was nearer the so-called "patinum" type than to pure golden blonde. Her eyes seemed to remind Pete of violets, which was remarkable because he wasn't at all inclined to be romantic.

USED TO COMPLIMENTS

The girl took the dime and eyed Pete narrowly. Pete's smile of admiration was as genuine as the dime. The girl couldn't take offense.

"Yeah?" she said.

"Yeah," Pete said.

The girl decided to smile at Pete.

"I'll be seeing you tomorrow," he said.

"Yeah?"

"Yeah."

Pete lighted a cigaret, flashed another smile at the girl and went out to his truck.

The girl, Hetty Clark, watched him cross the street, saw him mount the big truck and drive away. Hetty decided that this young man wasn't fresh at all. That was a relief. Hetty was used to compliments, and also used to remarks that were offensively suggestive. To these latter she had a way of seeming to freeze a chap with an icy stare that was nearly always confusing and effective.

"Darn pretty little skirt in there," Pete remarked to Stockey as he got under way.

"The prettier they are the more they sting you," Stockey growled. He was still paying installments for a ring that some pretty girl was wearing, and the address of the girl was, at that time, unknown to him.

STOPS FOR FOOD

"They all get stung, in time," Stockey warned him.

The next day Pete started off alone. He knew his route and the customers, and he knew how to get new customers, which was why the company had put him on this route where business seemed to be marking time.

At noon he reached Daleville again, thought of food again and then remembered the pretty girl in the cashier's cage.

There she was, as pretty as ever. Pete smiled at her. Hetty nodded pleasantly. Hetty wasn't one to encourage too many smiles on brief acquaintance.

When he went over to pay for his meal he handed her a bill.

"That isn't phoney, is it?" he asked.

"No."

He pocketed the change without looking at it.

"How do you know but what some of that change is phoney?" Hetty asked, mischievously.

"I wouldn't kick, so long as it was you who handed it to me, Handsome."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah. I'll be seeing you tomorrow."

Hetty watched him.

Mrs. Hutton, who owned the restaurant, chanced to be at hand.

"Guess he'll be another regular on account of driving through with that gas," she remarked. Daleville was not much of a metropolis and it was easy to keep track of what was going on along its single business street.

"I don't know about that," Hetty answered, "only he said he'd be seeing me tomorrow."

Mrs. Hutton grinned. "Same old line?" she asked.

"Freak?"

"Yeah. Any man's who's regular, you know, on the up-and-up, and real nice, he's a freak on account of being so scarce."

"And he didn't try to date you or make any cracks?"

The next day it rained. Pete Tulliver appeared at the little eating place as usual, except with the addition of a slicker, which he hung up when he entered.

"Kind of a rotten day," Hetty murmured when he passed her cage and smiled at her.

"It was until I got here and had a look at you," Pete answered.

"Yeah?"

"Yeah."

Hetty favored him with a smile that was genuine, not the forced, stereotyped smile of business. Pete was quite cheerful through his meal. When he went to the cage to pay a torrent of rain was falling.

"Too bad you have to go out in that flood," she said.

"I ain't like you; I won't melt," he told her.

"You stay in out of the rain, Handsome, or else you will just melt away, seeing as how you're all sugar!"

"Yeah?"

"Yeah. I'll be seeing you tomorrow."

GIVES NAME CARD

"With another line?"

"No line. Say, I got a name and I'll bet you have," and Peter flipped a card through the wicket.

"I ain't the gas company; I'm the guy down in the corner," he told her, indicating the line; "Represented by Mr. Peter J. Tulliver."

"Now, I thought you were the gas company," and Hetty scribbled "Miss Harriett Clark" on one of the cards advertising the "Bon-Ton Eatery."

"Hetty for short, eh?" Peter asked. Hetty nodded. "'S darn pretty name for a darn pretty girl."

"Yeah?" Hetty asked.

"Yeah."

"You don't give me no headache, Big Boy."

Peter went on his way. The next day he paused and said, "Glad you didn't go out in the rain yesterday, Hetty, and melt away."

"Thanks, Peter."

Through the Summer Hetty and Peter always had a few cheerful words, half kidding, half sentimental.

And then, one day, Pete stopped short when he entered, for there was no beautiful Hetty in the cashier's cage. Mrs. Hutton was presiding there.

"Where's Hetty?" Peter asked.

"She got hurt." Mrs. Hutton smiled at Peter's visible alarm. "Nothing awful bad, a car skidded and hurt her foot. She'll be able to hobble out in a few days."

"Where's she live?"

"Thanks."

Peter rushed through his meal, paid his check and dashed out. He got a box of candy, some magazines and some flowers and hunted up the Sturgis Millinery Shoppe.

"She's all alone up there. I don't know about you going up," Mrs. Sturgis protested when Peter told his errand.

"I guess she won't hurt me none—is this the way up these stairs?" Before Mrs. Sturgis could reply Peter was on his way up.

"Gosh, Hetty, this is awful tough on you—is your foot hurt bad?" Pete asked, rushing up to her and depositing his gifts in a chair beside her.

"It didn't do my foot any good, Pete, but Doc says I won't be crippled."

"Do you want another doctor—specialist or something?"

"Of course not—but thank you."

"I got to run, Hetty—say, I'm gonna kiss you."

"Yeah."

Hetty was back at the cashier's cage in a few days. Peter had been up for a moment each day, to leave some little gift, before she could get out.

"What's the matter, Big Boy?" Hetty asked.

"Plenty—say, if I drive back here tonight in my car can I see you?"

"Is that nice, Peter—trying to date me up?"

RECEIVES PROMOTION

"I'm coming out," he insisted. He did, and called for her.

"Listen," he said, "tomorrow's my last trip over this route."

"Why, Peter—lost your job? I'm so sorry—"

"Why, that's splendid; why so gloomy?"

"Say, I wouldn't be seeing you, Handsome—I got a good mind to refuse th' promotion. Say, Hetty—couldn't we be married tomorrow? I can get a swell little place in Bellport."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah."

This is Semitonic G. Doakes, lifelong temperance worker, who became violent at a late hour yesterday and has been confined in the psychopathic ward for observance. Doakes was known to have been brooding and otherwise behaving in a strange manner for weeks since he happened to think what a wonderful argument present conditions would be for prohibition if we didn't already have it.

CORRUPTION BLUES

If he would only run his beer,
This land of so much liberty
Would not be in such misery—
But in addition to the beer
The wiley, ruthless racketeer
Runs the courts of justice, too,
In fact he's running me and you,
You may not know, but must suspect
He runs officials you elect—
Unless we show more indignation
Racketeers will run the nation.

American Electorate Affronted as U. S. 'Joins' League To Meddle in Far East Strife

The League of Nations Council has voted to ask the United States to participate in its deliberations regarding the conflict in Manchuria between China and Japan.

The opposition of the Japanese representative upon the council was overruled, and it was decided to extend this invitation, notwithstanding the negative vote of Japan.

It is the present program to read the invitation, and thus publish it to the world, at the open meeting of the council to be held today. This will be done in the presence of the American representative, now in attendance upon the council and destined to be a participant in the future meetings of the League's executive board, at which efforts will be made to force Japan's acceptance of the League's unsought and already repelled intervention.

This is an amazing situation.

It constitutes an affront to the American electorate which has no precedent.

It makes the United States, to all intents and purposes, a member of the League of Nations, and even more than that—a member of its inner and guiding council, sharing in the most significant and audacious action which the League has ever taken.

And this is done notwithstanding the fact that the United States has repeatedly, and with ever mounting majorities of its electorate, DECLINED to become a member of the League of Nations.

This action could not have been taken without the countenance and encouragement of President Hoover, who became President as the candidate of a national party pledged to our abstention from membership in the League of Nations.

In pursuing his present course, the President is betraying the Republican party which elected him, fastening upon it, inseparably with himself, joint responsibility for the betrayal of the United States.

Mr. Hoover's Secretary of State should bear in mind the words of former Secretary Hughes, who said:

"As the United States has decided not to become a member of the League of Nations, this government cannot act as though it were a member."

They will not see a great principle to which they have consistently adhered, and a great policy which they have pursued without deviation, sacrificed by an internationalist such as Mr. Hoover reveals himself, infatuated by the dream of his own aggrandizement as a super-national figure.

Purge the City Payroll

A Thorough Inquiry as to the Service Rendered by Municipal Employes Is in Order.

It came to light yesterday that William A. Farren, a radio announcer, was paid $1,052.33 as a city employe from January 1 to October 1. He was listed as a "clerk," but an inquiry as to what kind of work he did brought the answer that he turned off the water of delinquent taxpayers.

Farren has been associated with City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley as radio announcer at hockey games in which Schooley's team played, and has made extensive out of town trips with the team.

The case gives point to the demand of the League of Women Voters that Controller James P. Kerr investigate the city payroll with a view to ascertaining if it contains persons who are taking the taxpayers' money without giving service of commensurate value in return.

Under Mayor Kline's administration the city's expenditures for wages and salaries have increased from $9,143,175 to $12,734,665 a year. It is in order to inquire for what service this money was paid.

The Controller has authority for such an investigation in that section of the law defining his duties which says:

"Whenever a warrant or claim shall be presented to him, he shall have power to require evidence that the amount claimed is justly due, and for that purpose may summon before him any officer, agent or employe of any department of the city, or any other person, and examine him, upon oath or affirmation, relative to such warrant or claim."

By making use of this power Controller Kerr may succeed in ridding the payroll of parasites preying on the public.

Founder's Day

Pittsburgh Is Again Reminded of the Debt of Gratitude It Owes to Andrew Carnegie.

Founder's Day at Carnegie Institute, with its impressive exercises and international exhibition of paintings, again reminds us of the debt of gratitude that we owe Andrew Carnegie.

Try to imagine Pittsburgh without Carnegie Institute and its varied services to the public! We could not conveniently get along without it.

Carnegie Institute is an indispensable adjunct of our educational system. The library, the museum, the art galleries and music hall supplement the work of the public schools and the universities.

But the institute not only promotes education, but furnishes pure entertainment of a very high order. A person may not care a jot about improving his mind and at the same time find the institute very worth while because of the pleasure to be had from its free organ recitals, free illustrated lectures, its picture galleries and reading rooms.

Gustatory Delights

We Can Offer the Earl of Gosford a Few of Our Own.

The Earl of Gosford may or may not have learned of the recent census figures which show that Pittsburgh housewives spend more on the average for their tables than the housewives of other large American cities.

At any rate he has come to Pittsburgh as representative of an old English grocery firm with a view to introducing rare and delicate viands with which the average Pittsburgher is not familiar.

Lord Gosford expatiates in an interview on the gastronomic pleasures that are to be enjoyed in England and mentions such things as Cornish pastries, Smyrna honey, turtle meat from China and sturgeon spine from Russia.

These foods may be every bit as toothsome as Lord Gosford gives us to believe. But we would like to know if he has ever experienced the gustatory delights of Pennsylvania buckwheat cakes with maple syrup from Somerset or Crawford County, or Pennsylvania scrapple or pepper pot soup as made by the Pennsylvania Dutch, or Pennsylvania apple butter, or Pennsylvania brook trout.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Why Is a Husband?

* * *

She wanted love. She wanted a home. She wanted children. She wanted a provider. Or she wanted to get off the "old maid" list and to stop hearing her family apologize for her single-blessedness!

* * *

* * *

But when you look at a modern, efficient young woman and the male annex she some times acquires, you cannot help wonder what DROVE her to it. Of course, most girls marry for LOVE—or for what they think is love—but there are still lots of subsidiary "reasons" which make marriage look alluring.

For instance, many a tired business girl has married just for the sake of having her breakfast in bed and her dinner in a dining room, instead of in a tea room or a "breakfast nook."

* * *

Many a successful business or professional woman has married just for the sake of "mothering" some man, having somebody "depending" on her, and thereby domesticating her life and giving it a real motif.

* * *

Many a lonely widow has stepped back to the altar, just for the sake of smelling cigar smoke around the house again, and hearing a watch wound at night. Just in order to have the day "punctuated" by a man's departure, and return! Or to have someone around to make dinner worth getting and breakfast worth getting UP for. For if husband serves no other purpose, he divides the day into periods and gives the clock a meaning.

Many a bored divorcee has remarried just in order to dodge the loneliness and futility of unattaching middle age; and to make it worth while to sign a lease and order a daily newspaper.

* * *

All she asks of a man is that he be a symbol in her life—something to "keep up a home for" use as an escort and display to the servants and the neighbors as the apparent reason for her existence.

* * *

And many a thoroughly sophisticated, modernistic girl has rushed into marriage merely in order to escape from parental authority and try out her "theories of life." Many a girl has left a good home, where they listened for her latch key, to live in a two-by-four flat and listen for a man's latch key.

* * *

And many a girl has married just in order to prove that she COULD, to get marriage out of her system and a husband off her MIND.

* * *

For the truth is that NO woman is ORIENTATED until she is married. Her life may be brilliant, useful and beautiful—but it doesn't MEAN anything. For men and women, like shoes and gloves, were meant to come in pairs—and neither amounts to much without the other. THAT'S why they marry!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I hated someone.

For years that hate went on. It was quite a nuisance. It prevented my going certain places. It cut off from several pleasant people. It made me reject some good opportunities. Worst of all, it was a secret center of infection in my life. No matter how happy I was, how busy and friendly in my other relationships, that core of bitterness remained within me, spreading its poison of resentment and suspicion into everything I did.

The other day, the person I hated died.

It startled me. He had become, through my hate, such an important person in my life. I could hardly realize that he had gone out of my life forever . . . that he would never hurt me again.

Then, as one does, I began to check up on all the harm he had done me. I discovered, with great amazement, that he had not harmed me for many years. Nor had I actually suffered from the effect of his old injury during those years. I had really been perfectly free from him and his malice, BUT I HAD GONE ON HATING BECAUSE I HAD ACQUIRED THE HABIT OF HATING. I HAD GONE ON WASTING MY ENERGIES, POISONING MY SPIRIT, LIMITING MY LIFE . . . THOUGH THE ACTUAL BARRIER AGAINST HAPPINESS HAD LONG SINCE BEEN REMOVED.

And I remember something that had happened when my little lad was here. Two years old—into everything—you know how they are at that age. I was busy . . . couldn't race after him. So I built a low fence across the big bay window and popped him in there with his toys.

Mad? Insulted? What that half-portion of golden haired baby felt about that fence could be heard for five blocks. He yelled, he shrieked . . . standing behind the fence, fists doubled, eyes squeezed tight, he opened his mouth and shot the works.

Laughing to myself, I tip-toed up, removed the fence, without his knowledge. On went the yells. The howls redoubled. But finally, his wind gave out. Slowly, reluctantly, he opened one furious blue eye . . . then both! The fence was gone! All those howls for nothing! Such a sheepish little boy grinned back at me.

The fence has disappeared, but he had gone on yelling . . . my hurt had vanished, but I had gone on hating!

"Oh, little lad," I whispered, through sudden, understanding tears, "what foolish children we both were. Still crying though the barriers have gone. Have you learned better, in that place where you are now? Perhaps I will—some day."

And I thought how it is that way with all of us. What time, what energy we waste in grieving over some past pain, or fear, or wrong. The chances we miss, thinking ourselves shackled! The tears of self-pity that we shed! The envy we feel for more fortunate, free souls!

AND ALL THE WHILE WE ARE AS FREE AS THEY!

THERE IS NO BARRIER . . . IT PASSED LONG AGO!

BUT, IN OUR MINDS, WE STILL BELIEVE IT'S THERE AND SO WE STILL STAND BARRED . . . BY SHADOWS.

Those All-Important Endocrine Glands

By Archibald Henderson

Within recent years, extraordinary interest has been exhibited by scientists and public alike in the glands and organs in the body known as the endocrine system. The endocrinal glands are those which produce a certain important internal secretions which have a powerful action of a transforming character upon particular organs and hence upon the human body.

Much has appeared in the press often of a sensational character, concerning these glands of internal secretion. These internal secretions are products given up directly to the blood or lymph, the latter being a nearly colorless, slightly alkiline fluid derived from the tissues of the body and conveyed to the blood stream by the lymphatic vessels. Articles have appeared in the press under such titles as the Chemistry of the Soul, the Glands of Destiny, Rejuvenation Through Monkey Glands, and the like.

It is customary to call the endocrine glands the ductless glands, that is, glands which have no ducts for discharge, but give up their products directly to the blood or lymph. This is an incorrect classification, since certain endocrine glands or organs, notably the pancreas, not only give up products directly to the blood or lymph, but also discharge otherwise through ducts.

It is certain that the internal secretions play a really remarkable part in our physical and mental state, whether of well-being or of ill-being. These internal secretions, technically called hormones, profoundly influence our body structure, our health and our whole personality.

It is taken for granted that the central nervous system constitutes the most important factor in keeping the parts of the body in harmonious operation and correlation. Next in importance to the nervous system in this respect come the secretions themselves. As Prof. Guyer points out, they are necessary for normal development and growth. They can stimulate or inhibit the activity of some organ or tissue in a part of the body far distant from the source of the secretion itself. Making all allowances for sensational accounts of the effects of these secretions, the results already achieved by the biologist, the pathologist and the biochemist, are significant and suggestive of far more important discoveries in the future.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Old Trees

Among themselves the old trees softly talk,
But not in an upstart, witless way;
Sometimes I linger in my twilight walk
To ponder on the things I hear them say.

The oak that stands upon the garden's edge
Confines his longing to the pine nearby;
As once I stood half-hidden by the hedge
He murmured with a sudden, long-drawn sigh:

"Do you remember, Brother Pine, the days
When we alike were slender in our girth
And little versed in men and all their ways
Upon this changeful, ever-loving Earth?

"Now we have learned through decades slow and long
That man may be like pine tree or like rose,
Some lift their boughs to winter with a song
And others quail before each storm that blows;

"They are our little brothers, Brother Pine,
And we can shield them from the sun and wind."
Sometimes I linger when the first stars shine

Grand Opera Singer at 19

Partly from Luck, Chiefly from Pluck.

MISS SERAFINA DI LEO

Hundreds of American girls will admire and secretly envy this young New York girl on whom fortune has smiled. She has just completed a course of vocal study in Italy. In a few days she will make her debut with the Chicago Civic Opera.

She is the daughter of a laborer now dead. Though she had a beautiful soprano voice, there was no money in the family to give her the training she desired.

Then the unexpected happened. Mme. Giovanni Martinelli, wife of the famous Metropolitan tenor, heard her sing, and raised the funds to send her to Italy. That was three years ago. She is only 19 now, and on the threshold of a career.

It sounds like a good luck story, but it was not all luck. Miss di Leo, even as a child, knew she could sing. And she did not wait for somebody to discover her, but went to Mme. Martinelli and sang for her. She had confidence in what she could do, and did it.

This girl, though modest, would probably tell you that success is seldom an accident. Back of it is talent, determination and the readiness to take advantage of an opportunity when it offers.

The thing that makes it valuable is the ability to PUT IT TO WORK FOR YOU when it comes.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Thoughts while strolling: I'm always mixing up Arthur Train and Arthur Stringer. Anyway one or the other married Johyna Howland. And she's a grand comedienne. What happened to the old expression: "As good as wheat?" Katherine Brush is a striking image of a famous Italian princess.

Damon Runyon, a Pueblo, Col., boy, who made good in the city. Taxis with silvered tops and plaid bodies. Young Rockefeller sauntering up the avenue. He doesn't seem depressed by his "paper losses." That show-off debutante with the Mae West slouch. And the depression is putting a crimp in debutanting. Goody!

All the Beauty Salons are named for Hollywood. It used to be Paris. Wonder why they don't make a full length Mickey Mouse? That pert little haberdashery on 49th street that heralds: "Big Re-Organization Sale." I'd like to see Messmore Kendall and Lee Olwell in an eyebrow-matching contest.

George Buckley stepping high after three years strapped to a plank in a hospital. On Broadway they call playing a practical joke—"giving him the business." George Gershwin and his Dad. Pals. Their comradeship recalls the late Don Allen and his father. They worked, played and traveled together.

On a street in Chicago one day the father stopped suddenly, gasped: "So long, son," and fell lifeless. And in a short while Don was a suicide in Boston. Dudley Field Malone could double for Winston Churchill. Something restful about church steps in twilight. I always want to sit there.

Frank Sullivan is taking on another chin. What became of Magistrate Jean Norris? They report a high yellow gal has an apartment in one of the smartest hotels. A lull in "love nest" shootings. And tooth paste people haven't discovered a new disease to cure lately.

James Gerard has the shortest neck in town. John Charles Thomas has the smallest ears. Elsie Bartlett the greenest eyes and Robert Sherwood the longest legs. Young Will Hearst needs a haircut. Dusk in a public square. The clutch of lovers' hands. And a blaze in their eyes.

I wonder what others do in those moments of acute embarrasement resulting from stupid blunders. Last evening in a sudden shower while trying to hail a taxi an auto passed. I thought I recognized in it a gentleman I knew and when he stopped at my signal, opened the door and plopped in the seat beside him. As the car started I recognized the mistake. He was a total stranger but generously carried me home. In thanking him I said: "It was lucky I found you were someone else, but I'm mighty grateful just the same." And any bright scholar making sense out of that one is entitled to a crock of braided spinach.

But top honors for excited confusion still goes to the man in our town who shrieked to the owner of a barking dog: "Call off your dog off or I'll knock off his head off."

There is something near grand literature in this penciled postcard from one signing himself "A Bowery Lodging House Guest." "My heart, utterly drained of courage, feebly fluttered between the warmth of life and the cold terror of death this evening. In a movie whither I crept, because it offers nearest to the disillusionment of a booze I cannot afford, a young girl sat in an adjoining seat. She was the type, as proud and swift as a mustang's colt, of which any father might be proud. In what looked to her as a fumble in the darkness for the arm of the seat, my hand closed over hers and I departed. She was my daughter. Four years ago I was her hero. And the old story—market, gambling, drink, a Bowery flop and oblivion."

The late T. A. Dorgan (Tad) was an established artist when an accident in San Francisco deprived him of most of his fingers of his drawing hand. Instead of taking the count, Tad learned to draw all over again with his left hand and reached even greater heights. Intimates of H. T. Webster, the cartoonist, have recently learned that due to a nerve trouble in his right arm his days at the drawing board were numbered. He, like Tad, mastered his art with his left hand, and for five years has not used his right in limning. And doing his very best work with the change.
